Broaddus Named GCC Assistant Prof. Of English

A woman who used to pretend she was a teacher as a little girl and once saved her allowance to purchase a grade book has accepted the position of assistant professor of English at Garrett Community College. Virginia Broaddus will teach composition and literature courses beginning in the fall semester.

Ms. Broaddus, whose grandmother was a teacher, remembers how as a child she had no playmates because her family moved frequently and she would create a classroom out of a closet, peopling it with imaginary students for whom she developed syllabi, quizzes, and paper assignments. Years later she acquired her first real experience as an assistant teacher at Davidson College, a teaching assistant at North Carolina State University and West Virginia University, and an adjunct instructor at Frostburg State University and Shepherd College. Now she views her new assignment at GCC as a "dream come true."

"I have always wanted to be a part of a small academic environment," she said. "I like the fact that students matter most here, and that the community is supportive of the college."

In addition to her previous teaching experience, Ms. Broaddus has worked at a variety of jobs, including that of admissions officer at Davidson College in North Carolina. Pursuing cooking as one of her hobbies, she also worked as a chef and has managed a French bakery and a law firm office.

Ms. Broaddus holds an A.B. degree in English from Davidson College, an M.A. in English from North Carolina State University, and will complete her Ph.D. in English at West Virginia University in August. During her academic career she has been the recipient of numerous awards and honors, including the Stephen F. Crocker Dissertation Fellowship and Outstanding Graduate Teaching Award at West Virginia University, the Outstanding Teaching Assistant Award and Phi Kappa Phi at North Carolina State University, and Omicron Delta Kappa and Lunsford Richardson Scholar at Davidson College.

A native of Richmond, where she lived as a child, she now lives in Fairmont, W.Va., with her husband, Eric Whytsell, an attorney.

Forest Products Operators Attend Logger Workshop

Sixteen forest products operators attended a Maryland Master Logger Program Workshop on wildlife management at the Department of Natural Resources (DNR), Forest Service facility at Mt. Nebo near Oakland on Saturday. This workshop was a part of the continuing education requirements of the Maryland Master Logger Program, which is sponsored by the Maryland Forests Association, the Resource and Conservation and Development Councils of MD, MD DNR Forest Service, and the U.S. Forest Service.

Threatened and endangered species concerns were also discussed. The training session was presented by John Jastrzembski, professor of forestry at Allegany College of Maryland, and Kevin Dodge, professor of wildlife biology at Garrett Community College.

The Master Logger Program is a series of comprehensive training courses designed to help the logging professional meet the demands of being in business today. The initial training covers five areas which include Best Management Practices, (BMPs), logging aesthetics, forest management, logging safety and OSHA, and first aid and CPR. Robert Huebner Named Realtor Of The Year For Garrett County

In a recent meeting, the Garrett County Board of Realtors announced that it has selected Robert Huebner, broker/owner of Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty, as Realtor of the Year. This award is given each year to a member of the board who best demonstrates "realtor spirit," participation in the local, state, and national levels of the realtor organization, and involvement in Garrett County civic and charitable activities. Huebner was selected from among the 100 members of the organization on the basis of these criteria.

Huebner has been involved in many activities in Garrett County since first purchasing property here in 1973, while employed as a professor at the University of Maryland in College Park. He and his family rented cottages and boats to vacationers beginning in the late 1970s. He acquired Deep Creek Realty in 1985 and has been the broker of the company since that time.

For many years he commuted between his homes in Columbia and Deep Creek Lake while teaching at the University of Maryland. He led a program for the university which allowed residents of Garrett County to earn a master's degree in human development without having to travel to College Park.

After retiring from University of Maryland in 1995, Huebner and his wife Marcene moved permanently to Garrett County. Since that time, he has served the Board of Realtors in a number of areas, many relating to his strong interest in promoting professionalism and a high ethical standard in the real estate profession.

He has been a member of the Board of Directors of the Garrett County Board of Realtors since 1993, holding the offices of president elect in 1995-96, and president in 1996-97. He served as chair of Professional Standards Committee from 1994 to 1996. Recently, he represented Garrett County on a committee that recommended regionalization of Professional Standards functions. He is serving a fiveyear term as a member of State Professional Standards Committee, and is currently vice president of that committee.

In 1995, Huebner was invited by the Maryland Association of Realtors to become a member of a new committee, the State Mediation Oversight Committee. He is also a member of the State Shared Services Task Force.

As broker of Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty, Huebner was among the first real estate professionals in the area to recognize the industry trend toward representing buyers, as well as sellers, in real estate transactions. Traditionally, the industry represented only sellers of property, although buyers often mistakenly believed that the agent they worked with was looking out for their best interests. Huebner says he believes that buyer representation allows "a more honest and natural relationship" between buyers and sellers of property and their agents, and in 1994 he began preparing and training his company sales associates to allow them to offer this service. Presently, seven Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty associates have received, or are candidates for, nationally recognized advanced certification in Buyer Representation.

On a personal business level, in 1996 Huebner negotiated the sale of a 2,000-acre parcel of land, just west of the Maryland line, to the state of West Virginia. This land lay opposite the Cooper's Rock overlook, bordering the Cheat River. Several groups in West Virginia were eager to purchase this parcel to preserve the view from Cooper's Rock, but previous negotiations over the last six years had failed.

Huebner's interest in housing in Garrett County has extended to participation in the Garrett County Habitat for Humanity organization. He serves on the Board of Directors of Habitat for Humanity, and is chair of a committee established by Habitat for the purpose of establishing a collection/distribution facility for donated furniture, furnishings, appliances, building materials, and clothing. The facility will be owned and operated by Garrett Cooperative Ministry, Inc., a newly formed non-profit organization. Donated items will be given to those in critical need and sold for nominal amounts to those with limited means. Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty made a contribution of $40,000 to Habitat for Humanity to be used as seed money for the establishment of the facility. Together with other Coldwell Banker associates, Huebner and the company have raised money and provided food for Habitat work camp crews and recently volunteered labor at a homesite.

Under Huebner's leadership, Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty is also a corporate sponsor of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival.

Huebner is a member of St. Mark's Lutheran Church and choir, the Oakland/Mountain Lake Park Lions Club, and the Garrett Choral Society. He lives on Deep Creek Lake with his wife Marcene, and has four grown children in Garrett County, Texas, and Arizona.

Farm Bureau Seeks Support For Ag In The Classroom Program

Since 1981, the Agriculture in the Classroom program has helped teach children the importance of farming and the source of their food supply. The program deserves congressional authorization and continued support from the Agriculture Department, according to Linda Reinhardt, chair of the American Farm Bureau Women's Committee.

"The goal of the program is to teach children about the importance of production agriculture so that they will have an understanding of where the food they buy in the supermarket and the clothes they buy in department stores come from," Reinhardt told the House Agriculture Subcommittee on Forestry, Resource Conservation and Research last week.

The Agriculture in the Classroom program began as a strategy to deal with the problem of an entire generation of children growing up with limited knowledge of farming. The program, as Reinhardt comments, has been successful, with only $200,000 annually from the Agriculture Department.

"Agriculture in the Classroom is not a federally operated program," she explained. "The program was designed to be run by the individual states for incorporation into their curricula. USDA's role is to act as a clearinghouse for information and ideas developed by the states for their programs, and also to provide resources and materials to assist the states in developing a complete curriculum."

Reinhardt said the program also has benefited from the private support of organizations such as the American Farm Bureau Federation, which has been a supporter from the program's inception. Agriculture in the Classroom has been adopted at some level in all 50 states and Puerto Rico. Teachers continue to provide positive feedback on the need for the program.

The program is not limited to textbooks. According to Reinhardt, many states have adopted a more "hands on" teaching approach. In Colorado, for example, "urban high school students actually live and work on farms and ranches as part of their education," she said.

"This is the type of cutting edge educational innovation that has made Agriculture in the Classroom such a valuable educational experience for students and teachers alike," Reinhardt said. "Agriculture in the Classroom has never been authorized by Congress. Instead, it has had to rely on the discretion of the secretary of agriculture for its funding and presence within the USDA."

Reinhardt, a member of the AFBF board of directors, said there is a need for federal support for the program to ensure its continued success.

"This is the only program that provides a chance for many city and suburban students to see where the goods they buy come from," she said. "As our nation becomes increasingly urbanized, the continued existence and funding for this program will become more and more important."

She asked the subcommittee to support congressional authorization of the program as it exists.

Farm Bureau can provide fair passes to those who sign up to work. To reserve working hours at the fair, those interested should call 301-746-8484 or 301-387-7231 as soon as possible. Farm Bureau Secretary/Treasurer Clark Kolb says, "Everyone's help is very appreciated."

Farm Service Agency Reports Program Updates

Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) is a new conservation program that replaces the Agricultural Conservation Program. EQIP is designed to help solve critical conservation problems on farm land. Erosion control, water quality and wildlife are some of the priorities that will receive assistance. A plan identifying needs for the farm will be developed by the Natural Resources and Conservation Service (NRCS) and will take between five and 10 years to complete the practices. Cost share will be available on each eligible practice included in the plan. All applications will be ranked according to the severity of the problem versus the cost of the practice and will compete for funding within a targeted area. Signup began on July 14 and will run until August 8. For answers to additional questions, interested persons may call the Garrett NRCS office at 301-334-6950 or the Allegany NRCS office at 301-777-1494.

Farm Service Agency Committee elections for Garrett and Allegany counties will be combined into three local administrative areas this year. Nominations for election will be accepted until October 27. Ballots for election will be mailed on November 21, and the last day to return the ballots is December 1. Those interested may contact the Garrett County FSA office at 301-334-6954 or Allegany County FSA office at 301-777-1536 for additional information.

Crop reporting deadline was July 15 for Garrett and Allegany counties.

The new FSA office is located at 1916 Maryland Highway (Rt. 135) near Southern States.

Cookies Are Needed For Farm Safety Day

All Garrett County Farm Bureau women are being asked to bake four dozen cookies for Farm Safety Day, which will be held on Saturday, July 26. The cookies should be wrapped in packages of two and taken to the Garrett County Extension Office or to the home of Fannie Mae Kolb by 4:30 p.m. on Friday, July 25.

This year Farm Safety Day will include an adult group as well as classes for 9 through 18-year olds. For more information, those interested may call 301-746-8484 or 301-334-6960.

Read. Then Recycle.

COMMUNITY SUPPORT and the spirit of volunteerism play a large role in the success of the Garrett County Farm Safety Day Camp, set for Saturday, July 26, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry. Many organizations and individuals give their time or provide the needed supplies and funding to make farms safer places for young people. The volunteers in the above photo are Rose Harsh, left, and Brenda Hartshell. The Farm Safety Day Camp, in its third year, is sponsored by the Agricultural Care & Education (ACE) program of Garrett County Memorial Hospital, the Garrett County Health Department, and the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services Systems. The ACE program will join forces with Progressive Farmer magazine as well as the University of Maryland and West Virginia University cooperative extensions to teach children and teens (ages 9-18) about farm safety hazards. The camp is open to area youth who live or work on farms. The cost to attend the camp is $5 per person, and the deadline to register is July 18. To register or assist with the camp, persons may call Garrett County Memorial Hospital at 301-334-2155, ext. 411; the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-8111; or the local cooperative extension service.

Warning! Potato Leafhoppers are Swarming

The potato leafhopper seems to be almost everywhere. The warm, southern winds have carried a huge population into our area. Last week I found them in a clover field. This was one of the few times I had seen the leafhopper do serious damage to clover. Many of you will be approaching the second cutting; therefore, plan to harvest within the next few days. Keep a very close eye on the new regrowth because I would suspect that you will have to use an insecticide. All of the recommended insecticides have time limits on days before harvest; therefore, make sure you select a material that fits into your cutting schedule. The following insecticides are recommended for leafhopper control: Ambush, Pounce, Penncap-M, Lorsban 4E, Guthion 3, Furadan 4F, Baythroid 2E, and Dimethoate 4EC.

Post-Frame Building Handbook Offered By Extension Service

From livestock shelters to feed storages to warehouses, post-frame utility buildings, formerly called "pole barns," are versatile and economical structures. In a clear, easy-to-follow style, the 1997 revision of Post-Frame Building Handbook: Materials, Design Consideration, Construction Procedures, NRAES-1, presents the latest design considerations and construction methods for post-frame buildings. Enhanced by 60 illustrations and 31 tables, the book provides essential information for the preliminary design of a modern post-frame structure. The handbook will be a useful resource for a variety of construction projects.

Post-Frame Building Handbook is a major revision of the popular NRAES publication Pole and Post Buildings: Design and Construction Handbook (1984). The 1997 edition has a fresh 78-page format that includes 38 additional illustrations. Completely new sections have been added on a number of topics, including building codes, zoning regulations, functional planning, heating and ventilation, structural wood products, design stresses, earthquake loading, critical load combinations, and engineering safety factors. The impact of diaphragm action on the design of a modern post-frame building is also introduced in this edition. Sections that have been extensively updated and expanded include wood preservative treatment, structural lumber grades, site drainage and planning, post foundation design, frost action, truss and roof bracing, wood fasteners, structural loading, construction safety, and bulk storage of commodities.

Throughout the book, examples are used to illustrate important design procedures and equations. Detailed maps present newly revised snow loads, wind loads, and extreme frost depths across the continental United States. A revised appendix includes a handy list of unit conversion factors, a table summarizing sectional properties of standard dressed sawn lumber, and a construction checklist. Post-Frame Building Handbook is an ideal guide and ready reference for those working in the lumber or construction industry and for others who want to learn the fundamentals of post-frame building construction.

Post-Frame Building Handbook, NRAES-1, is available for $12.00 per copy (plus shipping and handling) from NRAES, Cooperative Extension, 152 Riley-Robb Hall, Ithaca, New York 14853-5701. The shipping and handling charge is $3.50 for a single copy within the continental United States. If ordering more than one copy, please contact NRAES for shipping costs. Major credit cards are accepted, and checks should be made payable to NRAES. Contact NRAES by phone at (607) 255-7654, by fax at (607) 254-8770, or by E-mail at nraes@cornell.edu.NRAES also maintains a Web site at http://rcwpsun.cas.psu.edu/-NRAES.

Organizations Submit Requests To United Way

Human service organizations are currently making their case to the County United Way Allocations Committee for 1998 funding. The committee is learning about programs designed to address children's issues, strengthen families, care for the elderly, and overcome disabilities.

Twenty-four non-profit agencies have asked for a total funding appropriation of $920,803, according to John Turner, human resource manager, Hunter Douglas Fabrication, and chairman of the CUW Allocations Committee. "The difficult task for the committee is to reduce this number to one that is reasonable to raise in the seven counties served by County United Way," stated Turner. Communities contributed $708,370 to the County United Way in 1996 to help alleviate local social issues such as domestic violence, medication assistance, shelter needs, hunger, mental health problems, and disaster relief.

Volunteering with Turner on the 1997 County United Way Allocations Committee are Rich Angerman, Gary Beckward, Ben Berry, Barbara Cadwallader, Lester "Skip" Clifford, Carol Clulee, Ron Coleman, Ranjitt Dhillon, Janice Felipa, Steve Finger, Kathy Getty, Mike Giovinazzo, Gayle Griffith, Dan Howell, and Faye Hutt.

Kerry Kelly, Janet Knisley, Larry Knott, Regis Larkin, Bill McElvie, Jeff McKenzie, Lori Opel, John Parsons, Dick Paulman, Edith Robb, Kathy Rogers, Dr. Magno Roque, Harry Smith, Judy Snyder, Gary Stein, and Rick Thayer are also serving on the Allocations Committee.

Donors were invited in 1996 to express their concerns for critical issues in their community. Emphasis is being placed on those concerns during the allocations reviews. During the 1997 fund-raising campaign, donors will be given the opportunity to direct their charitable contributions toward programs designed to relieve their concerns, as selected for funding by the Allocations Committee. Subsequently funded programs will be monitored for success following their implementation.

For more information about the County United Way, persons may telephone 301-722-2700 in Cumberland or 301-359-9697 in Keyser and Oakland.

Sign-Up For Moth Suppression Now Underway

Landowners in 23 West Virginia counties are eligible to sign up for the 1998 Cooperative State-County-Landowner Gypsy Moth Suppression Program.

Counties include Mineral, Grant, Preston, and Tucker. According to the WVDA and WVU Cooperative Extension Service, sign-up began July 1 in the county extension offices.

Brochures answering questions about the gypsy moth and the 1998 suppression program, as well as egg mass survey applications, are available in the Preston County Extension Office. A landowner living in one of the 23 counties who has a problem with gypsy moth may want to participate in the 1998 program. To sign up for an egg mass survey, a person may contact the WVU Extension Office where his property is located to get further details. The applications must be submitted by August 29, 1997.

Landowners must provide a map of their property with boundaries clearly marked. A plat map, deed map, a copy of a 7½-minute topographic map or Consolidated Farm Service Agency map is required. The WVDA cannot map landowner properties.

The minimum acreage required to participate is 50 contiguous acres of wooded land. Landowners with less than 50 acres may join with neighbors to meet the acreage requirements. Groups of landowners or subdivisions must appoint a coordinator.

A final decision to participate must be confirmed by signing a contract and making a deposit to the county commission where the property is located by December 5, 1997. Final payment to the county commission will be required prior to the actual treatment. Notification of the deadline for final payment will be by mail.

A 43 percent cost-share on treatments is available from the USDA Forest Service through a cooperative agreement with the WVDA. The total cost depends on the cost of the insecticide and aerial application, but 1997 landowner costs were $7.75 per acre for Bt and $6.55 per acre for Dimilin. Lower number of treatment acres and inflation keep driving these costs up, so 1998 costs are expected to rise.

For further details, persons may contact the WVU Extension Office in Kingwood at 329-1391.

SCOUT NEWS

Girl Scout Troop #5569 met at the Methodist church on July 10. The girls worked on stenciling their T-shirts for camp. Their theme for camp is a Hawaiian luau.

The girls and their parents had a bake sale on Friday to raise money to pay for their trip to Kennywood in August. Fifteen girls and eight adults attended.

devotions, "First Things First," came from Luke 10:38-40 with a meditation about priorities by Jean Winters.

Conducting the meeting in the home of Mrs. Lectie Bonner, Rebecca Teets led a discussion of "Positive Thinking," stressing how thought patterns can affect one's life. A portion of her materials included how the mind affects the body's healing power.

Roll call was answered by each citing a special meaning or thought about Independence Day. The club members signed a sympathy card to be sent to Marie Teets. Plans for the August meeting were made during which members plan to eat out and then "vacation via video." The club will again be serving the Lions Club in December.

The hostess, Jean Winters, showed a copy of the Preston County Extension Homemakers as her special feature and served refreshments to the six members present.

PUBLIC NOTICES

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Mayor and Town Council of Friendsville, MD will conduct a public hearing on August 4, 1997 at 7:00 p.m. in the Town Hall. The purpose of the Public Hearing is to review and take comments on a proposed new draft zoning ordinance for the Town which is being recommended by the Friendsville Planning Commission. The new zoning ordinance includes changes to the text as well as the zoning map and changes are being proposed in order to make the ordinance consistent with the recently adopted Friendsville Development Plan and the Maryland Economic Growth, Resource Protection and Planning Act of 1992.

The following represents a summary of the most significant policy changes to the Ordinance:

Zoning Districts - A change in zoning districts (R1, R2, C, etc. to SR-Suburban Residential, TR-Town Residential, TC-Town Center, etc.) is being recommended in order to be more compatible with other Towns and County Zoning Ordinances.

Group Homes - Revisions are needed to the Zoning Ordinances to comply with the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1991, the Federal Fair Housing Act and recent Supreme Court decisions. These generally require that "Group Homes" be provided for in the same manner as housing for families.

Sensitive Areas - Provisions for the management of sensitive areas including stream buffers, steep slopes and habitat for threatened and endangered species.

The draft Friendsville Zoning Ordinance is available for review at the Garrett County Planning & Zoning Office, Old Courthouse, Oakland, Monday thru Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. or at the Friendsville Town Hall during normal operating hours.

By Order of the Mayor and Town Council

Blaze Damages House; Occupants Saved By Alarm

A smoke alarm was credited with saving the lives of two residents of a house located along Garrett Road early Tuesday morning after fire of unknown origin broke out in the basement of the one-story wood-frame structure.

Volunteer fire fighters from Oakland, Deer Park, Gorman, and Terra Alta were summoned to the residence of Pauline Everett, 42, at 1:05 a.m. after she and her son David, 25, were awakened by a smoke alarm. The fire was brought under control in about five minutes, according to Deputy State Fire Marshal Steve Wendling, who is investigating the incident. The occupants fled the house and were uninjured.

Wendling said that the fire originated in the basement, but the cause remains under investigation. Losses have been estimated at $5,000 to the structure and an additional $5,000 to the contents. He added that Mrs. Everett does have insurance on the property.

Approximately 30 fire fighters responded to the scene, along with a unit from the Southern Rescue Squad and the county air cascade vehicle, which is housed at Deep Creek VFD. Firemen remained on the scene for over two hours.

OLD FRIENDS, NEW FRIENDS; THE DIEUS RETURN - Great laughter could be heard at the John Yoder place, near Gortner, last week as old friends gathered and enjoyed one another's company. Some 17 years ago, a Vietnamese family came to Garrett County with nothing but the clothes they were wearing. They were given a home, belongings, and great kindnesses by many local residents. Last week, five of the nine Dieu children returned to the county for a visit they had long hoped for. In addition to reuniting with old friends, they made at least nine new friends -- the nine children of Samuel Yoder, pictured above right. His parents, John and the late Lena Yoder, gave the Dieu family an entire house in which to live while they were here. They are pictured in that home. The young man at left is Curtis Dieu -- he was born in the house some weeks after the family arrived. Parents Mung and Muoi Dieu are well, living in Santa Ana, California, where all their children also reside. Each is accomplished, with several college degrees earned and good jobs secured. See feature. Pictured left to right are Curtis, Hong, Trang, and Tuyet Dieu; and Mary, Jacob, Martha, Catherine, and Sam Yoder. Photo by John McEwen. See feature on page C-3.

Lake Site Of Boating Mishaps; Three Injured

Three persons were injured in one boating mishap at Deep Creek Lake over the weekend, and several others escaped injury in another mishap that involved the collision of two boats.

According to information released by Maryland Natural Resources police, three persons were treated and released at Garrett County Memorial Hospital Sunday evening. The three were injured when a 16-foot Runabout being operated by Thomas Gorley, 51, Herndon, Va., struck a dock along the Marsh Hill Road side of the McHenry Cove. Units from the Northern Rescue Squad and Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company were called to the scene at about 9:45 p.m.

According to the DNR police report, Gorley sustained lacerations and broken teeth, while a passenger, Scott Boyd, 50, Leoto-

State Health Secretary Visits County To Review Fiscal Plan

Garrett County hosted the secretary of the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene Tuesday when he visited here to review and report on progress of the Fiscal Recovery Plan for the Garrett County Health Department.

Dr. Martin P. Wasserman heads the department that funds the local health service agency and has been working with Dr. Rex Archer, Garrett County health officer, to stabilize the health department budget and recover from a deficit position.

The fiscal recovery plan projects a three-to-five-year span to return the department to the black. Archer was encouraged by Wasserman to give preference to those employees who have been laid off when opportunities arise to rehire.

The health secretary noted that the impact on staffing could have been far worse had Archer not responded as quickly as he did to the financial problems of the agency.

The changing role of the health department was described by Wasserman as that of an overseer more than a service provider. In fields such as mental health and home health the department would remain active in its provider role because there are not appropriate private sector providers of these services.

Stepping beyond the issue of finance, Wasserman praised the efforts made by

He also reported that Glotfelty is responding to treatment and his condition is stable.

No date has been stated for his release from the hospital.

GRIC In The Spotlight During Joint GCC/School Board Meeting

Emerging telecommunications technology was the focus of a joint meeting of the Garrett Community College Board of Trustees and the Garrett County Board of Education held at college recently. During the meeting, which was also attended by Dr. Wendell Teets, new superintendent of Garrett County public schools, and Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, the former school superintendent, there was a discussion regarding various telecommunications services available through the Garrett Rural Information Cooperative (GRIC).

Dr. Stephen Herman, president of the college, summarized the role and purpose of GRIC as "providing advanced telecommunications services for the purpose of achieving community competitiveness." When asked later if GRIC will soon be wired into the classrooms in the public schools, Herman said that "the wiring already exists for the most part; it's more a question of getting telecommunications access, which is getting less and less expensive all the time. The purchasing agreements that GRIC has been able to negotiate with the phone company have helped immensely in bringing down the money hurdle that used to stand in the way of the public schools' ability to utilize the services GRIC has to offer."

Herman went on to discuss the "Universal Access E-rate," a federal program which could markedly cut what it would cost for GRIC to service the public schools even more. As Herman described it, "the Universal Access E-rate permits telecommunications access providers to receive as much as a 90% discount in their cost of using phone lines when providing services to a public, community-based consumer. While the Federal Communications Commission is still working out the details of the program, it conceivably could benefit not only the public schools, but could also enable GRIC to provide less expensive access to other eligible agencies,

"Pleasure Ride" On Stolen Dozer Ends In Jail

An allegedly intoxicated Oakland man who reportedly told a friend he was taking a bulldozer for a "pleasure ride" was arrested this week on a variety of charges in connection with the incident.

Michael Lee Paugh, 25, had reportedly been drinking throughout the day when, in the evening hours of Monday, July 21, he and a friend came upon a parked bulldozer on Vindex Road. According to the report, Paugh produced a Caterpillar equipment key, saying that he was a heavy equipment operator and could drive the bulldozer. Allegedly against his friend's warnings, Paugh mounted the machine, started it up, and began pushing around piles of dirt located in the immediate vicinity.

After a period of time, Paugh reportedly drove the bulldozer out onto Vindex Road and headed west. When his friend yelled to him that he was heading for trouble, Paugh's reported reply was "It's OK, I'm only going for a pleasure ride."

Commissioners Asked To Endorse Grant Requests

The Garrett County Board of Commissioners have been asked to endorse funding applications made to the state by several county agencies.

At the Tuesday morning meeting of the commissioners, Duane Yoder, executive director of Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc., presented two budget requests for endorsement.

The Rental Allowance program is administered through the Housing Department of Community Action. Yoder described this program as "our homeless prevention program."

The Rental Allowance fund targets people faced with loss of a home as a result of a financial crisis. He explained that through this initiative rental assistance is available on a short-term basis, ranging from one to six months. An average of 60 to 80 households benefit each year from this source of support, he said.

The commissioners agreed to endorse the request that the state renew the grant for $78,890 for this program.

Construction Of Runaway Truck Ramp On Backbone Underway

After over two decades of pressure from Bloomington area residents and a number of other local officials, plus many fatal truck accidents at the base of Backbone Mountain in Bloomington, the State Highway Administration (SHA) announced that construction of a runaway truck ramp on MD Rt. 135, east of Lee Road, began yesterday, July 23. Ramp construction will include a 2,000-foot-long gravel lane followed by a 300-foot-long paved recovery lane. Related work will include highway drainage, signing, and pavement marking improvements.

"Protecting Maryland's truckers and motorists along steep declines in this region is a top priority. There is a crucial need on this stretch of highway for safety improvements," said Governor Parris N. Glendening, who added this pro-

Funds Sought To Study Feasibility Of Local Adventuresports Center

With Garrett County being such a haven for recreation that in recent years has come to be known as adventure sports, and with Garrett Community College and Frostburg State University being the only institutions of higher education in the country that offer a degree program in adventure sports, an effort is underway to pursue the founding of the National Adventuresports Center in Garrett County. The Garrett County Department of Economic Development, the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, the Garrett County Development Corporation, the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, and the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development (DBED) have jointly decided to obtain a formal study to measure the feasibility of such a project.

"Initial informal market research and trend analysis indicate that the Adventuresports Center concept has merit and warrants further, more detailed consideration," stated a spokesman for the Garrett County Department of Economic Development.

The county has filed an application for a $10,000 grant from the DBED's Maryland Industrial and Commercial Redevelopment Fund (MICRF) to help pay for the study, and one of the conditions of the application is that a public hearing be conducted to solicit local input regarding the project. That public hearing is scheduled for next Tuesday, July 29, at 11 a.m. in the Garrett County Board of Commissioners' meeting room at the courthouse.

The center would also house a national adventure sports Hall of Fame and Museum. The center would be a not-for-profit, self-sustaining enterprise "to develop, promote, and maintain a major adventure sports industry for the long-range economic benefit of the area," stated the introduction to the proposal.

""The goals and supporting objectives of this enterprise are aimed at capitalizing on the abundant natural resources of the area to provide competitive, recreational, and educational opportunities appealing to a broad clientele from regional, national, and international markets. This initiative is directed to position-

Oakland Student Wins Grand Prize In Poster Contest

A third grade student from Oakland recently won the grand prize in a poster contest in which over 8,000 children participated.

Elizabeth Bailey Michael, 9, daughter of Rob and Barbara Michael, created the winning entry in the 1997 Maryland State Dental Association (MSDA) Poster Contest for third graders.

This competition is conducted in conjunction with the Dr. Samuel D. Harris National Museum of Dentistry and the Maryland State Department of Education.

The student body at Bailey's school, Dennett Road Elementary, had selected her poster to be submitted to the Garrett-Allegany Dental Society and it was ultimately chosen to be entered in the statewide contest.

For her efforts Bailey received a large certificate, a medallion, and a $500 savings bond. Her school received $500 for educational equipment and supplies.

The winning poster will be on display during the summer at the Samuel D. Harris National Museum of Dentistry in Baltimore. It will also appear on the cover of the summer issue of the MSDA Journal.

The purpose of the annual contest is to increase children's awareness of the importance of dental health and to encourage children to practice good oral hygiene. The theme of the contest this year was "Uncover the Secrets to a Healthy Smile."

The MSDA provides schools with lesson plans, certificates of appreciation for all participants, and ribbons for each classroom winner.

Legion Burglary Nets Potomac Man Jail Term

A Potomac man was sentenced to ten years in the Garrett County Jail after pleading guilty to a burglary charge in last weeks Garrett County Circuit Court proceedings before Judge Fred A. Thayer.

Charles Joseph Wassil, 30, received a 15-year sentence, five years of which were suspended, on a second-degree burglary charge stemming from his November, 1995 arrest by the Maryland State Police.

A trooper on routine patrol in Oakland came upon Wassil and a second subject in the process of carrying out an alleged burglary attempt at American Legion Post 71 on Memorial Drive. The two men fled from the scene as the trooper approached, leaving the Post cash safe sitting in the parking lot, only to run their car into a snowbank a short distance away. After a track by a sheriff's department canine unit successfully apprehended the pair, they were placed under arrest.

The ensuing investigation revealed that their car contained burglary tools, and that the door to the Legion Post where they were first seen had broken into by the use of burglary tools of the same type the men had in their car.

In addition to his jail sentence, Wassil was placed on five years of supervised probation upon his eventual release, and was ordered to pay $955 in restitution to Legion Post 71.

In other circuit court news, a Sykesville man will be a resident of the Garrett County Jail until the year 2012 for violating his probation agreement, pending a motion for sentence revision filed at the conclusion of last weeks hearing.

Wendell James Yoder, 31, was found to be in violation of probation by Judge Thayer, who reimposed Yoder's original 15-year jail sentence which had resulted from a 1991 conviction on felony and misdemeanor theft charges.

Yoder, who entered a no contest plea to the violation of probation charge, was by cited by the court for failing to failing to regularly report to the probation authority as directed, moving without the permission of the probation authority, not notifying the probation authority of his new address, and failing to provide for home visits by the probation authority.

Loretta Elaine Fazenbaker, 27, Friendsville, received a 30-day jail sentence and was fined $250 by Judge James Sherbin after she had pleaded guilty to a possession of marijuana charge.

Fazenbaker had been arrested in February after she had allegedly attempted to sell some marijuana to an undercover member of the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force. An additional charge of distribution of marijuana against Fazenbaker was not prosecuted.

Charges of second-degree assault and reckless endangerment brought against George Alan Frye, 42, Oakland, were placed onto the stet docket by Judge Sherbin. This means that the case can be recalled for trial anytime within the next 365 days at the courts discretion.

Frye had been arrested by the Maryland State Police last December after reportedly shooting a gun at two occupied vehicles on Cranesville Road in the Friendsville area. One of the two complaintants, James Crosco of Friendsville, alleged that after he had informed Frye that he was trespassing on his Cranesville Road property, Frye verbally accosted him and shot at his vehicle. The second complainant, Joseph Ashby of Oakland, Crosco's cousin, reported that as he came onto the scene to investigate the sound of gunfire, Frye shot out his tire.

A condition of the stet is that Frye have no further contact with either Crosco or Ashby for the duration of the stet.

Music At Penn Alps Will Host Adams, Anderson

The Music At Penn Alps Festival will continue its fifth season of great music Saturday, July 26, at 7:30 p.m. in the Great Hall of Penn Alps, Grantsville. The featured artists will be singers/songwriters Julie Adams and Colleen Anderson.

In a program titled "Sources of Song," the two musicians will present "a light-hearted exploration of the joys, heartbreaks, and eternal mysteries of songwriting, illustrated liberally with performances of their songs and stories of how those songs found life," stated a program spokesperson.

"One is a lyricist first and musician second, the other can't separate the words from the music at all. What they have in common is a love for how the melody supports the phrase; how the perfect last word hangs in the air, balanced on the guitar's final chord; how pieces of the puzzle all come together in the form of a finished song," the spokesperson said.

Julie Adams is a singer and songwriter who currently performs on the internationally vindicated public radio show Mountain Stage. As featured vocalist she has sung more than 400 songs over the last 11 years, including some by Colleen Anderson. She has accompanied such well known artists as Sarah McLachlan, Michelle Shocked, Joan Baez, and Tom Rush. Her songs have appeared in three feature films by award-winning filmmaker Danny Boyd. She has a number of recordings, most recently "Struck by Moonlight" with her band, the Rhino Boys.

Colleen Anderson is a writer of poems, songs, fiction, plays, essays, magazine articles, and an occasional outraged letter to the editor. She has won a West Virginia Literature Fellowship and first place awards from the National Federation of Press Women and West Virginia Writers. Her fiction and poetry have been published by Redbook and the PEN Syndicated Fiction Project. Each year Anderson conducts dozens of creative writing workshops and performs regularly with guitarist George Castelle. Songs and poems from her collections "Fabulous Realities" have been featured on national radio's The Folk Sampler, Mountain Stage, and The Poet & The Poem.

The Music At Penn Alps Festival is a summer-long series of concerts in the Great Hall of Penn Alps near Grantsville. All concerts are at 7:30 p.m. on Saturday evenings. For information, persons may call MPA at 301-895-3332.

Finzel Family Named State 4-H Family Of Year

THE 1997 MARYLAND STATE 4-H FAMILY OF THE YEAR is Garrett County's own Malone family of Finzel. The Malones were so honored at the State 4-H Recognition program held recently in College Park, after being named the Garrett County 4-H Family of the Year this past April. The 4-H program, founded in 1900 to provide education clubs for rural youth between the ages of 9 and 19, has nearly 5 million members around the country. Above, Allison and Beverly Malone hold the family's state award plaque, with Clint, Jerry, and Jason Malone, left to right, in the background. See story.

"Responsibility." That's how Jerry Malone sums up what his children have learned through their participation in 4-H. Malone speaks with knowledge gained from practical experience. The lessons of life that Beverly and Jerry Malone of Finzel taught their four children while sharing chores on the family farm, meals around the supper table, and worship together at the Emmanuel United Methodist Church, have found expression in, among other places, the children's active participation in 4-H.

For the efforts of all of the Malones, young and old, their family has been named the 1997 Maryland State 4-H Family of the Year. Beverly and Jerry Malone, and their children, Jason, Clint, and Allison, accepted the award at the State 4-H Recognition Program held recently in College Park.

The Maryland 4-H Family of the Year Award is sponsored by the National Extension Association of Family and Consumer Services, Maryland affiliate, in conjunction with the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Maryland. Each county 4-H program in Maryland submits a family application for the state honor. The Malones were nominated for the state program after being named the Garrett County 4-H Family of the Year this past April.

The Malone family belongs to the Finzel 4-H Club, one of the 16 active 4-H clubs in the county, and they manage to find time for 4-H and other activities in between the chores of keeping a family farm running. The Malones produce thousands of bales of alfalfa and timothy each summer, raking in over 4,000 bales in their first cutting, which they completed just last week. They also raise several acres of sweet corn.

The Malones' roots in 4-H go deep, as Beverly Malone and her sister, Bonnie Langan, who teaches math at Northern Middle School, were themselves both 4-H members as children. Beverly's husband Jerry and her father, Wilfred Crowe, have taught the children farm safety and tractor-driving skills on the family farm, and the children have proved their mastery of these skills, and the quality of their teachers, by winning numerous awards in those and other fields throughout their 4-H experiences. Countless hours spent by Beverly and Jerry getting their children to 4-H club meetings, encouraging their work on 4-H projects, nd rooting for them in 4-H contests have been rewarded with a family of responsible, hard-working children.

Jason Malone, 19, is currently a student at Allegany College, and formerly served as president of the Finzel 4-H club, among other offices he held over his 11 years as an active member. He competed in the 4-H/FFA County and State Tractor contests for many years, taking fourth place in the state in 1993. Jason also completed 4-H projects in numerous areas.

Clint Malone, 18, currently studying at Frostburg State University, has been a 4-H member for 10 years. Last year he took first place in the county Lawn and Garden competition and third in the state. He also placed fourth at the county Tractor Operator's contest, and fifth at the state level. Clint has received the Achievement Award, Citizenship Award, and the "I Dare You" Award in 4-H for project completion and activities he has participated in over the years. Like his older brother, Clint has served as president of the Finzel club, among holding other offices. He graduated from Beall High School as a Merit Scholar, receiving the Soil Conservation scholarship and the Technology Award.

The youngest Malone is Allison, age 9, who has been a 4-H member for the past two years. The Route 40 Elementary student is carrying on the family 4-H tradition by currently serving as vice-president of the Finzel club. Allison is carrying out a number of 4-H projects as her older brothers have done, including rabbits, woodworking, crafts, and foods and nutrition.

The oldest son, the late Chad M. Malone, was also very active in 4-H. In 1987, he won the county, state, and national 4-H tractor operator's contests. The Malone family donates trophies at the county and state level in Chad's memory. His legacy also benefits students at Beall High School as well, as a $400 scholarship and a $100 bond are given at each commencement ceremony in Chad's memory.

The mother of the Malone brood, Beverly, has been organizational leader of the Finzel 4-H club for 18 years. She arranges educational programs and service activities for the club and volunteers at the tractor contests and Farm Safety Day. In between raising her family and helping her husband Jerry raise their crops, she teaches first grade at Beall Elementary School.

The Malones represent all the rural families who put in long days of work both on and off the farm, but still make time for each other in a world with where increasing pressures seem to be almost specifically designed to decrease family time.

"It's families like the Malones, who, through their hard work and dedication, set examples for other rural families and youth throughout the state," commented Bernice Kepple, farm page editor for The Republican. "There are so many kids in this county from 4-H families who have gone on to hold respectable careers because of their 4-H experience." Kepple said. "I'm really glad to see the Malones honored like this because of their years of participation in 4-H."

MSP File Charges After Investigation Into June Accident

After a month-long investigation by Maryland State Police, charges have been filed in an accident that occurred June 17 in the parking lot of Arrowhead Market, Deep Creek Lake.

The incident occurred around 8:45 a.m. when Harold R. Upole II, 30, Oakland, was struck and run over by a vehicle driven by Gary L. Niner, 30, Oakland.

Investigation revealed that Nine was moving forward at a very slow rate of speed while looking over his shoulder. Upole was in front of Niner's vehicle and was struck.

Police have charged Niner with negligent driving.

Upole was transported to Garrett Memorial Hospital and then transferred to West Virginia University Hospital, Morgantown. He was subsequently released from the hospital into a rehabilitation center.

Special Board Of Education Meeting Noted

The Garrett County Board of Education will meet in special session on Tuesday, July 29, 4:30 p.m. at the board office in Oakland.

Immediately after the meeting is called to order, there will be a brief executive session to be followed by a public session.

Topics scheduled for the public portion of the meeting include personnel matters, authorization of the architect to bid the Southern High School connecting corridor project, and a change order for the Yough Glades Elementary School project.

Report Notes Details Of Deer Park Auto Theft

As reported in last week's issue of The Republican, details of an auto theft from a Deer Park residence that occurred just before last week's press run were not available at that time. They are now presented here.

On the night of Wednesday, July 16, a car was stolen from a Deer Park residence, allegedly by Joshua Anthony DeWitt, 19, of Oakland. Garrett County sheriff's deputies arrested DeWitt a short time later after he reportedly wrecked the car on Third Avenue in Loch Lynn.

In the course of the theft and accident investigation, it was reported to sheriff's deputies that DeWitt had allegedly picked up two friends in Deer Park to take them on a ride in a car that apparently did not belong to him. As the trio was traveling through Loch Lynn, DeWitt observed a sheriff's office cruiser coming towards him, at which point DeWitt pulled the vehicle into a parking spot, reportedly to hide from the passing deputy.

After the cruiser passed by, DeWitt tried to back out of his parking spot but hit another car in the process. Acquaintances on the scene reported that DeWitt then left the area on foot, telling them that he was going for help. Deputies investigating the accident determined that the car had been stolen a short time earlier.

DeWitt was arrested and charged with motor vehicle theft, felony theft, two counts of destruction of property, and several traffic violations. He is currently being held in the Garrett County Jail on a $10,000 bond.

A Special Reunion...

We are in the peak of the annual "reunion season," as families and friends from Aanestad to Zurgable convene for a day of socializing and picnicking, but there was one particular reunion that occurred last week in Garrett County that was special and somewhat unique. It was a reuniting of the Mung Dieu family, originally from Vietnam, with the Garrett County Amish family of John Yoder.

A feature story on page C-3 of this issue of The Republican tells the story of how the 11-member Dieu family fled Vietnam as boat people, were plucked from the dangerous seas by a United States ship, and ultimately ended up at the Yoder farm in Pleasant Valley, where they resided for 18 months in what had been a vacant house on the Yoder property.

The purpose of this column is to recognize the virtues of these two families, both of whom were willing to take major risks.

The Yoders risked criticism from their fellow residents for allowing this family to establish residence on their property. These foreigners could not even speak the language and they owned nothing but the clothing on their backs. How were they to communicate? Would they become a financial burden, either to the Yoders or to society? Would they become trouble makers, unable to adjust to an entirely new land and culture?

The members of the Dieu family took even greater risks, as they first placed their very lives on the line by stepping on board the rickety boat that took them away from their home country. Would they die from exposure or stormy seas? Would they be killed by pirates? Would they be accepted in a new country? They left everything behind, they did not know the language, they had no jobs waiting for them in America, and they had no place to go.

The Yoders trusted God and lived their faith by opening their home and extending a hand of friendship to this desperate family. The Dieus entered our country with humbleness and a personal commitment that they would not become burdens to our society, but would in fact excel and become independent, productive citizens of the United States, which is precisely what they have done over the past 18 years.

Many others in our community also did much to help the Dieus and make them feel welcome.

There are many lessons to be learned from the actions of these two families, and this writer is proud to live in a community that is accepting of people who are different, a community that truly opens its arms to those "huddled masses yearning to breathe free."

GOOD BYE, MR. KURAULT, AND THANK YOU

By Peggy Santamaria

Like so many others, I was very sad to hear of the death of Charles Kurault recently. Those more eloquent than I have described his genius and craft as a journalist. I can only add my inept words as a tinny echo to theirs.

Kurault's gift to us all was his reminder that there is inspiration and charm to be found in the simple moments of life that might go unnoticed because they are so "daily." His subjects lacked the glitz so often deemed necessary in order to entice an audience. His stories never dished out large helpings of the sensational; they offered no blood, violence, or aberrant sex.

What he did seem to do in his stories is what a few good poets and song writers and novelists have done. Kurault found what was special in ordinary people going about the business of living. He showed us that each person has a gift and many people raise their gifts quietly to the level of art. These people may be brick-makers, gandy dancers, or quilt makers. And these men and women are the heros in his stories. They are not at all like the heros we find on the "big screen" bringing in "big bucks" at the box office. They are more like us.

Kurault focused the lens of his camera sharply and clearly on his subject, blurring out the background. For a few brief moments, he let our attention dwell completely on his hero's contributions to life. It was as if he had bent down and picked the sweet white violet, growing almost unseen in the woods, and held it up to a magnifying glass for us to see in a new way and to value. He would not have it overlooked. He would insist we stop and admire it.

In a world overawed by "life styles of the rich and famous" and "how much money that young computer genius is worth," Kurault gently held out to us an alternative icon. One far closer to the lives that most of us live.

He celebrated the qualities that are best in our humanity and reminded us to slow down and look at the people around us; to find what is special and beautiful in each one; and to celebrate what we find.

It has been said of the British writer Jane Austen that she created in her works "one square inch of ivory." I think we could say something quite like that about Charles Kurault.

Thank you, Mr. Kurault, for your gifts to us. They were many: your wonderful voice that would hold our attention with its resonance and its magic; the sense of appreciation and respect you showed toward the people you introduced to us; and mostly, thank you for reminding us always that there are heros all around us and we need not look far to find grace and strength and inspiration.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Surprise, surprise! A poll of the Garrett County business community showed "overwhelming support" for an interstate highway cutting through Garrett County. That is like asking pigs if they are in favor of mud.

One businessman expressed his hopes that the highway go right by his door. Don't expect him to show any remorse if it happens to go by way of your farm or backyard to get there.

Has the Garrett County Farm Bureau been polled? Have the residents of Garrett County been polled? We already know how the business community of this county feels about development. All we need do is look at the Lake and the strip going into Oakland to know that they will take until every last inch is covered.

To imply the highway would bring jobs, I believe, is misleading. Has development at the Lake brought jobs to the county which provide a livable wage with benefits?

I think it is time to ask the residents of Garrett County what they feel about this issue. Perhaps it is time to say, "Enough is enough; let's preserve what is left!" Businesses will always come and go, but once gone, the land is gone forever.

Sincerely,
Eileen Schlosnagle
Accident

To the Editor:

Once again Garrett comes through to help us out! Save Oakland Station held its second fund-raising event downtown and it was a fantastic success. Our volunteers put on a great, relaxing evening of food, entertainment, and fun.

Save Oakland Station would like to personally thank each of the businesses that donated food, plants, or drinks, plus the entertainment that made this evening a success. The food was donated by Board Room Family Restaurant, CITGO, Deer Park Inn, Englander's, Four Seasons - Will O' the Wisp, Get 'N Go, McDonald's, Pizza Hut, Red Run Lodge, Sheetz, Tomanetti's, and Towne Restaurant. The drinks and banner were donated by Coca-Cola. Decorations were made possible by Flowers by Webers, Garrett's Eden Garden Center, Green Acres Garden Center, Jan Florist, Julie's Greenhouse, and Kauffman's Pleasant Valley Greenhouse. The entertainment was provided by the Jeff Gilbert Garage Band, Neil Krebs and Greg Larry, and Sang Run. We were able to generate additional funds via the donation of art work by Delores Andrew and Jon Boone, and photography by John McEwen.

Because of these generous donations, we were able to raise over $4,000 to save the Oakland Railroad Station. Saving the station is critical in revitalizing the downtown area and preserving a critical part of Garrett County history.

Dave Saba
SOS Committee Chairman

To the Editor:

This letter is in reference to the juveniles and adults that travel from the Treasure Island Dept. Store Parking lot to Midway Plaza to Southern High School. This type of activity is not in the best interest of the public's welfare and safety whenever inexperienced drivers (some) think they can use the parking lots as pit stops and the main roadway as a race track. I observed the "cruisers" within a three-day period commit infractions of the Maryland Motor Vehicle Law, including speeding, running stop signs (at Treasure Island and Midway), acceleration of high speed in parking lot (while patrons leaving from and going into the T.I. Store, Craft Store, Revco, and the bank), failure to yield right of way to pedestrians and other traffic, spinning tires on pavement, careless and recklessness behavior while operating a motor vehicle, littering, loitering, and misdemeanor trespass and criminal trespass.

These perpetrators disregard the safety of the toddlers and elderly customers, as they deliberately place them in harm's way. This was observed from 7 p.m. until closing of the stores. Whenever a family and or any customer has to walk through a "mine field" (endless flow of bumper to bumper traffic which commits the aforesaid violations) it intentionally endangers the lives of our little ones.

So let us call it what it is: juvenile criminal behavior. Large biker clans (even the infamous Hell's Angels) have more consideration and courtesies towards the public when they travel.

These offenders also cause a major congestion of traffic flow at one of the county's most dangerous intersections, causing a life threatening situation, especially in an emergency when an ambulance, fire or police vehicle have to go through that intersection.

This raises the question of the juvenile's civil rights to cruise. No, they do not have that right to enjoy! Public safety shall always supercede over any one person and or a minority group of individuals who interfere and cause another citizen to be put in harm's way.

I suggest the parents of these juvenile offenders take responsibility and control over their children. If they fail to do so, the statutes of law will be applied equally and most swiftly to bring all of these young offenders to justice. I have many of these offenders on video camera and all tapes will be turned over to the proper authorities to be reviewed for any evidence to prosecute.

Thank you,
Jerry A. Cline

To the Editor:

This is in reply to the building of an interstate highway through Garrett County.

I have been visiting here for all of my life and recently relocated to the area. I moved here for the quality of life represented by the area. I have lived in the mountains of Colorado and watched them get raped by the narcissistic bureaucrats controlled by the almighty dollar. Are we going to let that happen here? I hope not. This is an incredibly beautiful place to live.

I guess the question everyone has to answer for themselves is how they measure success. Success should not be measured by the material possessions someone owns or makes payments on, or by the size of one's paycheck. I think a lot of people have their priorities mixed up. I say, let us see the proposed land to be used for the highway. Would you be willing to give up your land for concrete barriers, pollution, and the noise created by the additional traffic? Personally, I would rather fall asleep to the sound of a mountain stream than the noise of a truck using its engine brake to keep under control while negotiating down the mountains of western Maryland, not to mention the truck stops, service areas, and additional commercial space that will be necessary adjacent to the highway, and the pollution that accompanies them.

What about the destruction of state forest property? Where will the wildlife go then? Hundreds more will be killed every year wandering out into the highway that was once their feeding and breeding grounds.

Don't forget about the contamination of our streams and rivers from the additional salt in the winter and dirt given off by movement of traffic. Imagine what one overturned tanker truck carrying toxic chemicals through our now uncontaminated countryside would do. How would this affect our drinking water, the fish we catch, and the game we hunt? It's just a good thing we don't get bad winters creating hazardous driving conditions.

Will another highway through Garrett County improve the quality of life? I think not. Will another highway make southern West Virginia more accessible? With the widening of Route 19 to Beckley, is it necessary?

There are claims being made about more jobs for the people here if the construction goes through. If the construction gets started, who will get the contract? Probably a large out-of-state contractor who will bring in his own crews only to live here temporarily, creating a housing demand and additional trailer parks, only to be abandoned when the project is completed. Has anyone driven through southern West Virginia lately to see the amount of work involved in creating a modern four-lane interstate? It is short four-hour drive to Summerville, and I

JOURNEY INTO CHILDHOOD

Two years had passed since the last reunion of my mother's mother's family. The 1997 gathering was to take place in the homeland of Garrett County, Maryland. Though they also lived for a time in a neighboring West Virginia mining town, it was at a place called Sunnyside near Red House that Grandma and her seven brothers and sisters had grown up.

Today the journey from my own home 200 miles east of Red House can be made in little more than four hours. It is possible to go up for an event and come back all in the same day. Thirty-five years ago it was not so.

In the early '60s we drove to Frederick and then to Winchester, Va., where we got on U.S. Route 50 which took us directly to Red House, about seven hours in all. It was direct in the sense that Route 50 took us right to Red House. It was an indirect route in that the road wound back and forth across the mountains at a (literally) nauseating rate.

I decided to re-visit the landscapes along this old highway (one of the first of our national roads) as a kind of journey into childhood.

I headed up the mountain.

I have watched a good many places ruined during my lifetime. The careful accretions of decades and even of centuries are swept away in one terrible flood of pop-culture. Oft-times the ostensibly best preserved places serve merely as sterile facades for the Anywhere, U.S.A., housing development or strip mall two blocks away.

On my journey along Route 50 from Winchester to Red House, I found landscapes more nearly as they were 35 years ago than any place I can think of. Benign neglect is often the best conservator.

There were changes here too, the occasional golf course with its accompanying sub-division, the McDonald's in a village 25 miles from anywhere. Those were exceptions to the landscape rather than the definition of it.

Even one of icons of modernity, the 7-11 store in Romney, W.Va., had a kind of antique aspect to it. When I was a boy this was a brand-spanking new store. There in the middle of the mountains we stopped (if we boys were good) to get what we called a "slushy." The store is still there, though with a new marquee, hiding to a degree its nearly old-fashioned character.

There is less farming than there was, sign of the success achieved by the ag-industrial complex to eliminate small farms. There are, on the other hand, more yard sales per linear mile than any place I have ever seen. Route 50 is a veritable bazaar of second-hand goods.

The physical landscape is in good shape, but what about the landscape of the heart? Along with the perpetual yard sale there were also the satellite dishes. So at any moment two or three hundred TV programs, all peddling cultural nihilism, are beamed down into the homes along Route 50.

On the other side of the coin, the strongest radio signal I picked up (radio programs faded just as rapidly as they did in my childhood) played old time gospel harmony, one of the sweetest genres of music ever invented and the one most at home in those mountains.

The reunion was as reunions ought to be, with half-gallon canning jars of home-brewed ice tea and some sassafras tea, too. There were the groaning board of food, the albums of photos, the retelling of old stories, and the remembering of tales never told before.

I enjoyed the reunion, but for me the destination had been in the journey. The road back into childhood is the same as the road out of it, a winding road with precipitous ups and downs, of long valleys--cool and forgotten, and sudden mountaintop vistas, startling and unforgettable.

Deer Park Brawl Ends In Adult, Juvenile Arrests

A large fight that occurred at a residence in the 3400 block of Maryland Highway in Deer Park last week is still under investigation by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. Four adults have been arrested and charged with a variety of offenses to date, and five juveniles face charges through the Department of Juvenile Services.

At approximately 11 p.m. on the night of Wednesday, July 16, Chris Friend, 21, Deer Park, and James Dillsworth, 22, Aurora, W.Va., were inside the trailer when a group of men showed up at the door. The pair inside the trailer later reported to investigating deputies that the group forced their way into the trailer, and allegedly began assaulting them with their fists and feet, a baseball bat, and possibly a knife.

The victims identified their alleged (adult) assailants as Christopher Alan Glotfelty, 23, Shane Patrick Davis, 22, and Michael Eugene Armstrong, 21, each of Oakland, and Jerry Wayne Gank Jr., 23, of McHenry. Five juveniles were also reportedly involved in the assault, according to the report.

Friend and Dillsworth were both transported by the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where Friend was treated for a compound fracture of his wrist, several cracked ribs, and numerous cuts and lesions about his head. Dillsworth was treated for a broken nose and facial contusions.

Sheriff's deputies arrested the four adults, charging both Glotfelty and Davis with one count each of first-degree assault, second-degree assault and first-degree burglary. Both men are still currently held in the Garrett County jail, each on a $45,000 bond. Armstrong was charged with two counts of first-degree assault, one count of second-degree assault, and one count of first-degree burglary, and was released after posting a $10,000 bond. Gank faces charges of first and second-degree assault and two counts of trespassing, and was released after posting a $5,000 bond.

Bounced Checks Deposit Keyser Man In Jail

A Keyser, W.Va., man was sentenced to six months in jail in this past week's Garrett County District Court proceedings, following a May conviction for passing bad checks.

Terry Wayne Mathews, 34, had pleaded guilty to bad check charges this spring. District Court Judge Ralph M. Burnett gave Mathews a two-year sentence, all but six months of which were suspended, placed him on two years of supervised probation, and ordered him to pay a combined total of $559 to his victims, Browning's Foodland of Oakland and the Grantsville Foodland. Mathews was also ordered to obtain his GED while in jail and receive counseling for habitual bad check writing.

In other district court news, an Oakland man was sentenced after an earlier conviction for unauthorized use of a livestock vehicle, which resulted in substantial damage to the vehicle as well.

Billy Joel Lloyd, 19, had pleaded guilty during his May trial to taking a pickup truck from the Wagner Trucking Lot on Spring Glade Road last October. The truck was recovered a week later, heavily damaged, in a stand of woods in West Virginia. Lloyd received a two-year sentence, all but three months of which were suspended, was placed on two years of supervised probation, and was ordered to pay Wagner Trucking $6,784 in restitution for damage to the truck. An additional unlawful taking of a motor vehicle charge against Lloyd was not prosecuted.

Brian Keith Bolyard, 25, Albright, W.Va., pleaded guilty to a charge of second-degree assault, stemming from his April arrest in connection with an altercation outside Twila's Restaurant in Friendsville. Bolyard received a six-month sentence, half of which was suspended, and was placed on one year of supervised probation.

Shawn Louis Smith, 19, Oakland, pleaded guilty to a charge of indecent exposure, stemming from his May arrest when a female pedestrian reportedly observed him sitting in a car in the Oakland municipal parking lot with his pants down. Smith received a 60-day suspended sentence and was placed on one year of supervised probation.

Johnny Jason Thomas, 36, Mtn. Lake Park, was found by the court to be in violation of his driving while intoxicated (DWI) probation by failing to abstain from alcohol. The judge terminated Thomas's probation.

An Oakland man was convicted of marijuana possession, while additional charges of fourth-degree burglary and possession of burglary tools against him were placed onto the stet docket.

Bryan Denver Shaffer, 19, had been arrested by sheriff's deputies in June for allegedly attempting to break into the coin laundry machines at the Oakland Coin Laundry. Assorted keys and burglary tools were reportedly found on his person at the scene, and a subsequent search of his home on a search and seizure warrant uncovered a quantity of marijuana.

In passing sentence on the possession of marijuana conviction, the judge gave Shaffer a 30-day suspended sentence, fined him $155, placed him on one year of supervised probation, and ordered him to complete 30 hours of community service. The additional stetted charges will remain open, subject to retrial at the court's discretion for the next 365 days.

Approximately 40 counts of destruction of property against Timothy Frank Williamson, 19, McHenry, and Robert Charles Tichnell, 21, Friendsville, were placed onto the stet docket. The pair, along with John Denton Leuba, 19, Accident, were arrested in April for a series of mailbox smashings with a baseball bat and a flashlight in the McHenry, Hoyes, and Sang Run areas of the county. As conditions of their stet, Williamson and Tichnell were each ordered to complete 100 hours of community service, and together are to make full monetary restitution to their victims. Leuba was not prosecuted on the same charges.

A carrying a loaded handgun in a vehicle charge levied against Donnell Leandrew Morgan, 31, St. Louis, Mo., was placed onto the stet docket. Morgan, who had been stopped for speeding on Interstate 68 in May, was discovered at that time to be driving on an expired Missouri driver's license, and was not listed as an operator on the car's rental agreement. A subsequent vehicle search turned up a loaded Smith and Wesson semi-automatic pistol in the trunk. A condition of Morgan's stet is that he forfeit the gun to law enforcement officials.

A variety of charges against Troy Ashby, 27, Corinth, W.Va., were placed onto the stet docket. An October altercation at the Oak Grove Tavern had resulted in Ashby being charged with first- and second-degree assault, malicious destruction of property, and disorderly conduct. A condition of the stet is that Ashby pay the owner of the Oak Grove Tavern $200 in restitution for property he damaged during the incident. Jody Crosco of Oakland, who was arrested in Ashby's company at the tavern, was not prosecuted on charges of disorderliness and malicious destruction of property.

A sentence resulting from an April conviction of Nathaniel Siggers, 21, Williamson, W.Va., was revised to reflect a probation before judgment (PBJ). The case will not reflect a criminal probation if Siggers carries out all the terms of his probation order.

The judge issued two bench warrants for the arrest of Walter Ray Artice, 24, Friendsville, each charging him with violation of probation.

Two bench warrants, also for violation of probation, were issued for the arrest of Chester Sidney Lauck, 31, Grantsville. A third bench warrant for Lauck's arrest charged him with failure to appear.

James H. Burns, 27, Oakland, was deemed not guilty of a charge of violating an ex parte order.

DWI Hearings

Several driving while intoxicated (DWI) and driving under the influence of drugs and/or alcohol (DUI) cases were heard in district court recently.

Randy Page Sisler, 42, Friendsville, was convicted of DWI and fined $355, given a 60-day sentence, all but 4 days of which were suspended, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 40 hours of community service.

Steven Harold Kitzmiller Sr., 37, Mtn. Lake Park, was convicted of DWI and fined $555, given a one-year sentence, all but three months of which were suspended, and placed on two years of supervised probation.

Gilbert Leon Brown, 47, Elk Garden, W.Va., was convicted of DWI and fined $255, given a 60-day sentence, all but seven days of which were suspended, and placed on two years of supervised probation.

Paul Attilio Dambrogi, 40, Baltimore, was convicted of DWI and fined $555, given a one-year suspended sentence, and placed on two years of supervised probation.

Sondra Ann Thomas Miller, 31, Lonaconing, was convicted of DUI and fined $300, given a 30-day suspended sentence, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 30 hours of community service.

Michele Lynne Kebberly, 28, Chalk Hill, Pa., was convicted of DUI and given a PBJ. She was also fined $155, given a 30-day suspended sentence, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 40 hours of community service.

The judge placed a DWI charge against Daniel Paul Bernhard, 25, Oakland, onto the stet docket.

John Ryan Parker Henderson, 24, Md., and Ervin Estell Sisler, 49, Md., were each deemed not guilty of DWI.

MASON DIXON LINE SINGERS TO BE PART OF SHOW - The Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) will present the Mountainaire Barbershop Chorus in concert on Friday, July 25, at 8 p.m. on the Garrett Community College stage. The presentation is being sponsored by the Wisp Resort. Representing the Clarksburg-Fairmont Chapter of the Society of the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, the Mountainaire Chorus has won first place awards in contests for five consecutive years. Its 43 members work to perpetuate the art of male four-part unaccompanied singing. The feature quartet of the chorus -- The Mason-Dixon Line, pictured above -- were the 1991 champions for the Johnny Appleseed District of the Barbershop Society. Dave Callis, Loch Lynn, sings bass with this group. Shown left to right, Wendell Pryor, tenor; Callis, bass; Drayton Justus, lead; and Dan Tice, baritone. Although many of the Mountainaires' songs will be from a "by-gone" era, the singers have also adapted more recent tunes to the barbershop style. Favorites will be heard as well, including "Swanee," "Emaline," and "Mary Lou." Tickets for the concert are available at the GLAF office (301-387-3082) or at the following pharmacies: Gregg's, Beachy's, Deep Creek, or Englander's. Admission is $8 for adults and $4 for persons ages 17 and younger.

Gone With The Wind

by Craig Speicher

(Writer's note: The following short story is fiction.)

And then there was the small blue pond that was always my best friend when I was a growing boy. Nestled in hills and hayfields bordering the peaceful forest, it provided an intriguing habitat for various countryside creatures.

That pond.

It grew with me. I was in kindergarten and the pond had not yet been made. The car wash on the edge of town was just being built. It needed a water supply.

First came a bulldozer, carving out an oversized teacup.

And then it started to grow. Fast, like a newborn baby.

The trickle from the hills came. In the beginning was a 10-foot puddle, six inches deep in mud. Then it was 10 yards across, and finally, fully grown, 30 yards. Silvery clear enough to admire yourself in.

Then came the impudent dragonflies, challenging me to a game of tag. I never won, but several frogs did.

The brown algae came in like a teenager's beard. At first it was only a little fuzz, lapping around the pond's edge. And then it progressively thickened, until at full maturity it was heavy enough to support the slender water snakes floating within it, hidden except for their bullet-shaped heads jutting above the water. Without any great knowledge about serpents, I always wondered how dangerous they might be.

The fat bull frogs led the country band in the evenings. During the days, they would bask beneath the sun as they floated atop the algae and lily pads.

From the adjacent forest edge emerged together the first doe and fawn I saw in my life. The moment took on a near-mystical meaning.

One day the pond was stocked with trout. In the evenings I fed them commercial fish food to hasten their growth. This brought schools of them racing to the shore like a class of elementary kids swarming to the buses after the day's final bell.

Then began the acrobatics and aerobatics on the shimmering, golden, twilight pond-top. Trout fracturing the water, leaving behind their trademark ripples. Barn swallows flitting in crazy figures across the water, breaking the surface in hot pursuit of invisible insects, alternately rising slightly then dipping, like the small flat stones I often sent skipping across the water.

After several years a few bluegill assumed residency. It seems they were usually the only fish gullible enough to swallow the bait on the line of my homemade pole. They were usually thrown back in because they were too small to keep, though the trout tasted better than bacon and eggs.

A couple more years passed, and muskrats moved in, cutting a web of tunnels deep into the earth, mining for they alone knew what. Their homes were easily identified by the cleancut sinuous paths through the tall, lush grasses in shallow water. Out of fear they would drain the dam, I strategically laid traps in their routes. One dead water-rat was my only reward, but I felt like a fur trapper who had met his yearly quota.

One summer our small gang built a boat (sort of) with a few abandoned boards from a nearby lumber pile. It worked better than any yacht. That is, until the day--for reasons I no longer recall--we unintentionally overloaded it with some stones we were transporting across the pond, and it suddenly sank in mid-voyage, a victim of its heavy cargo.

We never saw it again.

It was on a freezing gray day, in the midst of a miserable winter, when I found a baby duck with a broken wing, tucked like the baby Moses behind a clump of pond-edge grasses, looking for warmth where none existed. I couldn't doctor him back to health despite numerous references to a first aid manual. He died, but died well-loved.

I was ice skating one afternoon the same winter when the ice suddenly began to give way beneath me. I knew the water was deep enough to drown me. Moments later I realized the break was only partial and I skated to safety--but not before I learned to talk to God. What a place for devotions.

Time moved on. Silt washing in from the hills gradually replaced the water around the pond's upper edge, significantly reducing the original contour. My own measurements had also changed since I had first seen the pond. I was much taller.

Finally, one day, I departed for college. Often I recharged my tired mind with the memories of magic from that placid place.

More than a decade passed.

One day I went back for a friendly visit with the old refuge.

But gone were the lush fields of clover. Gone were the trees, the eternal forest. Gone was the sweet country air. Gone with the wind.

And the pond itself had turned into a rampaging river--of acrid asphalt, steel, rubber, and glass--which routinely dealt death and devastation to its unwary speeding travelers.

And the new serpent, crawling miles upon miles over the good earth, defined a strange concept of success called a federal trade corridor.

ject to the Maryland Department of Transportation's 1997 Consolidated Transportation Program list of priority projects in January.

"The good people of Bloomington will rest a little easier knowing that this ramp is under construction," said Delegate George Edwards. "We were all gratified when the governor made this safety improvement a priority."

SHA will erect temporary concrete barrier walls to close the eastbound shoulder for approximately one-half mile along Rt. 135. The shoulder will be closed for the duration of the project, which should be completed by mid-October, weather permitting.

In addition, a major reforestation effort will take place on a nearby parcel of state-owned land in Garrett County near I-68, approximately one mile west of Rt. 495. SHA will plant hundreds of deciduous and evergreen trees of several varieties. The beautification work is not expected to impact traffic.

SHA awarded the $1.4 million project contract to Metco Resources, Inc., of Cumberland.

Advanced warning signs, traffic barrels, and flagpersons will guide motorists through the work area. SHA reminds motorists to stay alert, use caution in highway construction areas, and be considerate of workers and other motorists.

Boating Mishaps

nia, Ohio, received lacerations and a juvenile passenger sustained facial contusions. The three were transported to the hospital by the Northern Rescue Squad.

Gorley's boat crushed the aluminum dock and also damaged another boat that was moored at the dock. The Runabout sustained a hole in the hull.

The collision of two boats occurred Saturday at about 8:15 p.m. in the cove between Harvey's Peninsula and Beckman's Peninsula. According to the report, Charles Lloyd Plessinger, 27, Mtn. Lake Park, was operating his 1984 Charger boat and was headed into the cove. He told police that he did not see a 1990 Donzi boat being operated by Scott Hunter Rowe, 36, Bethesda, coming out of the cove. Plessenger's boat struck the hull of Rowe's boat, causing severe damage to both craft.

There was one passenger in the Plessenger boat and two in the Rowe boat; however, no one sustained injuries, according to the report.

The accident is being investigated by DNR Officer Richard Towers.

ICES Looking For Host Families For Exchange Students

A representative from International Cultural Exchange Services (ICES) is looking for host families for visiting students who will attend Northern High School.

Lena Fratz, Accident, ICES area representative for Northern Garrett County, is requesting three host families to share their homes with three young men for the '97-'98 school year.

Leonid, a 15-year-old boy from Russia, lists watching hockey and football as things he loves to do. He plays piano, violin, and cello and he enjoys swimming, fencing, and basketball.

Zhi is a 16-year-old boy from China who lists three goals while living in America. He wants to become more proficient in the English language; more self-reliant and independent; and knowledgeable about American technology. He enjoys his hobbies and his schoolwork.

Jevels, from Albania, is 15 years old. Among his interests and hobbies he lists basketball, football, tennis, volleyball, and soccer. Jevels hopes to attend the university to study computers, business, and law.

Host families for ICES students provide a room and board and family involvement. Students have full medical and health insurance coverage and bring their own spending money with them.

ICES is a non-profit youth exchange program. Anyone interested in learning more about becoming a host family for ICES may call Lena Fratz at 301-746-8431 or the regional director at 1-800-981-6801.

Local Student Participates In Career Program

Amber Close, Accident, recently participated in West Virginia University's Health Careers Opportunity Program (HCOP) on the WVU campus.

The program helps rural and minority students in West Virginia prepare for careers in medicine, dentistry, pharmacy, medical technology, dental hygiene, and physical and occupational therapy.

HCOP programs, which begin in high school and continue through college and into professional training, have helped nearly 200 West Virginians during the past decade. Sixty-seven students are currently enrolled in the programs.

Grant Requests

Yoder requested that the commissioners endorse the funding request for programs for the elderly which are administered by the Garrett County Area Agency on Aging, a component of Community Action.

The budget request of $547,468 comprises all county programs provided to the elderly, Yoder explained. These include nutrition for 600 people, long-term care for 150 people, and support services for 750 people.

Those served in long-term care may receive guardianship, assisted housing, home services, respite care, or intervention by the ombudsman.

Support services include education, information and referral, and health and fitness.

New initiatives would put computers in senior centers and provide some evening and weekend activities as well as a crime prevention program.

The commissioners endorsed the funding request.

GCC TECH. INCUBATOR

Jim Hinebaugh, director of the Garrett County Department of Economic Development, asked the commissioners to support the proposal by Garrett Community College to build Garrett Information Enterprise Center.

Also known as a technology incubator, the center would provide a start-up opportunity for small information/technology-based businesses. The goal of the project is to attract such businesses to the county and to provide access to the Internet to conduct business.

There are currently only two other such projects in the state, Hinebaugh explained.

On behalf of the county commissioners, Wayne Wilt signed a letter to the state's Deparment of Business and Economic Development (DBED) stating strong endorsement by the board of commissioners of this undertaking.

Funding will be sought from the Appalachian Regional Commission, the Economic Development Administration, and the DBED's Future Technology-Focused Incubators program.

OTHER BUSINESS

Lee Thorne, director of the Garrett County Roads Department, updated the commissioners on work accomplished by his agency.

He reported on meetings with Mike Sines, maintenance director for the Garrett County Board of Education, concerning some grading work needed at the Southern High School. Thorne described about a day's work to be done on redigging diversion ditches near the track. Thorne advised the commissioners that in order for his department to provide this service to the board of education, a letter of authorization from them would be needed.

Thorne also advised the commissioners on progress and problems faced in completing access roads for the Yough Glades Elementary School. There have been problems in securing clear title to the right of way needed. He also spoke of the possibility of sharing some of the expenses for such a road with the town of Mtn. Lake Park. This topic had been raised by the town council in a meeting earlier this year, he said.

DSS Employees Attend Training In Family Therapy

Employees of the Garrett County Department of Social Services received intensive training in family issues recently.

Sue Lowther, of Continuing Child Protective Services, and Jennifer Bodes and Cathy Neubert, of Families Now, attended a five-day practicum on home-based therapy at the Philadelphia Child Guidance Center, Pa.

The skills acquired at this practicum will be used to enhance their ability to help local families resolve issues they face on a daily basis.

Families Now and Child Protective Services are home-based programs designed for family preservation. The goals are to empower families and help them achieve and maintain stability and self-sufficiency. A few of the services provided include: individual/-marital/family/group therapy, parenting education, conflict resolution, assistance in developing a support network, and assistance with training and/or employment

This five-day intensive training practicum offered applied teaching using video-taped case examples and small group seminars. Learning modules were selected from the Child Guidance Center's curriculum so that didactic and clinical skills modules were relevant to individual trainees.

The Family Therapy Training Center of the Child Guidance Center of The Children's Hospital of Philadelphia is recognized as a leading facility for the teaching of eco-systemic structural short-term family therapy. Founded in 1975 by Salvador Minuchin, M.D., developer of Structural Family Therapy, the Center has trained hundreds of mental health and other human service professionals in the practice of family therapy and ecologically examining the home, school and community environments for those elements which can be mobilized in creating sustained change.

Anyone wishing further information on the services provided by Families Now or Child Protective Services may contact Sue Lowther or Cathy Neubert at 301-334--5407.

ing Western Maryland as a major, nationally and internationally recognized venue for participation, development, and education in a wide range of adventure sports activities."

The introduction noted why Western Maryland is "particularly well suited" for establishing the center, not only because of its environment and natural/recreational resources, but also because of its proximity to major urban and suburban populations. "As the trend toward more mini-vacations to nearby areas continues, Western Maryland can be expected to become a prime point destination tourist site," the introduction said.

The proposal also contains over a dozen functions of the Adventuresports Center, which would include: support training and educational programs for practitioners and professionals in the industry; plan, develop, and manage adventure sports venues and facilities, as well as adventure sports-based programs for all age groups; develop, promote, and administer adventure sports competitions at state, regional, national, and international levels; provide educational opportunities for students enrolled in the Adventuresports programs at GCC and FSU; and undertake marketing programs to attract visitors, participants, and practitioners to the center and area venues.

A number of benefits of establishing such a center were also described in the proposal, such as: increasing business for local motels, restaurants, and other service providers; expanding employment opportunities through center activities; enhancing efforts to attract new businesses to the area; increasing tax revenues; and establishing a viable four-season resort through year-'round programmed activities.

The local agencies listed above have committed an additional $12,000 for the feasibility study.

The Maryland Economic Development Corporation will hold a meeting on Monday, Aug. 11, in Baltimore to consider the grant application.

WHY IS IT?
"Why is it? A man wakes up in the morning after sleeping on an advertised blanket, in advertised pajamas. He will bathe in an advertised tub, wash with advertised soap, shave with an advertised razor, drink advertised coffee after his advertised juice, cereal and toast (toasted in his advertised toaster), put on advertised clothes and an advertised hat. He will ride to work in an advertised car, sit at an advertised desk, and write with an advertised pen. Yet this man hesitates, saying that advertising does not pay. Finally, when his unadvertised business goes badly he will then advertise it for sale."

Oakland's 14-15-Year-Olds Eliminated From Tournament

The Oakland Little League All-Star team comprised of 14- and 15-year-old players, which won the district and sectional championships, was eliminated from the North Maryland championship series yesterday by falling to Arbutus in a best-of-three series at Taneytown.

The Oakland team was edged 2-1 on Tuesday and fell in game two yesterday, 4-3, in an extra-innings contest.

Details of the games were not received; however, Oakland manager Ken Tressler reported that, in the first game, the Oakland players just didn't connect with the ball. "Their pitcher was not particularly outstanding," he said, "but we just weren't hitting."

In the second game, Oakland was faced by a good left-handed pitcher, the first lefty they had met throughout the playoffs. "We don't have any left-handers on our pitching staff, and so we just didn't adjust well to his pitching," Tressler said.

The Oakland all-stars earned a spot in the North Maryland championship series by sweeping the Thurmont all-stars this past weekend in another best-of-three series to capture the Maryland sectional title. Oakland crushed the host team on Friday, 12-1, and won game two on Saturday, 18-8.

Friday's game was scoreless until the top of the fourth inning when Christian Warfield smacked a solo home run to give Oakland a 1-0 lead. Oakland broke the game open in the fifth with eight runs, as Mike Shahan and Warfield led off the inning with singles, Jordan Uphold, Keith Parks, and Jason Hinebaugh followed with doubles, and Billy Martin rapped a pinch-hit home run.

Oakland added three more runs in the sixth behind a two-run blast by Josh Bosley.

Parks finished with three hits in the game, while Shahan, Uphold, and Warfield each recorded two. Uphold earned the win on the mound by pitching five innings of two-hit ball while striking out nine, and then getting relief from Jason Finch, who tossed the final inning.

Thurmont jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the first inning of Saturday's game, but Oakland knotted the score in the bottom of the inning behind a two-run, two-out single by Toby Upton.

Thurmont took the lead again at 5-3 with two runs in the top of the second, but Oakland answered with six runs in the bottom of the frame to take the lead for good. In that inning, Hinebaugh led off with a home run. Then Martin drew a walk, and Shahan, Uphold, Bosley, and Warfield each followed with a double. Parks then reached base on an error and Jason Rohrbaugh rapped a two-run double to make the score 9-5.

Thurmont cut the lead to a single run with three runs in the top of the third, which is where the score remained until the bottom of the fifth when Uphold smashed a three-run homer after a walk and an infield error. Oakland added two more runs in the same inning to take a 14-8 lead.

Oakland scored four more runs in the bottom of the sixth behind a two-run gap shot by Uphold, who finished four-for-four on the day with a homer, two doubles, and a single. Warfield went three-for-four with a double and two singles.

Finch, who relieved Bosley on the mound in the third inning, held Thurmont scoreless over the final three innings to earn the win. The game was called after six because of the 10-run rule.

Coming into Taneytown this week for the North Maryland series, the Oakland team was 6-0 in district and section play, having won by a combined score of 84-16. They had hit 15 home runs, while the Oakland pitching staff struck out 38 batters and allowed only 22 hits.

Arbutus will advance to the Mid-Atlantic championships, which will begin in Salisbury on Sunday.

Women's Golf Results Noted

Members of the Women's Golf Association of the Oakland Golf Club met for flight play July 10 with low gross and low net awarded for four flights. Winners were: first flight, Pat Filsinger, low gross, 84, and Bobbie Seward, low net, 71; second flight, Loretta Pernell, low gross, 97, and Cheryl Wotherspoon, low net, 70; third flight, Julia Sines, low gross, 104, and Marion Boehmer, low net, 73; fourth flight, Carolyn Deverse, low gross, 114, and Vickie Regnier, low net, 89. Janice Welch won low putts with 30.

A scrambler was played July 17 with one-fourth of the total handicap given for each team. Winning first place with 43.5 was the team of Janice Welch, Margaret Moran, Ruth Ann Porter, and Karon Schnably. Placing second with 44.8 were Annis Colaw, Kim Shirer, Marion Boehmer, and Vickie Regnier, while the team of Marianna Naylor, Anne Jesnak, Julia Sines, and Ruth Kight took third place with 46. The Welch team won low putts with 26.

Oakland 13-Year-Old Team One Win Away From Mid-Atlantic

The Oakland Little League 13-year-old All-Stars are just one win away from a North Maryland title and a trip to the Mid-Atlantic Championships, as the local squad blanked Rising Sun, 5-0, Tuesday in the first of a three-game series. The second game was to have been played yesterday, but got rained out and will be played today, if possible.

Bryson Meyers was the star of the contest for Oakland, as he fired a two-hitter and struck out nine in going the distance on the mound. Leading the offense were Joel Helbig, who had three hits, and Ricky Reams, who had two hits and an RBI.

No other details of the game were received.

If Oakland loses today, a second game will be played to determine the champion. If Oakland wins the series, the team will travel to Delaware tomorrow for its first game in the Mid-Atlantic Championships.

Oaks Sweep Romney To Keep First Place In Pen-Mar Ranks

Oakland maintained its grip on first place in the Pen-Mar Baseball League standings this past Saturday by sweeping a doubleheader over a strong Romney team, 7-4 and 6-2, in Romney. The losses were only the fifth and sixth for Romney against 12 victories.

Aaron Taylor paced Oakland's offense in the first game, as he recorded a double and two singles, plus two RBI. Ernie Galusky added a double and a run-producing single, Ronnie Palmer hit two RBI singles, Jeremy Fitzwater contributed two singles, and Donnie Reeves hit an RBI double in the Oaks' 12-hit performance.

The Oaks took a 3-0 lead in the second inning, were up 4-3 after five, and took a 7-3 advantage with two runs in the sixth.

Jason Lantz went the distance on the mound and allowed only four hits, even though Romney recorded 13 hits. He walked just one and struck out three.

Leading Romney at the plate were Kevin Combs with three singles and an RBI, Larry Hott with three singles, Dusty Brill and Kevin Stein with two singles and one RBI each, and Craig Turner with a double. Taking the loss on the mound was Eric Hott, who walked two and recorded six strike-outs.

In game two, the Oaks scored all six of their runs in the bottom of the third inning. With the exception of that inning, Romney's Turner pitched an excellent game, as he threw six innings of hitless ball.

The Oaks were down 1-0 going into their half of the third when Ryan Folk and Bob Fritz led off with singles. Bill Phillips then brought Folk home with a double to tie the score. Fitzwater followed with a two-run double and, after a double by Galusky and a fielder's choice, Palmer and Reeves each sent runs home with sacrifice flies.

Justin Foutz earned the win on the mound for Oakland, as he went the distance, allowed six hits, struck out three, and did not issue a walk. Turner struck out five and allowed no walks.

Nick Lahman had two singles for Romney, Brill added a double, and Jamie Ganoe recorded a single and an RBI.

The Oaks will play three games this Saturday and a single game on Sunday to wrap up their regular season. They will host Fairmont at Garrett Community College in a single game, slated to begin at 1 p.m., and then play a make-up doubleheader with LaVale. They will travel to North Marion High School on Sunday to meet Fairmont in a 2 p.m. game. The league playoffs will get underway next week.

Sisler Lumber Still Rolling In Hot Stove

Sisler Lumber Company, which sits atop the Hot Stove League standings, wrapped up its regular season last Thursday with a 12-2 thrashing of the visiting Frostburg Eagles, and then won its first playoff game in a tight 6-5 contest Monday against Document Solutions, also played in Accident. Sisler and Document were to have played their second game in a best-of-three series last night, but the game was postponed because of rain.

Levi Schmuck doubled and singled to drive in three runs for Sisler Lumber against the Eagles, while Paul Beitzel hit a triple and a double to plate two runs, and Josh Hook brought home two more runs with a pair of doubles. Also recording two RBI was Taylor Glotfelty with a two-run double, B.A. Sisler singled twice to drive in another run, and Adam Brenneman contributed an RBI double.

The Eagles, who finished with a 9-5-1 record, were limited to just three hits by Hook, Sisler, and Brenneman, with Matt Youngblood and Ryan Brodbeck each getting a double.

The game was called after five innings because of the 10-run rule.

It took a two-run rally in the seventh inning for Sisler to edge Document Solutions in Monday's playoff contest. That's when B.A. Sisler singled home the tying run and Taylor Glotfelty's ground ball brought home the winning run.

Down 5-4 going into the final inning, Sisler started its rally when Jeff Carr drew a walk. After a pop out, Schmuck also drew a walk and Sisler singled home Carr to tie the score at 5-5. Schmuck, who had advanced to third on Sisler's single, raced home on Glotfelty's grounder and just slid under the tag to plate the winning run. It was only the fourth loss in 17 games for Document Solutions.

A two-run homer by Joe Shaffer gave Document Solutions a 3-0 lead in the third inning. Chris Bloskey had two singles in Document's eight-hit effort.

Sisler's finished with six hits, with Sisler and Hook each recording two singles.

Carr earned the win on the mound, as he pitched all seven innings, struck out seven, and walked three. Taking the loss was Larry O'Baker, who struck out nine and walked nine.

Western Garrett Ties, Then Wins Playoff Contest

Western Garrett ended its regular season in the Hot Stove League by tying with visiting Boal's Funeral Home, 5-5, on Sunday, and then won its first playoff game Monday night by defeating the Jaycees/Eagles team at Cumberland, 9-5. The second game of the best-of-three series with the Jaycees/Eagles was originally slated for last night, but had to be postponed because of rain.

Mark Wolfe led Western Garrett's 11-hit effort against Boal's, as he pounded out four singles for one RBI. Tim Umbel added a double, a single, and an RBI, while P.J. Workman doubled and brought home a run, Jeremy Frazee hit two singles, and Greg Speicher contributed a double.

Western Garrett fell behind 5-4 when Boal's scored two runs in the top of the seventh, but rallied for a run in the bottom of that inning to knot the score. The game had to be called after nine innings because of darkness.

Workman pitched the first seven innings and struck out seven before giving way to Ryan Savage, who tossed the final two frames and recorded three strike-outs. The two gave up a total of seven hits, with Jeremy Duckworth recording a double and single and Travis Mayhew getting a double and an RBI.

In Monday's playoff win over Jaycees/Eagles, it was Jeremy Frazee who powered Western Garrett's offense, as he went three-for-four with a triple and an RBI.

The lead changed hands four times before Western Garrett scored two runs in the top of the sixth to take the lead for good at 6-3. In that inning, Workman led off with a single, stole second, and came home on a double by Savage. Then Savage scored on a single by Brant Green.

Western Garrett added three insurance runs in the seventh, with Frazee, Tim Umbel, and Workman each recording an RBI.

Besides Frazee's four singles in a 14-hit effort, Savage finished with a double and a single, while Green and Speicher each singled twice.

Getting three of the Jaycees' seven hits was Marcus Holly, who had a triple and two singles. Jacob Kagey added a double and a single.

Keith Artice, who relieved Green in the fifth, was credited with the win, as the two combined for seven strike-outs. Taking the loss was Tony Fetters, who struck out six in going the distance.

Western Garrett improved its overall mark to 13-3-1 with the win, while the Jaycees/Eagles dropped to 12-4.

Grantsville Post Is Ousted From League Playoffs

Grantsville Post 214 saw its chances to play in the Hot Stove League playoffs dashed Sunday by losing to host Medicine Shoppe, 4-2, in a game that decided the eighth and final playoff team.

Post 214 managed only two hits against Pete Gostomski and Jason Chapman, who combined for 13 strike-outs.

Gostomski also paced his team's hitting, as he recorded three singles. Jim Taylor hit two singles, Jared Ross rapped a double, and Andy Clark and Steve Diehl each had RBI singles.

J. Kenner pitched well for Grantsville, as he went the distance and allowed just six hits. Roy Holliday had a triple to pace Post 214 at the plate.

Garrett Ends Legion Season With Win, Loss

Garrett County wrapped up its Mountain District Junior American Legion baseball campaign this past week by being topped by Fort Cumberland on Saturday, 5-3, at Garrett Community College, and then defeating Petersburg, 4-1, Monday evening on the West Virginians' diamond. The split left the Garrett County team with a final 14-15 record.

The win by Fort Cumberland was the seventh straight against no defeats in the second half of the '97 season, as Pat Pennel, Chris Mazzone, and Angelo Bascelli combined for a four-hitter against the local team.

Aaron Blocher pitched well for Garrett County through the fifth inning, as there was no score until the top of the sixth when J.R. Cross ripped a solo homer to give Fort Cumberland a 1-0 advantage.

The visitors added three runs in the eighth, as Brian Powell walked, moved to second on a sacrifice by Jeremy Boyer, and scored on a single by Josh Logsdon. Cross then drew a walk, and two more runs came in on an infield error.

Powell, Boyer, and Cross all singled in the top of the ninth to record Fort Cumberland's final run.

Garrett County recorded a run in the bottom of the eighth and two more in the ninth. Derek Everd and Matt Fritz each singled and scored.

The win upped Fort Cumberland's overall mark to 18-4 and the team will compete in the state tournament, slated to begin Aug. 1.

Joey DiSimone drove in three of his team's four runs in the win over a strong Petersburg team on Monday. The Petersburg squad has lost only five games in 28 starts.

DiSimone hit a solo homer in the top of the sixth inning, and also had a triple and a single. Jason Weaver and Joel Uphold, who went the distance on the mound, each singled twice. Uphold allowed only five hits, walked one, and struck out 12.

Johnny Berg had three of his team's hits - a double and two singles - while Courtney Cooper added a double.

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

by Ted Rissell

Last Friday night's thunder storm brought fresh northwest winds for the Saturday races. The winds were shifty, particularly at the finish line, which was just off Paradise Point. Jane and Dave Mahan were approaching the line in first place, closely followed by Don and Barbara Griffin. A big wind shift set them away from the finish line, allowing John and Jennifer Meredith to finish first in the Flying Scot A fleet. Mahans and Griffins were second and third.

The same shifty wind continued and forced your correspondent to tack several times remaining parallel to the line, allowing several boats to finish ahead. In Saturday's second race, John and Jennifer Meredith were again first, followed by Mo and Vicki Willey, second, and Doug and Audrey MacMillan, third.

In the Flying Scot B fleet, Lauren Spinnenweber and father Bruce continued their winning ways with first place finishes in both Saturday races. Al and Jean Thagard were second in the first race, followed by Ed and Barbara Peters. The second race on Saturday saw Dave Frank and father John take second, while the Thagards finished third.

Many sailors were pleased to see 12-year-old Meredith Dodd skipper the family Scot. In the past she skippered with an adult crew. Last weekend she sailed with her younger sister Ashley and a young friend. Although they were not in the top three, they had a respectable finish. Meredith had just finished the advanced junior week at the Deep Creek Sailing School.

The Laser fleet saw last year's junior champion, Jessica Potts, give the boys a run for their money with a third place finish behind Kevin Rissell and Keith Spinnenweber. In the second race Kevin Rissell was first, followed by head sailing instructor John Coolidge and Keith Spinnenweber, third.

By Sunday, the high pressure had moved further east, and winds were light from the northeast, more or less. In the Flying Scot A fleet, John and Jennifer Meredith made it a perfect weekend by finishing first. Doug and Audrey MacMillan were second, and the Mahans were third. In the B fleet Lauren and Bruce Spinnenweber also made it a perfect weekend with another first, while Dave and John Frank were second, and the Thagards finished third. After a slow race, many of the Scots were towed home, although by 4 p.m., a steady breeze filled in from the west. Many weekend sailors note that the weather always improves late Sunday afternoon. Those of us who live here all year just smile.

In the Laser fleet Keith Spinnenweber was first, followed by Gordie Clefton and Jessica Potts.

Soccer Coaches Clinic Slated

The Mountaintop Soccer Association, in conjunction with Major League Soccer Camps, will be offering a coaches clinic on Saturday, August 2, from 10 a.m. to noon at the Southern High School fields.

"Last year's clinic was a resounding success and a springboard to the upcoming soccer season. The coaches encouraged us to try the very same activities that the kids would participate in at camp," said Nancy Pagenhardt, camp coordinator.

All who sign up to coach in the fall and any parents interested in learning more about the game of soccer are invited to attend this clinic, which will cover all age categories and provide information and ideas for the 1997 season. For more information, persons may contact Pagenhardt at 301-334-1021.

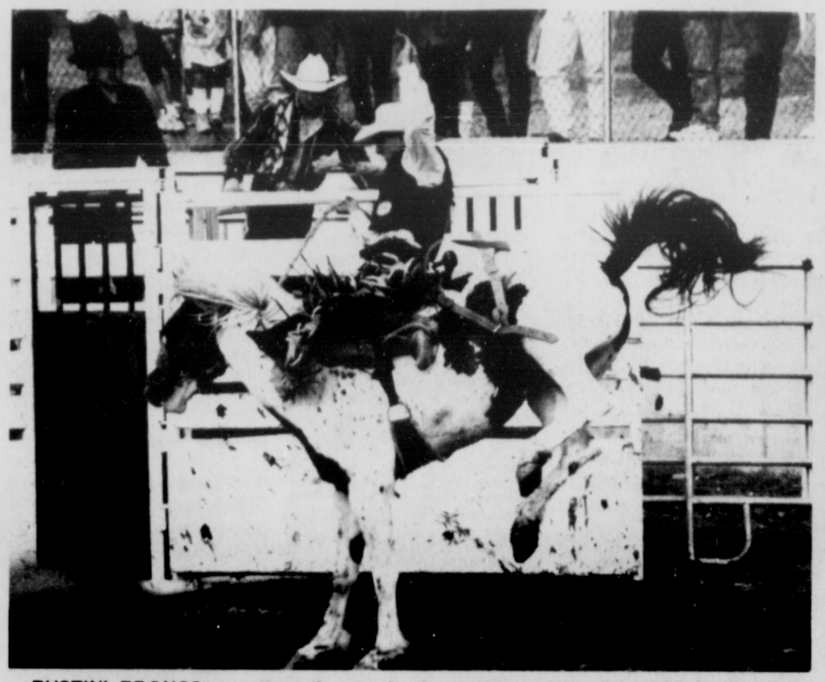
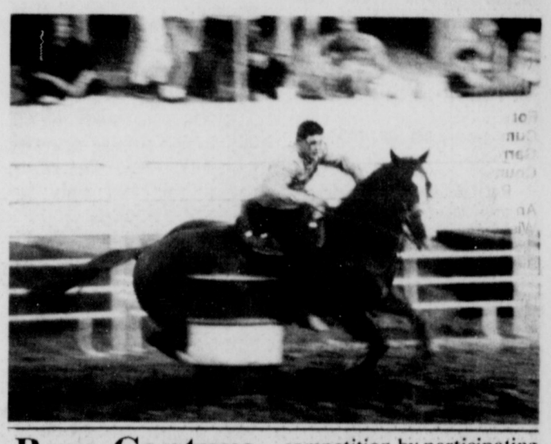
My Second Hometown Rodeo



BUSTIN' BRONCS, or attempting to, in the recent rodeo sponsored by the Deer Park VFD and held at the fairgrounds in McHenry were these two local riders, Steve Brenneman of Bittinger, pictured left, and Toby Glotfelty of McHenry, above. Biff Addington won the event with a total of 67 points, Jimmy Grasso placed second, and Joe Holly was third. Brenneman placed second in the bareback riding. Photos courtesy of Sandra Savage.

BARREL RACING was among the events at the recent Deer Park VFD rodeo at the Garrett County Fairgrounds, as riders weaved their way through the barrel course in as little time as possible. Above is Susan Hout of Beans Cove, Pa., and below is local rider Cody Gilpin, Swanton. Another local competitor, Ray Wilt, captured first place in the jackpot barrel race.



by Rick Bond

The Dave Martin Rodeo Company came blowing in to town on a Thursday morning in June headed for the McHenry fairgrounds to set up for the second annual Deer Park Community Volunteer Fire Department Rodeo. The rodeo was held Friday and Saturday, June 27 and 28.

After getting the arena set up Thursday afternoon, the picking up of rock and debris started on Friday. The stock arrived in the afternoon and we got down to the serious rodeo business on Friday evening.

Friday evening was Canadian night in the bareback riding, with Gaetan Bernard placing first with a 71 score. Michael Dauost got a 69 and Sylvain Meuneir a 67. Local bareback rider Steve Brenneman came in on Saturday evening with a 70 score to take second place.

Dave Martin's steers proved to be too sly for the big men. There were no qualifying runs in the steer wrestling.

Biff Addington held on with 67 points for first in saddle bronc, with Jimmy Grasso in second for a 62 and Joe Holly captured third with a 60-point ride.

In calf roping, Bill Wenrich tied his calf in 21.6 seconds for first and Eric Hartenstein got a second with a 23.3 second tie.

Cowgirl Roxanne Dawson ran the pattern in 15.67 seconds to capture a first place barrel run, Laura Bernardo was 15.92 for second, Levi Leach ran a 15.93 for third, and Jill Shoop came in fourth with a 16.91.

PROVIDING LAUGHS and lots of fun at the Deer Park VFD rodeo was the rodeo clown, pictured above with a pony that was also pretty good at clowning around. Below, Jacob Savage of McHenry takes off for his winning, six-second excursion in the sheep riding competition.

Local speedster Ray Wilt won the jackpot barrel race on Saturday.

In team roping, Chuck Smith and Kevin Brown had a blazing 7.5-second time for first place. The local team of Bill Savage and Bob Slatterback took second with 11.4, Mike Daughtery and Ron McIntire was third with a 12.7, and Chuck Smith and Keith Brown got fourth with 13.8.

On a re-ride, Clinton Cessna got an 80-point ride on the bull branded 66, one of Dave Martin's Bounty Bulls. Wade Hughes also got an 80-point ride to split first and second with Clinton. Tim Johnson made a 79-point ride for third and Jesse Martin, Sonny Williams, and Nathan Catlett split fourth, fifth, and sixth.

Local mutton buster Scott Savage won the sheep riding event with a full six-second ride. This is always a popular event with the spectators.

Deer Park fire department representative Chuck Fitzwater stated they would like to thank Dave Martin, all the guys and girls of local 169, Fly by Night Rodeo Productions, all the sponsors, and everyone else who helped make the rodeo a success; also Steve Brenneman and Vickie Bond for their help in coordinating and rock picking.

This rodeo is one of my personal favorites because it is so close to home. To find out more about rodeo in the Northeast, you may subscribe to The Buckin' Chute, the official publication of the American Professional Rodeo Association, by writing to The Buckin' Chute, Sherry Wenrick, Publisher, 847 Hubler Ridge Rd., Bellefonte, PA 16823. Chorpenning, Jenny Grant, and Jill Speicher finished second. Taking a third place in the relay events was the tyke team consisting of Logan Craig, Krista Hollingsworth, Jessica Petrella, and Julie Swerbinsky.

The meet also included swimmers from Bel Air, Cumberland, Keyser, LaVale, Romney, and Moorefield teams.

The Manta Rays continued their 1997 season of competition by participating in the annual YMCA butterfly meet, held last night at the YMCA center in Cumberland. They will compete in the YMCA championships this Saturday at the same location. Results of both of those events will be published next week.

Food For Thought

Add special flavor to grilled chicken by scattering orange, lemon, lime or grapefruit peels over the coals for the last few minutes. Nice for ham or fish, too.
Vegetables looking a little wilted? To refresh them, dunk in hot water, then in icy cold water with a splash of vinegar.
Don't fry eggplant slices for rollatini. It's easier—and far more healthful—to brush lightly with olive oil and bake 8 minutes until softened. Roll slices around a ricotta cheese-and-herb mix, top with tomato sauce and mozzarella and bake until cheese is melted.
Hooray for fresh corn on the cob that's cooked on the grill. Sure, it's great as is, but have you tasted it with lots of fresh thyme mixed in the butter.
Fruit for grownups: everyday strawberry halves and cut-up fresh pineapple get a special flair when tossed with fresh mint, a little sugar, and just enough bourbon.
You'll enjoy eating you meal outside on our deck overlooking Deep Creek Lake. Come by boat!

OUTDOORS WOMAN PROGRAM COMING

Ladies looking to improve their competency in outdoor sports will want to know more about the Becoming an Outdoors Woman program that will be held at the 4-H Center along Route 495 near Bittinger August 22-24.

The program was established in 1991 by Dr. Christine Thomas at the University of Wisconsin's Stevens Point campus. The idea grew from a conference there called "Breaking Down The Barriers," dealing with why women did not, generally, participate in hunting and angling activities. Workshops are now held in over 40 states and seven Canadian provinces. The program may be for you (1) if you have never tried these outdoor activities, but have hoped for an opportunity to learn, (2) if you want to improve your existing skills, or (3) if you have been exposed to some outdoor activities, but would like to try some new ones.

The workshop is geared to women, but anyone over the age of 18 is welcome. Activities are taught in a casual atmosphere where participants can feel at ease to ask questions and learn at their own pace. It will be packed with fun activities, hands-on learning experiences, skill building, ego enhancement, and opportunities for camaraderie and friendship. The classes are introductory level in the areas of hunting, fishing, and non-harvest pursuits such as camping, canoeing, etc. Activities may include basics on fly fishing, firearm safety, cooking, map reading and orienteering, stream ecology, and archery, among others.

The Becoming an Outdoors Woman workshop is sponsored by the Department of Natural Resources. Registration is now in progress for the Garrett County workshop and one to be held in Cecil County on September 19-21 on a first-come, first-served basis. There are partial scholarships available for those people who would like to attend, but need financial assistance.

For additional information about the workshops, scholarship availability or to receive a registration package, contact Nancy Smogor at 301-777-2136. The $165 fee includes meals, lodging, four classes, and evening entertainment on both Friday and Saturday. The program starts at noon on Friday and runs until noon Sunday.

LIVE BAIT MAY BE THE ANSWER

Midsummer fishing can be tough. The waters have warmed and there is a lot more human activity taking place on both lakes and streams that alters the normal patterns of feeding fish. One solution to the summer fishing doldrums is to give live bait a try. Many times this is just the ticket to action.

One of the most effective live baits for bass, trout, and pan fish is the crayfish. In the normal course of their life, crayfish work the bottoms of lakes and streams looking for food. All crayfish go through a molting process. This simply means that in order to grow, they must dissolve their old shells, grow a bit, then redevelop a new shell. This entire process only takes a couple days, but while undergoing the molt, the crayfish is virtually defenseless. Bass regard these "soft shells" as delicacies.

Crayfish are creatures of the night, feeding mostly from dusk to dawn. Immature crayfish do come out at times during the daylight and this is the time they are most susceptible to the bass. Crayfish generally inhabit shallow waters, less than five feet, and anglers should keep this in mind for presentation.

The best way to hook a crayfish is through the tail with a weedless hook or hold it to the hook with a couple of rubber bands. Clip the pincers so they can't grab onto underwater objects. Add a split shot a foot or so above the bait and you are ready to go. And when fishing for bass, don't set the hook until you feel tension on the line.

BAIT FISHERMAN'S AID

Some fish hit hard. They can snap the tip down and flip the rod into the depths before you even know they've hit. Other fish will drop the bait if they feel continued resistance to their mouthing the bait. They won't come back and the hit is lost. Some fishing conditions find the water and wind currents so great, they make control of the line until a fish is hooked difficult. Rich Faler, editor of Bait Fisherman magazine, has designed a unique device to counter these conditions. He calls it "Fisherman's Fingertips."

The Fisherman's Fingertips holds the line securely until a fish bites. It attaches to the rod with quick and easy "hook and loop" patches. The mounting spot is on the rod handle just in front of the reel seat. To use, cast the line out and reel it to the desired tension. The user then grasps the line in front of the Fisherman's Fingertips and slips it under the Fisherman's Fingertips' top magnet. The device holds the line just enough to counteract wind, current, and large live bait, but soft enough to pull out when the fish bites. With the reel in free spool, a fish can take the bait without becoming alarmed and allow the fisherman plenty of time to set the hook. The only thing holding the line is a magnetic strip.

Interested bait fishermen should inquire with their regular supplier or write Beaver Pond Products, PO Box 224, Greenville, PA 16125.

including the Ruth Enlow Library System, the Garrett County Health Department, and Garrett County Memorial Hospital, just to name a few," he said.

Herman then proposed that GRIC act as a facilitator of a consortium application for the Universal Access E-rate on behalf of the Garrett County community, and asked for the support of the board of education. After Herman's presentation, he and Don Storck, director of information services for the college, led the joint board members on a tour of GCC's Telecommunications Center. He later commented that he felt the school board members present were "very interested" in GRIC, and that they were "very receptive" to the idea of GRIC applying for the Universal Access E-rate.

SCHOOL BUS GIFT

In another item of note resulting from the joint board meeting, Charles Bender, chairperson of the GCC Board of Trustees, reported that the board of education had presented GCC with the gift of a used school bus for the college's Adventuresports Institute. Herman accepted the gift on behalf of the Institute, and later commented that the bus "is in very nice condition, and that we are very appreciative. It will be put to good use by the Adventuresports Institute in transporting their students to and from field studies. We can't thank the board enough for this gesture."

ACADEMIC REPORT

In academic matters, Herman presented the enrollment report. Summer sessions I and II enrolled a combined total of 255 students, up 81 students, or 46%, from last summer. This summer's full-time enrollment (FTE) stands at 30.13%, up approximately 84% from last summer's 16.33% FTE.

The fall 1997 semester headcount is 341 students to date, which is an increase of five students compared to this time last year. FTE for the fall semester currently stands at 139.78%, up nearly 4% from last year's 133.37 FTE at this time. Classes for the fall semester begin on September 3.

Stolen Dozer

Paugh drove down Vindex Road for approximately two miles, then reportedly turned around and was traveling east on Vindex when the sheriff's office received an anonymous citizen call at 8:30 p.m. that a man who appeared to be intoxicated was driving a bulldozer through front yards and driveways of homes along the road.

Sheriff's deputies who responded to the scene activated their red lights and sirens in an attempt to get Paugh to stop, but, after turning his head to look at them, he refused to do so. Two of the deputies then ran alongside the bulldozer, one on the left and one on the right, and yelled for him to stop, but according to the report he not only ignored them but also made attempts to strike them with the bulldozer.

When Paugh finally did stop the vehicle under his own power he refused to dismount from it, and physically resisted the deputies when they attempted to remove him. He was eventually restrained and placed under arrest, and the $50,000 bulldozer was recovered with no damages sustained to it. Damage figures for lawns on Vindex Road are not available.

Paugh faces charges of two counts of first-degree assault, one count of felony theft, one count of resisting arrest, and one count of reckless endangerment with a bulldozer. He was subsequently released from jail on a $25,000 bond.

Families In Need Receive Safety Seats

More than 200 low income families throughout Maryland have been given new child safety seats, as a result of a nationwide child safety seat distribution program. The program, which was established through a public/private partnership to promote child passenger safety, is being administered by the Maryland Kids in Safety Seats (KISS) loaner program. The Maryland SAFE KIDS Coalition, the Maryland State Highway Administration, the Maryland State Police, and the Safety Council of Maryland are working in partnership with KISS.

"We must do everything possible to protect our precious resource, our children," said Deborah Baer, president, Maryland Child Passenger Safety Association, and chairman, SAFE KIDS Child Passenger Safety Sub-Committee. "This program enables us to reach hundreds of families throughout Maryland who may not have the means to purchase this lifesaving equipment."

Colonel David B. Mitchell, superintendent, Maryland State Police, added, "Currently all 50 states and the District of Columbia have child safety seat laws. By providing needy families with safety seats and teaching them proper installation, they can better protect their children while traveling on Maryland roads."

The child safety seat distribution and partnership program, now in its third phase, has been "an enormous success," Baer said. Since 1995, more than 1,700 seats have been distributed. As a result of the educational component provided to the safety seat recipients by KISS and the Maryland Child Passenger Safety Association, Maryland received a greater quantity of child safety seats than Pennsylvania, despite its larger population.

Maryland's child passenger safety law requires that children younger than age 16 (driving age), in any seating position in a motor vehicle, be properly secured in a child safety seat or the vehicle's seat belt. Additionally, children younger than age 16 may not be transported in the unenclosed bed/cargo area of a pickup truck.

Secretary Visits

the staff of the health department to improve health within the county as well as statewide. He commended the positive steps taken toward establishing healthy new traditions in the county by "saying no to unhealthy lifestyles."

The vision statement of the county health department, he noted, reflects the leadership in public health for which the county is recognized across the state. The statement reads: "Garrett County will be a place where we will wisely hold to our healthy traditions, and prudently develop new traditions allowing us to become healthier."

Local needs would play a significant role in determining services and policies of delivery in Garrett County, Wasserman said. Each area of the state has specific needs based on geography, demography, and society, he explained.

In addressing some of the issues of this locale, he said funding was needed to promote education on healthy lifestyles for prevention of disease. A consultant will be coming to the county to assist in responding to home health needs.

Wasserman also spoke of creating incentive programs to encourage health care providers to practice in Garrett County.

Moving to the realm of future directions of medical care in Maryland, Wasserman spoke of the tendency to move away from fee-for-service and toward comprehensive coverage. "We're very pleased with the change of Medicaid to managed care," he stated, noting the full range of services now available to those in the system.

The Health Care Financing Administration (HCFA) has also been pleased with results of the recently created Medicare managed care system, he said.

Wasserman considered the growing problem of those who do not have access to medical care because they are uninsured. "We are actively pursuing ways to deal with the uninsured in the state," he said. Providing these citizens with coverage is listed among the expanded goals of the future, he explained.

Commissioner Wayne Wilt asked Wasserman what role privatization might have in this future growth of managed care. "We would promote privatization of programs," the secretary answered. He also said the types of managed care systems have expanded to include provider-based systems operated by a group of physicians or hospitals or other medically trained people.

Decisions on providing level of service, he said, is best made by one who is both an administrator and medical person.

Dave Markgraf
Mtn. Lake Park

To the Editor:

My name is Tanya and I am 16 years old. The reason I am writing is to let people know what a great place Garrett County is.

When I was in eighth grade, I was living in Baltimore. I hated it and always said that I'd eventually wind up in a better place. So I moved out and my aunt brought me here to Oakland. It was a big difference!

I didn't have to be afraid to go outside. I didn't have to be afraid to be alone late at night anymore. I didn't have to live in a "concrete jungle" anymore. For the first time ever, I saw blue skies and green trees, plus, during the first snow I witnessed here, I saw more snow than I'd ever seen in all my life. I may have dreaded helping shovel it, but it sure was beautiful!

The very first words out of my mouth when I first arrived were "It looks like a painting or a picture from a storybook!" To this day I still believe that.

Currently, I no longer live here, and I am up only for the summer, sad to say. But I still feel the same. I still like the people here, the way they do about anything to help you. I miss that so much. I miss the fact that whenever I went anywhere, I always ran into my friends. I suppose that explains why I learned to love small-town life. It felt as if people you didn't know or had ever met before were still your friends.

I also want to compliment the teachers at Southern High. They are the best I ever had. I only attended Southern for a year and a half, but that was long enough to know that the teachers care. It's not like in Baltimore. They taught me things I wanted to know. When I transferred back to Baltimore, I learned nothing for the rest of the year, except how to cope with an entirely unfeeling student body and faculty. I think it's sad that we aren't even allowed to have school dances! The students can't be controlled! I even skipped going to prom (the only dance each year) this year because I was warned how it would turn out.

The thing I find strange, though, is this: People here don't realize how lucky they are. They don't understand how good they have it here. It makes me want to cry when people come up and say to me, "Well, you're lucky! I wish I lived in Baltimore!" Why am I so lucky?! They tell me that nothing happens around here, that it's boring, and there's nothing to do. That's funny because I always manage to find something!

This is the only place I'll ever call home. (It's perfect here!) Garrett County is the only place where I have ever been or ever will be happy. I just want people to open their eyes and see how beautiful it is, and how lucky they are. I could say a lot more nice things about Southern High, and Garrett County, but there's not enough time in the world to say even half of it.

Sincerely,
Tanya True

Just Look Up

As we walk busily through a mall, intent upon conducting business or arriving at the sale before the bargains are gone, we seldom shift our attention upward to appreciate the beauty of the skylights. Though functional, they are equally striking. How lovely to see the sun stream through broad expanses of glass or to be able to watch the rain fall from the sky as we are shielded from the weather.

Let us consider the love of God. If only we will pause for a few moments in our busy day to look heavenward and reflect upon God's love, our outlook will be brighter and our life more beautiful as we experience the protection provided by His ever-watchful eye.

Take a pause each week to attend your local house of worship and study God's Holy Word. He is always there for you. Just look up.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

HAS SOMEONE PAID THE BILL?

July 27, 1997

Background Scripture:
Hebrews 10:1-14
Devotional Reading:
Hebrews 9:11 through 10:18

"Sir, someone has paid your bill."

"I beg your pardon?," I replied to the hotel clerk.

"Your bill has been taken care of," he assured me.

In time, I discovered who that 'someone' was and my reaction was one of deep gratitude. I felt indebted to our benefactor.

Actually, I had dreaded checking-out of that hotel. I knew that we had charged to our room a number of expensive services. It was a pricey hotel and we were afraid our room bill would come as a great shock to us. And it would have—except that a friend had already paid it. In a sense this is what lies at the heart of the good news of Jesus Christ: "Sir/madam, someone has paid your bill!"

How much more unnerving is it to contemplate standing before our Creator? The 'bill' we accumulate along the way in life—no matter how careful we are—tends to be overwhelming. Even the best of us tend to run a bill that is devilishly expensive.

ANDREW CARNEGIE

Andrew Carnegie, for example, was a ruthless steel baron of the late 19th century. Later, however, Carnegie began to give away large chunks of his wealth, establishing libraries throughout the world and buying pipe organs for derserving groups. His philosophy: "The man who dies rich dies disgraced."

Yet, despite the great amounts he gave away, he died a very, very rich man. I don't know whether, by his own definition, he felt "disgraced," but Carnegie found that it is virtually impossible to give enough away to settle the bill. That's the way it is in life: we can never say enough, give enough, do enough or be enough to settle our account with God.

Under the Levitical priesthood, people tried to pay the bill with sacrifices which the priests made on their behalf. But the system didn't really work, because people tended to concentrate on the ritual rather than the meaning behind it. Hebrews says plainly, "...it is impossible that the blood of bulls and goats should take away sins" (10:4). He also recalls the words of the Psalmist (which he attributes to Christ): "Sacrifices and offerings thou hast not desired, but a body thou hast prepared for me" (10:5,6)—a little different from your Bible because he is quoting from the Greek translation of the Hebrew scriptures.

A SINGLE SACRIFICE

The point is that God does not require these sacrifices and they are of only temporary value, at best, to the people. In stark contrast, however, is the sacrifice which Jesus makes of himself. "For by a single offering he has perfected for all time those who are sanctified" (10:14).

We do not sacrifice animals today, but we have our rituals—ecclesiastical and personal—by which we seek relief from our guilt and atonement for our sins. Some people direct the guilt inwardly, loathing themselves and trying to inflict the punishment they feel they deserve. Others project it outwardly, hating and despising others because they cannot deal with their own guilt.

Here the gospel comes proclaiming that 'Someone has paid your bill' and we strive to live rightly, not to win God's grace—which we can't—but we strive to live rightly because we have already received his grace. Our lives are dedicated to demonstrating by the way we live how deeply we are grateful that the bill has already been paid—in full!

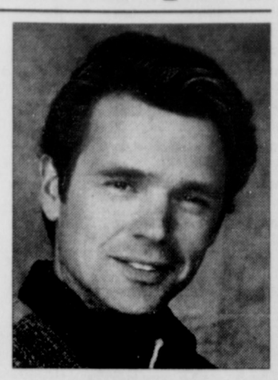
COVER STORY

Ordinary/Extraordinary celebrates human spirit

By John Crook
©TVData Features Syndicate



John Schneider

If the midsummer heat, humidity and swarming insects have left you in a foul mood, CBS has devised a much-needed pick-me-up.

Ordinary/Extraordinary, a new reality-based program that aims to celebrate the human spirit, premieres Friday, Aug. 1. John Schneider (The Dukes of Hazzard) and former Miss America Leanza Cornett host the six-week series, which is taped before a studio audience.

Segments scheduled for the premiere include Cornett feeding sharks underwater while wearing a 27-pound protective suit, a Florida 10-year-old who keeps busy with sports and other activities despite having lost his limbs to bacterial meningitis as an infant, and acrobats from mainland China's Far East Circus demonstrating eye-popping feats.

The episode is rounded out with "News of the Extraordinary," a collection of shorter items, including a report on a motorcycle-riding cat.

If any of this sounds familiar, executive producer Eric Schotz freely acknowledges that the template for his show is That's Incredible, which enjoyed a 1980-84 run on ABC.

"We realized we could reinvent a genre that is no longer on the air," Schotz says. "There's a whole generation of people who grew up without seeing That's Incredible or Real People (NBC, 1979-84).

"We didn't want to copy them, but when they went on the air, they were the only ones who were doing that. There are lots of magazine shows out there, but (they're) indistinguishable from one another. We wanted to do a fun studio show that was positive in nature, featuring the most extraordinary people and stories that we could possibly find."

Extraordinary is a relative term, of course, but Schotz says that the show's remarkable visuals will elevate even an ordinary-sounding segment.

As for his hosts, Schotz says he found Cornett has "a wild side to her – in a good way, of course," when it comes to sky diving and shark feeding. The show also is a nice fit for Schneider, who has a company called FaithWorks Family-Films that produces programming suitable for families.

"We have plenty of stuff coming from the media about bad things," says the actor, who joins the cast of CBS' Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman this fall. "It's about time we had a program that emphasizes the good in people."

Schneider says he was especially moved by an upcoming segment about a couple whose marriage plans were tabled after the bride-to-be was nearly killed in a car accident. Her fiance waited during her lengthy recovery and lovingly chronicled 10 years of their relationship on videotape, from their early dating days to the time when she was well enough to walk down the aisle with assistance and exchange vows.

"He has (on tape) the first time she moved her head by herself, all the way up to the wedding," Schneider says. "Everyone has within them the power to have this kind of extraordinary love, and Ordinary/Extraordinary proves that."

IN FOCUS

The life and career of actress Gloria Swanson are recalled in Gloria Swanson: The Greatest Star, airing Tuesday, July 29, on A&E Network's Biography.

By age 30, Swanson had made a name for herself in movies, and was an arbiter of fashion, an inspiration to feminists, a wife and a mistress. Her waning acting career was revived with the role of Norma Desmond in the 1950 film Sunset Boulevard.

The show features interviews with Swanson's two daughters.

Erica of AMC shares secrets in new book

Susan Lucci

She is Erica Kane – a k a Erica Kane Martin Brent Cudahy Chandler Montgomery Montgomery Chandler Marick Marick – and she wants to tell you a thing or two about having it all.

Erica (Susan Lucci, All My Children) shares her worldly wisdom and attempts to teach readers how to balance ambition and morality in her new book, Having It All.

The book is filled with pictures from her extraordinary soap opera life and includes chapters on self-love, pitfalls, money, morality (which will make you laugh until you hurt), romance, marriage and divorce (at which she is a pro), motherhood, and forgiveness. Erica's most important rule is to love yourself, something she certainly does well.

Dear Candace: Is Alex (Tonja Walker) really off One Life to Live? She always has been one of my favorite characters. Did she get fired or did she want to leave? –Molly on the Internet

Dear Reader: Yes, Walker has left the show. It was a mutual decision between the actress and executives.

Walker wasn't happy with her story lines, but says she liked the way head writers Claire and Matt Labine finished off Alex.

Dear Candace: I was really upset when the original A.J. (Sean Kanan) left General Hospital. What happened? He's one of the best-looking actors on television.

I don't understand why the producers didn't replace Kanan with someone who looks a bit more like him. This new guy is totally different.

Has he been on any other soap operas? –Michelle in Maine.

Dear Reader: Kanan left the show on his own accord. He said he was having personal problems.

Billy Warlock has taken over the role of A.J. He played Frankie on Days of Our Lives and also was on Baywatch.

This was one of those instances in which the producers needed someone who could jump right into the role, and Warlock is a proven actor.

The character also is being taken in a different direction, so the producers weren't worried about the dramatic change of appearance.

Clark Johnson

Q: I am very impressed with Clark Johnson, who plays Meldrick Lewis in Homicide: Life on the Street. Could you tell me something about him? –Jay Shaw, Morehead City, N.C.

A: Johnson began his career as a child actor, moving from his native Philadelphia to jobs on Broadway and in touring companies of such shows as The Me Nobody Knows, Porgy and Bess, Finian's Rainbow and South Pacific.

After attending Eastern Michigan University and Montreal's Loyola Film School, he worked as a camera assistant and special-effects technician, then returned to acting. His film credits include Nick of Time, Colors, Iron Eagle II, Drop Zone and many others. He also has a number of TV guest credits, including SCTV (he once trained at Toronto's famed Second City).

Also an accomplished writer and director, Johnson has conceived and directed music videos for a number of artists and, last season, became the first member of the Homicide cast to direct an episode. The actor is married and has two daughters.

Q: I would like a complete biography of actor-singer Mario Lanza, please, including information about his family, cause of death, etc. –Betty Rimmer, Covington, Va.

A: Lanza's colorful, if brief, life would fill a book; in fact, it has filled several. Since you're looking for complete information, I suggest you try to find Mario Lanza: A Biography by Derrick Mannering. Published in 1992, it should be readily available.

Q: In the early episodes of The Pretender, Miss Parker (Andrea Parker) smoked in almost every scene. Later, it seemed she smoked much less. Have the anti-smoking groups stuck their noses into this? –Sam Sarris via e-mail.

A: No. Parker the actress tells me that, while she is a smoker, it's no picnic for her to have to take heavy drags off a cigarette in take after take. Her character still smokes, but don't expect to see it in every scene.

Q: Can you please help me identify the movie in which Christian Slater played a teen-ager who ran a radio station out of his basement? –J. Smith, Charlotte, N.C.

A: That was a 1990 film titled Pump Up the Volume.

Q: Please help me recall a sitcom from my childhood about women in the service. The woman who played Zelda on Dobie Gillis was in it. –Larry Schmidt, Oakland, Calif.

A: Sheila James played machinist's mate Selma Kowalski in Broadside, a 1964-65 ABC sitcom.

Summer Youth Training Prog. Now Underway

The annual Summer Youth and Employment Training Program (SYETP), which provides training and work experience for local youth, is currently underway in Garrett County, according to M. Sue Shockey of the Garrett County Western Maryland Consortium, "The Training Place." The program, which began July 1 and will continue through Aug. 8, is sponsored by the Consortium and is once again being coordinated by Elmer Redinger. Doug Oxford is the assistant coordinator.

Shockey explained that the youth work program is federally funded through the Jobs Training Partnership Act (JTPA), and is designed to provide work experiences for young people ages 14-21 who have been targeted as either "at-risk" or economically disadvantaged. The program works closely with the Maryland's Tomorrow program and the Garrett County Board of Education in order to provide year-round services to ensure more successful school experiences to some youth.

"Although the Summer Youth program has taken various forms over the past 25 years or so, it still is very involved in providing valuable labor to local parks, schools, and other public sector agencies within Garrett County," Shockey said.

This year, 127 enrollees are in place at 32 job sites.

ON-THE-JOB EXPERIENCE is being obtained by a number of Garrett County youth this summer, and they are in turn providing a variety of worthwhile services, as they participate in the annual Summer Youth and Employment Training Program, sponsored by the Western Maryland Consortium. Above left, Chad Platter and Jeremy McKenzie are instructed in the making of outdoor furniture for New Germany State Park by crew chief Bob Clark. Above right, Crystal Whitaker receives instruction from Evelyn Clark in the area of kitchen skills/cooking, as the two prepare meals for persons at the Grantsville Senior Center and for delivery to homebound seniors. Below left, Kevin Herman, Vincent Upole, and Brandon Ford are busy doing grounds maintenance at the Deep Creek Wastewater Treatment Plant. Below right, Toby Upton and Thomas Upole work with Stan Ford at Herrington Manor State Park to erect a sign. See story for details.

There are seven work crews that have approximately 10 participants and an adult crew chief. Working crew chief supervisors are: Tracy Watson at Deep Creek Lake State Park; Wayne Bosley at Herrington Manor State Park; Mark Rodeheaver with the State Highway Administration; Ruth Umbel at Southern High School; Nancy Folmsbee at the Northern Complex; Robert Clark at New Germany State Park; and Peggy Schrock at Broadford Park.

The crew chiefs also provide on-site training in specific job skills that are designed to make enrollees more employable in their future job searches. Each employee receives up to 20 hours of classroom instruction to support the "hands-on" training at the job site.

The regular work experience employs approximately 25 young people at various public job sites this summer. The youth are involved in jobs ranging from clerical positions at Community Action to custodial and maintenance positions for the Board of Education. At these sites, the staff of the various agencies teach job skills and mentor proper role models for successful future employees.

"Without the cooperation of local public and non-profit agencies, our program could not exist," said Redinger. "Hopefully the efforts and experiences of today will allow for successful employees in Garrett County in future years."

THE BARBECUE DILEMMA

Americans love their barbecued hamburgers, steaks, and chicken, but they face a dilemma in deciding how to cook these foods. Grilling meat too well done will char it, producing compounds that are potentially carcinogenic. But not cooking meat long enough will allow dangerous bacteria, such as E. coli 0157:H7, Salmonella, and Campylobacter to survive.

Given these two alternatives, it is best to be sure that meat is well cooked, because the risk of disease-causing bacteria far outweighs the risk associated with charred meat. However, you can reduce charring by cooking meat at least six inches above the burning coals or lava rocks and using moderate heat. Also, avoid excessive fat on foods you plan to grill, because fat causes flames to flare up, charring the food. If possible, charred areas of meat should be trimmed off.

Most of the E. coli 0157:H7 outbreaks have been linked to undercooked ground beef, but thorough cooking, until the center and cooked-out juices are no longer pink, kills this organism. Consumers often ask how to tell when a hamburger is "done" enough to kill disease-causing bacteria that might be present. Although the tendency is to look at meat color as the primary indicator of doneness, research has shown that measuring internal temperature using a thermometer and observing the color of the meat juices are more reliable indicators. Meat stored at too-high temperatures, kept too long before use, or exposed to too much air can turn brown and look done before it is cooked enough to be safe. To help prevent premature browning, ground beef should be tightly wrapped and either frozen or stored in the refrigerator at 40 degrees F or less for no more than two days.

To be on the safe side, consumers should check both meat and juice color before serving hamburger, and test the internal temperatures of all meat and poultry products with a meat thermometer. It is best to insert the thermometer through the side of a patty to the center. The USDA advises that most cuts of meat and ground beef should be cooked to an internal temperature of 160 degrees F, and poultry to 180 degrees F. To check doneness, consumers also should look for a firm "cooked" texture.

Here are some more tips for summertime grilling:

- Use a covered grill, which helps retain moisture when cooking meat.
- To prevent sticking, lubricate the grill rack with a nonstick spray, or brush foods with a light coating of vegetable oil before placing them on the rack.
- If you are grilling chicken without a sauce, leave the skin on during cooking, and remove it just before serving. You can also skin the chicken before cooking and marinate it. Make some extra marinade for basting on the grill. Be careful not to reuse marinade that has touched raw meat.
- Serve all food soon after grilling, to prevent the growth of bacteria.
- Be sure to wash all utensils and plates that have come in contact with raw meat before using them with cooked foods.

First United Notes Second Quarter Earnings

First United Corporation this week announced earnings for the second quarter of calendar year 1997, which were down slightly from earnings for the same period last year, but the difference was attributed to some major restructuring of the corporation.

"During the second quarter of 1997, our organization continued through the final stages of our process improvement program, which began in late 1996. For an organization such as ours, change is the engine of growth and the spark for creativity. We are continuing to evaluate ways that the bank can forge ahead into the 21st century with the vision, infrastructure, and capital strength to grow and prosper," stated William B. Grant, chairman of the board and chief executive officer.

Grant explained that the company is continuing its efforts throughout 1997 of reshaping the organization as it reconfigured its community office network to gain efficiencies, and improve delivery systems through technology investment in order to respond quickly to customers' needs. "Throughout this process First United National Bank & Trust maintained its tradition of no lay-offs affecting its employees. For those employees accepting the voluntary severance package, the board of directors authorized a total of $207,000 to be charged against earnings during the second quarter of 1997," Grant said.

Excluding the costs of the process improvement, Grant said that corporation income would have been $3.44 million, or 11.94% ahead of 1996 results for the same time period. The corporation, a one-bank holding company headquartered in Oakland, announced year-to-date earnings of $3.07 million, or $.48 per share. This figure is a slight decrease from the earnings of $3.22 million, or $.49 per share reported for the first half of 1996.

"Even though the Corporation reported slightly lower earnings during the first half of 1997, the results are in line with budget projections, and we are confident, due to the cost efficiencies affiliated with this process improvement, the corporation will experience strong performance in the second half of 1997," Grant said.

First United Corporation's loan portfolio continues to outperform management projections, growing $32.08 million, or 8.43%, year-to-date. As of June 30, 1997, the corporation's loan portfolio totaled $412.68 million. Deposits also continued strong growth in the second quarter, increasing $19.84 million, or 4.38%, year-to-date, to a total of $472.38 million. Income from Trust Services, PrimeVest Financial Services, Inc., and Business Manager for its commercial customers grew 20.03% to $.91 million as compared to $.75 million for the same period last year.

First United Corporation (NASDAQ:FUNC) offers full-service banking through its banking subsidiary, First United National Bank & Trust. The bank operates a traditional network of offices throughout Garrett, Allegany, Washington, and Frederick counties in Maryland, as well as Mineral, Hardy, Hampshire, and Berkeley counties in West Virginia. As of June 30, 1997, the corporation posted assets of $547.50 million and had 6,346,514 shares outstanding.

Q. My bread cutter has a wooden base with an iron cutting blade that swings manually to cut one slice of bread. Does it have any value?

A. It appears as though you have a meat slicer, not a bread cutter. In a general store, meat was cut by the single slice.

Customers usually cut their own bread at home with a large knife.

Meat cutters date from 1870 to as recently as 1930. They sell for between $35 and $75.

Q. I bought a folding screen painted to look like a bookshelf filled with books. The dealer said it was a Fornasetti. Any information?

A. Italian designer Piero Fornasetti decorated furniture, dishes, even venetian blinds in the "trompe l'oeil" style. Born in Milan in 1913, he designed about 12,000 objects before he died in 1988.

Modernist architect Gio Ponti, also Italian, actually designed the furniture, while Fornasetti embellished it.

Piero's son, Barnaba, is carrying on the business in Milan. An original Fornasetti screen is worth $20,000. New ones are available at some American stores, and they are high-priced as well.

Q. My grandmother decorated a chair by burning a design into it around 1900. I've been told that there was a craze for burning designs in wood. Is this true?

A. Pyrography was a fad from 1890 to 1915. The process of making a design on wood, leather or cloth using a hot instrument dates back centuries.

The hobby came to America in the mid-1800s. Several companies sold kits that included instructions, designs and a rod to burn the wood.

The Flemish Art Co. of New York was the largest maker of pyrography products. The company's trademark is stamped on the back of its items. Most other makers didn't mark their pieces.

The words "Flemish art" now refer to any of the burnt-wood pieces from the early 1900s.

Critic's Corner

GEORGE OF THE JUNGLE: There probably isn't a baby boomer alive who doesn't know the theme song: "George, George, George of the jungle; friend to you and me..." Of course, inevitably, the song ends with, "Watch out for that tree!" as George collides hilariously right smack dab into it! The cartoon show, "George..." was the creation of Jay Ward, the genius behind "Rocky & Bullwinkle." It contained much of the same satire and regularly took jabs at the daily life of people in the late '60s, early '70s. And, while it didn't quite achieve the same fame as "Rocky," "George" was beloved by the kids of the time.

Following on the heels of such TV-to-film remakes as "The Brady Bunch," "George" comes to the big screen with Brendan Fraser as the Tarzan-like ape man. Leslie Mann portrays the beautiful Ursula, George's significant other. As the flick opens, George has joined the rest of us in civilization, living a rather comfortable life. However, he returns to his jungle abode to fight off loathsome poachers and defend his friends (the wise Ape, the Tookie Tookie bird, and the elephant, Shep).

Ultimately, George finds that love conquers all as he regains his rightful position on the throne as King of the Jungle.

Baptists beware: This is a Walt Disney offering! However, it's amusing and campy enough to satisfy even the most die-hard "George" loyalist. If you were a fan of the show, don't miss it.

LEAVE IT TO BEAVER: Here we go again! This time, the Cleavers have been updated into the '90s. However, that doesn't mean they've left behind all that wholesome warmth, humor and decency that made them a cherished part of American pop culture.

Ward (Christopher McDonald) is still wise and wonderful and everything you'd want in a father; June (Janine Turner) is still the perfect wife and mother; and Wally (Erik von Detten) is still the popular, smart, athletic big brother. That leaves us with hapless, irrepressible Theodore a.k.a. the Beaver (Cameron Finely) in his debut role), who's just a regular kid somehow stuck in the perfect family and trying his best just to stay out of trouble.

This is a comedy about the entire family for the entire family. I truly got a kick out of it and recommend it highly.

INSURANCE FORMS — I used to fill out insurance form after insurance form with the same information until I got smart and made a master copy with the information that remains the same and copied it several times.

Now the copies save time and a cramped hand and I am never searching for insurance numbers, Social Security numbers, etc. Jeanine D., Rochester, N.Y.

NO HIGHCHAIR SLIPS — Our grandson, 13 1/2 months, came to visit recently. I borrowed a friend's highchair to use, but it had no safety straps and Jim kept slipping lower and lower.

I grabbed my rubber jar opener and placed it under his bottom. No more slips but many smiles. Pam V., Vero Beach, Fla.

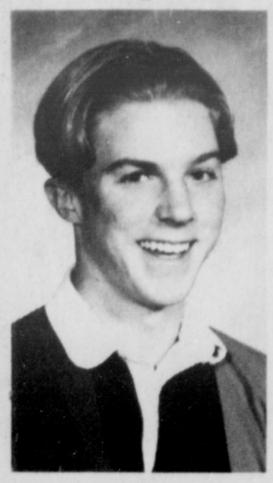
Helbig Awarded Scholarships By Wheeling Jesuit



Justin Helbig, son of Gene and Cathy Helbig, Oakland, has been awarded scholarships to attend Wheeling Jesuit University. Helbig is receiving Loyola, Presidential, and Arrupe scholarships.

The Arrupe, named after Pedro Arrupe, S.J., for his promotion of the concept of "developing men and women for others," rewards and highlights students' good work among various community service organizations. Those competing for the award were required to compose several reflection papers and attend interview sessions.

Helbig is a 1997 graduate of Southern Garrett High School and is planning to major in international studies. He was an active participant in track, soccer, marching band, and theater.

In 1995, he represented St. Peter's Catholic Church at the High School Leadership Institute at the Monsignor O'Dwyer Retreat in Sparks, and the National Catholic Youth Conference in Minneapolis. He was one of two local youths who attended the 1996 session of Maryland Boys' State at Western Maryland College. He serves on the advisory board of the Ecumenical Youth Ministry and has been an active participant in numerous EYM theater and choral presentations.

Mikulski Move Provides More Disaster Funds

U.S. Senator Barbara A. Mikulski (D-Md.) announced Tuesday that the Senate has approved her amendment to the VA-HUD and Independent Agencies appropriations bill for fiscal year 1998. The Mikulski amendment, passed by a voice vote, will provide $5 million in pre-disaster mitigation funding for the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA). Additionally, the Senate approved language recommending that FEMA work with the state of Maryland to fund mitigation measures identified by the Western Maryland Flood Task Force. Senator Mikulski is the lead Democrat on the VA-HUD and Independent Agencies panel that funds FEMA.

Said Mikulski, "A dollar's worth of disaster mitigation and prevention is worth a hundred dollars' worth of disaster relief and cure. These funds will help FEMA identify areas in flood zones that could benefit from pre-disaster planning."

Currently, FEMA provides post-disaster mitigation money to communities--up to 15% of the amount they received for disaster recovery efforts. However, the agency does not identify areas where the effects of a natural disaster could be minimized or eliminated through advanced planning. Pre-disaster mitigation includes such activities as making sure buildings meet proper standards and moving structures out of high risk areas. In many cases, pre-disaster mitigation costs much less than post-disaster relief.

"We have had two devastating floods in Western Maryland where some families, like Judy Metts, lost their homes twice. We recently implemented a voluntary buy-out program in Locust Grove where the government will buy the homes of eight families and move them out of the flood zone and onto high and dry ground. So, before the next flood even has a chance to strike, we have prevented personal tragedy and hardship," Mikulski said.

"Post-disaster funds are so important," she continued. "But they often come after a disaster has already struck. We cannot prevent natural disasters, but we can reduce the risk to life and property and that's what my amendment does by funding pre-disaster mitigation planning."

Last year, four counties in Western Maryland were hit twice by record level snowfalls and flooding: Allegany, Frederick, Garrett, and Washington. On both occasions, Senator Mikulski traveled to Western Maryland to personally review the damage. She also appealed to President Clinton to declare Western Maryland a federal disaster area, which he did on January 10, 1996.

After the second flood hit in September of 1996, Mikulski called for a flood summit to develop ways to prevent or limit the devastating impact of future floods. The summit was held October 7, 1996. As a result of the summit, Maryland Governor Parris Glendening convened a Flood Task Force for Western Maryland, which issued its recommendation in January of 1997.

In approving the Mikulski amendment this week, the Senate specifically acknowledged FEMA's work with the state of Maryland's Western Maryland Flood Task Force. It recommended that FEMA use the task force as a model for work in other states in identifying disaster mitigation opportunities. It also recommended that FEMA work with the state of Maryland to fund pre-disaster mitigation measures identified by the Flood Task Force.

Before the measure can be signed into law by the president, it must be passed by the House of Representatives, and differences between the House and Senate versions must be worked out in conference committee.

1997 Presidential Scholar Program Honors Peterson

Jennifer Peterson, Littleton, Colo., niece of Southern High School history teacher Harry L. Biggs Jr., recently completed a stay in Washington, D.C., as a Presidential Scholar.

Peterson, a recent graduate of Kent Denver School, was one of 140 high school students invited by Richard Riley, U.S. Secretary of Education, for the week-long Presidential Scholar Award program. The program has been honoring top high school students since the 1960s, when it was initiated during the Johnson administration.

Competing for the honor this year were 2,600 students, and the Presidential Scholar recipients were selected on the basis of ACT or SAT scores and academic achievements, as well as leadership and involvement in their school and community. Additional achievements in the visual arts and artistic academic scores led to the selection of a portion of the scholars as well.

During her Washington experience, Peterson and her fellow scholars participated in a number of scheduled activities, including numerous receptions, programs and tours. President Clinton noted their attendance as they witnessed him delivering his weekly radio address from the East Room of the White House. Individual photos of all 140 scholars appeared in a full-page ad in an issue of the USA Today newspaper.

Each of the young scholars was presented with a Presidential Scholar gold medallion, which Peterson is shown wearing in the above photo, during a special award ceremony. Also, $1,000 cash was given to each scholar through the generosity of the Geraldine Dodge Endowment.

Peterson plans to attend Duke University this fall. She is the daughter of Westernport native Mary Virginia (Biggs) Peterson, and her husband Charles Peterson, both currently of Littleton, Colo., and she is the granddaughter of Dorothy Biggs of Westernport, and the late Harry L. Biggs.

Friends Reunite: The Dieu Children Return To Recollect, To Say Thanks

by Mary Sincell McEwen

Nine and nine. Eighteen children. All loved, all cared for. Each family of nine children is so very different, yet has something in common. They are the families Yoder and Dieu, and many members of those families gathered together last week for a long-awaited reunion.

This is a success story, a story of true giving, a story of long-lasting friendships.

ONE OF NINE TO ANOTHER OF NINE - Curtis Dieu, who was born in the Yoder home in 1980, is pictured with Samuel (Jr.) Yoder as he shows the younger boy a gift the family brought. Sam is one of nine children of Samuel and Barbara Yoder, who now occupy the home that housed the Dieus. The youngest, Rebecca, was born on July 1. During their visit, the older Dieus took turns holding the tiny baby, just as they did many years ago with baby brother Curtis.

It began in 1980 when 11 people boarded a homemade boat on the shores of Vietnam to escape the oppression of a communist government. Mung Dieu, formerly a successful jeweler who had been forced into hard field labor, wished to provide his eight children with a better life. Ironically, he had fled to Vietnam as a teenager from China, where the government had gained a stronghold on his parents and they, too, would not stay. Mr. Dieu was not new to the peril of escape. His wife Muoi, pregnant with their ninth child, agreed that they should leave and helped herd the youngsters onto the boat. The Dieus, along with about 40 other people, drifted away in the middle of the night.

The craft lurched perilously in the waves and its occupants worried about storms and modern-day pirates. The Dieus fretted about their brood and prayed for a good turn. It came in the form of a ship from the United States. They were taken aboard and transported to a refugee camp in Singapore. For three months the family stayed there, raising just enough money to get by and to purchase a bolt of brown cloth. Mrs. Dieu then sewed clothing for each family member for their trip to the United States.

With the help of Lutheran Services, an agency that assists in immigration, the Dieus left Singapore, traveled to Seattle, and then to Morgantown. Their arrival had since then been discussed in the congregations of the local Amish community, as well as St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland. The groups combined their efforts to help in any way that they could, and in fact pooled their resources to pay airfares for the family's trip east. Several representatives of this group went to Morgantown to greet the family.

John and Lena Yoder, an Amish couple who lived along Gortner Road, took little time to decide how they would help. An unoccupied house stood on their property. Soon it was painted and spotlessly clean, ready to house the 11 Vietnamese travelers.

"We weren't at all sure what we were getting into," said John Yoder in an interview last week. "Some people didn't like the idea of bringing them here. But they needed help -- they had nothing but the clothes on their backs. Nothing. We did what we could."

When the family arrived, the Yoders and their five grown children greeted the 11.

"Only one boy could speak English at all," said Mr. Yoder. "We sat down at the table together with two books: one for Vietnamese to English and the other for English to Vietnamese. And that's how we started."

The next 18 months would change the lives of both families forever. Last week, 17 years after those first hours at the table together, the families reunited. After saving money for three years to make the trip, five of the nine Dieu children flew from their home in Santa Ana, California, to New York. They rented a car there and drove to Pleasant Valley for a reunion they had long dreamed of. They were met not only by their host family and other friends, but also by nine smiling children, the family of Samuel (and Barbara) Yoder, John Yoder's son. None had been born when the Dieus left Garrett County (which came some 16 months after their arrival), but the Californians were well aware of each and every birth, as the families have kept in contact since their parting.

"We've always kept in touch," said Mr. Yoder, "through letters and calls and such." He said the Dieus had moved from Garrett County to Champaign, Ill., and that he and his wife Lena actually traveled there to visit several months after they had left the valley. The Dieus were grieved to hear of Lena Yoder's death in early 1996 and showered the family with flowers and cards. Those and other kindnesses that were exchanged at that time are evident only in true friendships; in friendships that are permanent.

The five visitors spent last week remembering, recalling what they could of their time here and hurrying to visit the many people who had helped them. The entire Morris family -- Dorothy and Charles, their son Richard and family, their daughter Ginny Groves and family -- as well as Pastor Curtis Saville (former reverend of St. Paul's), Sue Filsinger, Rich Tepper, and many others worked hard to keep up with the needs of the family: visits to the doctor and dentist (who were Dr. William Pope and Dr. Terry Dornburg, respectively), schooling arrangements, English lessons, transportation, and other duties. Local people donated clothes, furniture, a washing machine, a sewing machine, and other necessities.

Weeks after the Dieus' arrival, the ninth child was born, delivered by Dr. Pope in the home the Yoders had provided. The baby was named Curtis, in honor of Pastor Saville. He is now entering the eleventh grade in California, where he is an honor student and has a keen interest in computer science.

The other Dieu children have accomplished a great deal since their departure. At least four have earned bachelor's degrees, and another three have either attended or are currently in college. All nine have worked to help pay for their educations and are successfully employed in Santa Ana or nearby. They are now, of course, fluent in English, which was helpful in their week-long visit. They wished to see everyone they could and traveled from Grantsville to the Yoder home, stopping every few miles to touch base with people who had made such a huge difference in their lives.

"Everyone is so delightful," said Nguyet, the oldest daughter. She was 16 at the time of her arrival. "It is wonderful to be here again."

In addition to Nguyet, those visiting were Curtis, Hong, Trang, and Tuyet. When they came to Garrett County in 1980, Hong was 7 years old, Trang was 4, and Tuyet was 2. Their memories of the Yoder place include berry-picking (and eating), romping in a great playhouse outside, and taking turns on a rocking horse. They were also amazed at the mysterious reappearing eggs in the chicken coop. "Every morning there would be more," laughed Nguyet. Being older at the time, she also remembers the tension the family felt as they approached their new home.

"We were very worried about coming here," she said. "I kept thinking, 'I don't know the language. We can't communicate. What will happen?' But everyone was so helpful -- they opened their hearts to us. They didn't even know us, but they all helped. We can't stop saying 'thank you.'"

While the Dieu children remember what others did for them, the Yoders recall how hard the family worked in their new home. The house, Mr. Yoder said, was always spotlessly clean, and the children all helped with chores and with taking care of baby Curtis. Sam Yoder recalled one of the younger children sighing about an upcoming duty. "Tomorrow I cannot play," she said sadly. "I must carry the baby."

As time went by, Mr. Dieu would insist that the Yoders, Morrises, and Pastor Saville come to their home to feast on authentic Vietnamese food.

"Those were very nice times," said Mr. Yoder. "We would gather around the table and Mr. Mung would serve the food -- he was a real expert." As for the taste of the foreign cuisine, the Yoders did "learn to like it," he said. They also learned how to use chopsticks.

Despite the outpouring of help, work was hard to find in Garrett County. Mr. Dieu was told of a jewelry store in Virginia owned by the son of local resident Alice Frederick. He was offered a job there and went, reluctantly leaving his family here. The older children entered school and the Dieus adapted to Garrett County life as well as they could.

The component that was missing for the family was a support network for their religion. Devout Buddhists, the Dieus had no congregation of their faith anywhere near. In time, they discovered such a community in Champaign, Ill. Plans were made for a move to that location.

"We understood that," said Mr. Yoder, speaking of his friend with respect. "He is a devout man, a hard-working man."

After some time in Champaign, the entire family moved on to Santa Ana, where they remain. Mung and Muoi are doing well in their home where a large garden flourishes under the nurturing touch of the mother of nine. Their children are healthy and thriving, all with a tiny piece of Garrett County in their hearts.

"We will never forget this place," said Nguyet. "We will never forget these people."

"WHERE SHOULD WE GO NOW? WHOM CAN WE VISIT?" The Dieu family members darted all over Garrett County last week, visiting friends who helped them out so many years ago -- the Morris family, Dr. Pope, Dr. Dornburg, and many others. They gravitated back to the Yoder home often throughout the week. Hong, Curtis, and Nguyet are pictured above at the homeplace with Samuel and Barbara Yoder (at right) and four of their children.

FAST FRIENDS - Rachel Yoder had just awakened from her nap when this photo was taken, as is evident by her still-sleepy eyes. She went to her new friend Nguyet and very willingly climbed into her lap. The youngster is just about the age of one of Nguyet's sisters at the time of their arrival in 1980.

Gingrich Says Farmers Need A Tax Break

If House Speaker Newt Gingrich has his way, the $85 billion tax cut provided by the current budget reconciliation package is just the beginning of a series of tax breaks coming down the road. And Gingrich says farmers, ranchers and small business owners should be the beneficiaries of a reduced tax burden.

"We should be at a point where we have an annual reduction in taxes," said Gingrich (R-Ga.), who addressed state Farm Bureau presidents during the annual Council of Presidents meeting in Washington. "Working Americans deserve a break."

Gingrich, who helped design the Republicans' Contract With America nearly four years ago, has not wandered from the premise that helped sweep him and the Republicans to a majority in the House in 1994. A balanced budget, massive tax cuts and relaxed government regulations in protecting the environment continue to have a high perch on Gingrich's priority list.

He hopes to eliminate the estate tax, which has been a problem for family farmers and ranchers over the years. Gingrich said the "death tax" punishes people for building family businesses, and places an unfair burden on heirs who inherit property upon the death of a family member.

"We believe in an America where it is good to save for their children and grandchildren," Gingrich said. "I'm prepared to (make it easier) for grandmothers and grandfathers to provide for their families without the government ripping them off.

"Americans shouldn't have to visit the undertaker and the IRS (Internal Revenue Service) during the same week."

The speaker's remarks were welcome news for the state Farm Bureau presidents. The budget package currently being negotiated by House and Senate conferees calls for increasing the estate tax exemption to $1 million over the next 10 years. Farm Bureau applauds the increase, but was hoping for more immediate relief. Gingrich's pledge for continued tax breaks helped soften the disappointment.

A campaign to "Kill the Death Tax" has triggered a large reaction from Farm Bureau members across the nation. The effort has not gone unnoticed by congressional leaders. Gingrich credits Farm Bureau for many of the tax relief measures that are included in the budget package.

Gingrich also called for the elimination of capital gains taxes, which he says is vital for the continuation of the current economic upswing across the nation. "We want Americans to have the most capital to create the most jobs," he said.

Taming an out-of-control tax system in the United States could be in the works in Washington. But hard-working Americans, according to Gingrich, have another foe to conquer. An element of arrogance permeates the federal government, Gingrich said.

He cited the Environmental Protection Agency's new clean air standards as proof of a government agency overstepping its boundaries. The new standards, which would slap new regulations on ozone and particulate matter and place high compliance costs on the agricultural sector, were "mis-administrated" by the EPA.

Farming In Maryland.....

Bartlett Seeks Drought Relief For Farmers

Congressman Roscoe G. Bartlett (R-6-Md.) has asked Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman to set a date when drought-related assistance can be made available to Western Maryland farmers whose crops have already been damaged and are further threatened along with livestock by a shortage of rain.

"It is imperative that the U.S. Department of Agriculture move immediately to establish a date when drought-related assistance is made available to those eligible for it.... A coordinated relief effort should be developed as soon as possible," Bartlett urged Secretary Glickman in a letter.

"Conditions are bad now, and we need to be prepared in case they get any worse," explained Congressman Bartlett.

"The next few weeks are critical in the scope of the impact on farmers in Western Maryland and ultimately, every consumer who relies on affordable food prices and product availability," Bartlett advised Secretary Glickman in the letter.

"I'm prepared to assist the Department of Agriculture in any way I can to help our farmers," said Congressman Bartlett. He noted, "We can't depend upon forecasts of rain for relief when a significant amount of damage has already occurred."

Heat Continues To Consume Progress On State's Farms

For the week ended July 20, dry weather prevailed in most of the state and continued to affect crop progress. According to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service, corn was 27% very poor, 21% poor, 30% fair, 16% good, and 6% excellent. Corn had been tasseling and has continued to be well behind the previous and five-year averages.

Soybeans were 14% very poor, 21% poor, 32% fair, 32% good, and 1% excellent. Soybeans have begun to bloom and are close to the previous year average. Reports have been received of soybeans starting to set pods.

Sorghum was 19% very poor, 5% poor, 35% fair, 38% good, and 3% excellent.

Pastures were 25% very poor, 25% poor, 35% fair, and 15% good.

Apples were 2% very poor, 2% poor, 26% fair, 51% good, and 19% excellent. Peaches were 59% very poor, 1% poor, 8% fair, 28% good, and 4% excellent.

Hay supplies were 8% very short, 27% short, 64% adequate and 1% surplus. Second cuttings of alfalfa and other hay continued to make progress ahead of their previous year's averages. Weather conditions created large leaf hopper activity in alfalfa and is starting to cause problems in corn development.

Soil moisture conditions deteriorated and minimal crop growth occurred in Western Maryland as the hot, dry weather continued throughout most of the state. Topsoil moisture was 40% very short, 34% short, and 26% adequate. Subsoil moisture was 29% very short, 45% short, and 26% adequate. There was an average of 6.4 days suitable for fieldwork.

Mexicans Study Weights/Measures Standards In Md.

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley has announced that three representatives from the Mexican government came to the Weights and Measures Laboratories at the Maryland Department of Agriculture July 10 and 11 to observe weights and measures inspection procedures and enforcement practices. The purpose of the visit was to provide technical assistance to Mexico to develop and strengthen regulatory infrastructure in legal metrology.

"We are proud that in Maryland we have one of the best weights and measures laboratories and field inspection programs in the world. Our weights and measures folks do a wonderful job of protecting Maryland consumers and businesses to make certain that people get what they pay for concerning weight and measure. We are only too happy to help the Mexican government strengthen its efforts to establish precise standards of measuring which will ultimately improve consumers' confidence and economic climate," Riley said.

During their two days in Maryland, the Mexicans examined the general administration of a weights and measures program by learning and observing how it is done in Maryland. In addition, they learned about the inspection of gasoline pumps, vehicle scales, labeling requirements for consumer products, inspection of packages for net contents and the enforcement inspection of a supermarket.

"The visit was extremely successful, providing a wide range of technical information and test procedures to a fellow member of the North American Free Trade Agreement," said Riley.

Extension Service Now Offers Farm Waste Management Video

Farm Waste Management Makes Sense, NRAES-111, is a nine-minute video providing an overview of serious economic questions surrounding agricultural waste disposal and offering suggestions for effective waste management.

Farmers in the Northeast have traditionally disposed of farm and household waste by maintaining small dumps and by burning combustible materials on-site. Waste oil, pesticides, used batteries, and other potential contaminants, as well as containers, plastics, and cast-off equipment, have been disposed of in these ways. Under the pressures of greater numbers of non-farm neighbors, wider use of plastics that add to the problem of agricultural wastes, and stricter environmental regulation, continued on-site burning and dumping may jeopardize the viability of some farms. In addition, farm lenders are concerned about the impact of environmental degradation on long-term collateral value.

Seeing deeper awareness of waste management issues as a key to the financial success of farms in New York and across the country, the Cornell Waste Management Institute produced Farm Waste Management Makes Sense for agricultural audiences in a variety of settings.

Farm Waste Management Makes Sense, NRAES-111, is available for $20 per copy (plus shipping and handling) from NRAES, Cooperative Extension, 152 Riley-Robb Hall, Ithaca, NY 14853-5701. The shipping and handling charge is $3.50 for a single copy within the continental United States. If ordering more than one copy, please contact NRAES for shipping rates. Major credit cards are accepted, and checks should be made payable to NRAES. Update on Potato Leafhoppers on Alfalfa

There is still a very high population of leafhoppers in our area. Many of you have just completed the second cutting. The young tender regrowth is highly susceptible to leafhopper feeding injury. These sucking insects remove plant juices and in the process of feeding block the normal movement of fluids within the plant. This blockage results in a V-shaped yellowing on the leaves, commonly referred to as hopperburn. Leaves showing hopperburn do not recover after the insects have been killed with an insecticide.

How do you know when to spray before visible damage occurs? Alfalfa fields should be sampled weekly using a 15-inch sweep net as soon as the hay is removed. Make a count of both adults and nymphs. Adults are about 1/8 inch long, green and jump or fly quickly, while nymphs are smaller, yellow-green and move sideways. The best way to determined when to spray is the relationship of hopper count with the height of the alfalfa. If the leafhopper count exceeds 10 times the average stem height in inches, control is recommended. If the alfalfa is less than 60% bud and a treatment threshold is exceeded, spray immediately. However, if the alfalfa is over 12 inches and is 60% or more in bud, it may be wise to harvest within a week rather than spray.

Leafhoppers on Green Beans

Green beans are also very susceptible to leafhopper feeding. Blue Lake varieties tend to be more susceptible to leafhopper feeding than Tendercrop and other lines. Asana, Lannate or Orthene will provide control. Read the label for days before harvest.

Spider Mites on Soybeans

Every soybean field should be scouted for mites, especially if hot, dry conditions continue. Spider mites thrive in hot, dry weather simply because they lay more eggs, and survive and develop at higher rates. They also can do serious damage to tomatoes, corn, beans, clover and alfalfa. Spider mites injure plants by using their needle-like mouthparts to puncture leaf cells and consume the entire content, leaving empty and irreversibly damaged cells. The presence of empty cells results in the yellow or white stipples characteristic of mite-injured leaves. Extensive feeding by large number of mites (300-600 per leaf) causes leaves to turn yellow and eventually die and drop from the plant. The options for mite control on soybeans are limited. Dimethoate 4EC is still the preferred material. It is a systemic chemical absorbed by the plant and thus is active on young mites for a week or possibly 10 days at best. Lorsban 4E does a fairly good job of killing active mites on contact but is not systemic. A second spray 3 to 5 days later is necessary.

Do You Have Hay for Sale?

As you well know, farmers east of us are suffering from severe draught conditions. I have been keeping my counterparts in those counties posted on hay available from our area. If you have hay for sale, call my office (new number 301-334-6960) as to kind of hay, square or round baled.

THE 1996 FARM QUEEN Laah Broadwater, pictured above, will crown the winner of the 1997 Farm Queen Contest, which will take place Sunday, August 13, at the Garrett County Fair. The winner of the county contest will spend the next year promoting agriculture and Farm Bureau. She will also compete in the State Farm Queen Contest at the Maryland State Fair in Timonium. Applications will be accepted through Monday, July 28. Young women who would like an application or who have questions about the contest may contact Debbie Barnard, 301-334-4170, or Becky DeBerry, 301-334-1178. The contest is open to single girls at least 16 years of age but not 20 years of age by the date of the state contest, and whose family is engaged in agriculture and are members of Garrett County Farm Bureau.

Thank You!

Betty Thrasher and her family would sincerely like to thank each and every one of the many friends who prayed and showed so much caring during her long illness. A special thanks to Dr. Walch and the I.C.U. nurses at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Dr. Leibman and the I.C.U. nurses at Cumberland Memorial Hospital and also the hospice staff at Memorial. We would also like to thank the nurses and staff at Dennett Road Manor Nursing Home. We feel very fortunate to have received the support and caring of these highly skilled people. We are forever grateful.

After 5 months of recuperating at the facilities mentioned above we are happy to report that Betty and Harrison are doing fine in their new apartment at 607 N. Street, Apt. 4, Mtn. Lake Park, Md.

National Corn Yield Contest Still Growing

To America's corn farmers it's the annual equivalent of participating in the World Series, the Super Bowl, or the Stanley Cup. It's the prestigious National Corn Yield Contest (NCYC), sponsored by the National Corn Growers Association (NCGA).

With the growing season well underway, farmers should have their entry forms ready to go for this year's big event. Entries must be postmarked by August 1, 1997, to be eligible. Follow-up harvest entry forms must be post-marked no later than December 1, 1997.

"The popularity of entering this contest continues to grow with corn's profitability," says NCGA's John Green, director of production and education. "Last year 3,600 growers entered the NCYC, which resulted in 482 winners from 40 states. Maryland had a first place national winner in the non-irrigated no-till contest, Henry Covington Sr. of Centreville. Although the corn producers are feeling depressed right now due to the drought, we still encourage them to enter because they will be competing only with those in similar growing regions, the prospect of winning is greatly enhanced. Melvin Baile Jr., Maryland Grain Producer Association president, said, "Maryland averaged 139 bushels of corn per acre last year, 12 bushels better than the national average. This gave us a whopping 64,635 million bushels of corn. This compares to "40 couple" million bushels the last few years. Congratulations."

The nine contest classes include dryland and irrigated acres in conventional or mulch-till, no-till, and ridge-till production programs. Entry and harvest forms can be obtained by contacting the NCGA at 314-275-9915 ext. 129, or by contacting local seed company representatives. NCGA is expecting over 4,000 entries for this year's event."

Winners of this year's contest will be announced at the annual Commodity Classic, the combined convention and trade show of the NCGA and American Soybean Association, February 22-24 in Long Beach, Calif. Along with national recognition, winners also receive significant prizes from participating seed and crop protection companies.

U.S. Winter Wheat Production Up Seven Percent

Winter wheat production is forecast at 1.78 billion bushels, up 11% from last month and 20% higher than 1996. Based on July 1 conditions, the U.S. yield is forecast at record high 42.8 bushels per acre. This is up 3.5 bushels from June 1 and 5.6 bushels per acre better than last year.

Based on July 1 data, the forecast for winter wheat production in Maryland amounts to 12.9 million bushels, up from 11.8 million bushels of output in 1996. This increase is due to higher per-acre yields. The 1997 average yield is forecast at 60 bushels per acre, 8 bushels greater than the 1996 average. The acreage of wheat harvested this year in the state is estimated at 215,000 acres, down 12,000 acres from the 1996 acreage harvested.

Hard red winter wheat production is up 141 million bushels from last month largely due to increases in acreage to be harvested and improved yields. The Kansas yield is a new record. Soft red winter wheat, at 455 million, is also up from a month ago and is near 1995 levels. Illinois and Missouri growers are now expecting record high yields.

Area for grain harvest this year is forecast at 41.6 million acres, unchanged from the June 30 "acreage" and up 5% from 1996. Harvesting progress trailed average in the 19 major producing states as of June 29.

Kansas head wheat forecast is the highest since 1986 and Montana's head weights and numbers are similar to 1995. About 3% of Nebraska's winter wheat is ripe. California growers realized much higher yields than expected. The South Dakota crop is maturing at a near normal pace. Over half of Wyoming's winter wheat was turning color. Oklahoma's harvest trails average.

Robert D. Wagner
who was stolen from us on July 24, 1996.

Though you aren't in my life any more, you are still in my heart and my every thought. I'm thankful you're no longer in pain. I miss you more with each passing day. I often sit and think of you and all of the things we used to do. And after all this time there are still tears in my eyes each day as I sit and wonder WHY? The pain I feel, you must know, the emptiness still continues to grow.

When will it be easier?
When will it end?

Although since you were murdered, one thing that can't be killed is the wonderful memories of you and the fact that I KNOW that you loved me as much as I love you, Dad!
Dad, I'll see you again when I reach that sweet Beaulah Land!

Deeply Missed, Forever Cherished,
& Always Loved

Sincere Thanks

We want to express our thanks to everyone who helped our family in any way after the loss of our loved one. Thank you for all of your calls, visits, cards and prayers. We want to say thanks to Rev. and Mrs. Hixon for their love and support.

A special thank you to Kris Graber, Mary Glotfelty, and all of you who are involved with the Hospice of Garrett County. You are truly dedicated and compassionate people. We can't tell you how much your support meant to us. May God continue to bless you all.

Thank you also to the Kitzmiller, Elk Garden, and HiWay Assembly of God Churches, the Kitzmiller Methodist Church and our neighbors for the wonderful meal that was prepared for our family and friends. Thanks to our "friends and neighbors on the hill" for your thoughtfulness.

We will always remember the love and kindness that was shown to us. It is wonderful to know how many lives were touched by our husband and father. Our loss is truly Heaven's gain.

God Bless You,
The Family of Ben Sims

Hospital Adds Nuclear Medicine, SPECT Imaging

Grant Memorial Hospital, Petersburg, has announced the introduction of new diagnostic imaging services. This new service, nuclear medicine and SPECT imaging, will enable physicians to provide quicker, more accurate diagnoses by allowing them to see the physiology, rather than just the structure, of the heart, brain, and other organ systems.

The information from these diagnostic tests allows evaluation of the heart and other organ systems in a manner not possible with X-ray, CT, or MRI. The new imaging capability at Grant Memorial Hospital ultimately allows physicians to provide the most complete diagnoses possible, according to a hospital spokesperson.

In nuclear medicine studies, small amounts of radioactive substances known as radioisotopes are injected into the patient's bloodstream and absorbed in varying amounts by different organs. The nuclear medicine camera detects and maps the distribution of the radioisotope. The information is fed into a computer, which creates and displays a detailed image of the specific organ or area.

The Nuclear SPECT system being used at Grant Memorial Hospital is highly suited for cardiac studies and can also perform sensitive imaging studies of the brain, kidneys, and liver as well as wholebody bone scans, the spokesperson said. The system is being provided under contract with MDI Health Systems, a leading innovator in medical diagnostic imaging services.

In addition to providing outstanding diagnostic information, nuclear medicine studies are often less expensive than other testing. Nuclear evaluation of cardiac function is less expensive and safer than cardiac catheterization; nuclear evaluation of cancer is less expensive than MRI; and nuclear evaluation of pulmonary function is an excellent, cost-effective exam, according to the spokesperson.

Brad Teets of Stroudsburg, Pa., visited briefly last week with his parents, Ruth and Roscoe Teets, Eglon, en route to Pittsburgh on a business trip.

Jerry, Barbara, and Devin Hauser returned Thursday night from a vacation which took them from their home near Eglon to the west coast and back. Linda and Sara Lewis returned to their home in Eglon on Sunday after visiting last week in Virginia Beach with Julie Baker. They were accompanied by Emily Lewis of South Charleston.

Correspondent's note: It is good that someone corrects my misspelled words, but in last week's item concerning the Aurora Stemples, the German cousins and the German ancestors used the spelling, "Stempel." On early records, it was often also "Stembel," using the phonetic method of spelling by putting down what they heard and in that accent.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Mayor and Town Council of Friendsville, MD will conduct a public hearing on August 4, 1997 at 7:00 p.m. in the Town Hall. The purpose of the Public Hearing is to review and take comments on a proposed new draft zoning ordinance for the Town which is being recommended by the Friendsville Planning Commission. The new zoning ordinance includes changes to the text as well as the zoning map and changes are being proposed in order to make the ordinance consistent with the recently adopted Friendsville Development Plan and the Maryland Economic Growth, Resource Protection and Planning Act of 1992.

The following represents a summary of the most significant policy changes to the Ordinance:

Zoning Districts - A change in zoning districts (R1, R2, C, etc. to SR-Suburban Residential, TR-Town Residential, TC-Town Center, etc.) is being recommended in order to be more compatible with other Towns and County Zoning Ordinances.

Group Homes - Revisions are needed to the Zoning Ordinances to comply with the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1991, the Federal Fair Housing Act and recent Supreme Court decisions. These generally require that "Group Homes" be provided for in the same manner as housing for families.

Sensitive Areas - Provisions for the management of sensitive areas including stream buffers, steep slopes and habitat for threatened and endangered species.

The draft Friendsville Zoning Ordinance is available for review at the Garrett County Planning & Zoning Office, Old Courthouse, Oakland, Monday thru Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. or at the Friendsville Town Hall during normal operating hours.

By Order of the Mayor and Town Council

THE REPUBLICAN

VOL NO. 120 OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., THURSDAY, JULY 31, 1997 PER COPY 47¢ Printed on RECYCLED NEWSPRINT

MARYLAND, MY MARYLAND - Black-eyed susans, Maryland's state flower, are now blooming all over the county, stretching their bright heads earnestly upward. This bed of the colorful little coneflowers is on the property of Nita Ridder, Gorman, who planted black-eyed susan seeds several years ago. The seeds were a gift from William Donald Schaefer, then governor of the state, in response to a letter of appreciation from Ms. Ridder following a visit to the state house. She noted in her letter that her favorite flower was the black-eyed susan and the governor sent her the seeds. The flowers have bloomed annually, Ms. Ridder said, and are more impressive each year. Some of Maryland's other "state" items are: state tree -- Wye oak; state insect -- the Baltimore checkerspot butterfly; state sport -- jousting; state fish -- the rockfish; state bird -- the Baltimore oriole; state boat -- the skipjack; state dog -- the Chesapeake Bay retriever; state crustacean -- the Maryland blue crab; and, as everyone knows, the state fossil is the shell of the Ecphora quadricostata, an extinct snail.

Recycling Sites Now Accepting Certain Plastics

The Garrett County Commissioners announced this week the kick-off of a pilot project for the acceptance of #2 plastic bottles and jugs, as part of the county's residential recycling program.

Containers have been installed at the Mt. Nebo and Grantsville county operated refuse collection sites, where residents may deposit milk jugs, water bottles, liquid laundry detergent containers, bleach bottles, and any other bottles or jugs made of "HDPE" plastic. This type of plastic is marked with the #2 recycling symbol.

Participants should remove caps, rinse, and crush the bottles and jugs prior to depositing them into the recycling containers, according to Rodney Glotflety, director of the Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling.

As with all other recycling services the county offers, no special permit or sticker is required for individuals wishing to access the collection sites to recycle.

Glotfelty said recycling the type of plastic included in the pilot project is now possible as a result of the recent availability of local processors who accept the material and prepare it for shipment to regional recycling markets. Both Mon Recycling in Morgantown, W.Va., and A.J.'s Recycling in Oakland have indicated a willingness to bid on the plastic bottles amd jugs the county collects.

Installation of 40 cubic yard compactor systems at the two pilot sites will allow collection of up to five tons of plastic prior to shipment to the local markets, Glotfelty reported.

"This will dramatically reduce the high hauling costs that many other rural counties incur when shipping loose loads of plastic," he said.

The compactor systems' purchase price was $30,000, but this amount was reduced 50% by a recycling grant from the Maryland Environmental Service. This helped in making the project economically feasible to Garrett County, the director said.

In addition, Glotfelty continued, diversion of plastic from the normal waste stream at the collection sites should reduce the number of hauls necessary to transport that refuse to

IT WAS QUITE A STORM - The winds and rain that blew through Garrett County Monday afternoon won't soon be forgotten by one unlucky motorist who felt the effects of nature's power that day. Kuanchai Natrakul of Silver Spring was driving south on Bradley Lane when the winds whipped toward gale force. He told Oakland police officers that he saw the tree starting to break but was unable to get his car out of its way. The large tree crashed across the hood of his Honda sedan. Other than those to the car, no injuries were reported in the incident.

Adventuresports Center Study Plan Is Met With Optimism At Hearing

A study of the feasibility of a National Adventuresports Center in Garrett County will be initiated, now that the formal hearing has been conducted and public comment has been heard. The hearing took place Tuesday morning at the Garrett County Commissioners' office and, after some concerns were expressed and answered, the atmosphere among the 20+ individuals in attendance was one of optimism and enthusiasm.

"This could be a great thing for Garrett County," said John Braskey, project officer for the Department of Natural Resources (DNR). "We feel very positive about the outcome of this study. This will encourage economic development, give us worldwide attention, and build on Garrett Community College's adventure sports program -- one of the best in the country. Garrett County could become the national focal point for adventure sports."

James Hinebaugh, director of the Garrett County Office of Economic Development, explained that the feasibility study is "the most logical move" at this point.

"We wanted a third party to study this idea. What is the market? What are all the activities out there? And, most importantly, can this facility not only be built, but sustained and maintained? We certainly do not want to build it and then sustain it at the expense of county taxpayers," Hinebaugh said. He explained that the concept of such a center has "been around for years and years," beginning in the '70s with the idea of a winter sports complex. The effort now is combining the work of Hinebaugh's office, the DNR, GCC, the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, Garrett County Promotion Council, the Garrett County Development Corporation, and the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development (DBED).

The study will cost approximately $22,000, but none of that will be paid for by the county, Hinebaugh said. Through $3,000 donations from the chamber of commerce, promotion council, the development corporation, and others -- in addition to about $10,000 in grant money from the DBED's Maryland Industrial and Commercial Redevelopment Fund -- the total cost has been covered. The public hearing had to be held before the grant money would be awarded.

Nancy Zbel of Precision Rafting Expeditions was in attendance and voiced her concern about possible competition for the private sector. Both Hinebaugh and Braskey were quick to assure her that the Adventuresports Center will absolutely promote private adventure sports companies in the area.

"This center will in no way compete with the private sector," Hinebaugh said. "This will be a central location for people to inquire about all adventure sports available in the area. In fact, it should be a big shot in the arm for the smaller businesses in the area of marketing."

Help Available For Deer Park Sewer Link-Up

Deer Park residents have a source of financial assistance available for costs associated with connecting to the new town sewer system.

A Maryland Community Development block grant has been awarded to Deer Park for the use of income eligible residents, Wendell Keaton, Garrett County circuit rider, explained recently.

The grant was accessed with the support of the Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc., Keaton said.

There are two expenses that households in Deer Park will face during the connecting phase of this undertaking: the connecting fee and the hook-up fee.

Installation of the lines that will run from the house to a newly installed septic tank make up the connecting fee. "The cost will be figured on an individual basis," Keaton said. The distance the line must run will determine this charge.

The hook-up fee, he explained, is a set amount. This will cost $250 per

One-Car Crash In Fog Injures Swanton Man

A Swanton man was injured when his car ran off the road in heavy fog last Thursday night and struck a tree, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Leonard Augustus Finch, 22, was traveling northbound on Swanton Hill Road just north of Maryland Highway when he lost visibility due to the thick fog. His car went off the roadway, striking a tree, and he sustained minor injuries.

Finch was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released. No charges have been filed in the accident.

Another recent one-vehicle accident sent another man to the hospital for treatment. Jeffrey Shank, 43, Highland, lost control of his Honda XR-250 motorcycle on a dirt road off Amish Road, and he suffered minor injuries to his hand. He was treated at Garrett County Memorial Hospital and released.

In other recent sheriff's news, leads are being sought in a hit and run

The report states that Norris applied his brakes and attempted to swerve to avoid Dixon as she stepped into the road. The mirror of the Norris vehicle struck Dixon.

Southern Rescue Squad and Deep Creek VFD responded to the scene along with the police. Dixon was transported to Garrett Memorial Hospital by Southern Rescue Squad, where she was admitted for treatment and subsequently released.

PLASTIC RECYCLING NOW AVAILABLE - In the increasing effort to recycle waste materials in Garrett County, the Office of Solid Waste and Recycling has initiated a new opportunity for those who recycle -- certain plastics may now be deposited at the Mt. Nebo and Grantsville refuse collection sites. Milk jugs, water bottles, liquid laundry detergent containers, bleach bottles, and any other plastic jug that has the recycling number 2 on its label or on the bottom of the container may be recycled. The plastics will be processed by Mon Recycling in Morgantown, W.Va., and by A.J.'s Recycling in Oakland. The sites officially opened Tuesday for #2 plastics. See story. Pictured left to right at the Mt. Nebo site are Greg Sayre, Mon Recycling; Paul Kensinger, A.J.'s Recycling; Commissioners Wayne Wilt and Gary Fratz; Rodney Glotfelty, director of the Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling; and Monty Pagenhardt, county administrative officer.

SHA To Improve I-68/Rt. 219 Interchange

The State Highway Administration (SHA) has announced pending improvements at the interchange along westbound I-68 to the northbound U.S. Rt. 219/Chestnut Ridge Road split. The work is to begin today, according to a press release from the administration.

The project will involve the addition of a center left-turn lane and raised concrete median along northbound Rt. 219 for trucks entering the Fuel City truck stop. The ramp from I-68 to northbound Rt. 219 will be widened and re-surfaced to allow trucks a wider turning radius onto Rt. 219 to enter the truck stop.

The ramp -- which has two lanes for exclusive left and right turns onto Rt. 219 and Chestnut Ridge Road -- will be widened to encourage truck drivers to use the widened left ramp lane to turn right as well as the new left-turn lane to the truck stop.

The majority of the work will take place adjacent to the existing roadway, although single-lane closures may be necessary along Rt. 219 and Chestnut Ridge Road, according to the press release. Advance warning signs, cones, drums, and flagpersons will alert and guide motorists through the work area.

The SHA awarded the $209,000 contract to Belt Paving, Inc., of Cumberland. The entire project is to be finished by late fall, weather permitting, according to the release.

Party In Deep Creek Lake Area Ends In Arrests

A party in the Blakeslee Development in the Deep Creek Lake area this week resulted in the arrests of four adults and two juveniles by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

In checking the scene of a reported loud party at 77 North Blakeslee Road early Tuesday morning, deputies located a resident, Stephen David Goralski, 18, in his room. In plain view was a glass pipe on the bed, and a plastic bag containing what appeared to be mushrooms was observed in the open drawer on the nightstand. In the course of searching the room, deputies also located a woven cloth bag containing marijuana and a small set of weight scales.

The deputies then placed Goralski under arrest, charging him with possession of marijuana, possession of a hallucinogen, and possession of controlled dangerous substance (CDS) paraphernalia. He was subsequently released on his own recognizance.

As the deputies placed the other party-goers under arrest for various charges, Richard Bevan Orr, 18, Oakland, refused to remove his hands from his pockets. When deputies were able to handcuff him, his hand came out of his pockets, and a small bag of what appeared to be marijuana fell from his hand. Orr was charged with resisting arrest and possession of marijuana. He was subsequently released on his own recognizance.

During the course of the investigation, Daniel Allen DeWitt, 22, Mtn. Lake Park, reportedly harassed the deputies repeatedly in a loud and belligerent manner. He was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct, and contributing to the delinquency of a minor by providing alcohol to underage drinkers at the party. He was subsequently released after posting 10 percent of a $5,000 bond.

Adam John Lucas, 25, Mtn. Lake Park, was arrested and also faces a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor for the same reason. He was subsequently released after posting 10 percent of a $5,000 bond.

Two juvenile females were also taken into custody at the scene, and both were charged with possession of alcohol. They were subsequently released into their families' custody, and their cases are being processed by the Department of Juvenile Services.

MSP Investigate Roadside Theft In Grantsville

A theft reported last week in Grantsville was investigated by Maryland State Police.

A report filed at Barrack W, McHenry, stated that on July 21, various lengths of pipe belonging to the State Highway Administration was stolen from the roadside along Route 495 between Durst Road and Route 40.

The suspect in the case, David L. Wilt, 39, Grantsville, agreed to a search of his property, where the missing lengths of pipe were recovered.

Market To Be Open During Sidewalk Sale

The Mountain Fresh Producers Association have announced that the market will be open for business on Friday, Aug. 1, and Saturday, Aug. 2, during the Oakland Sidewalk Sale Days.

The market, which is located in the Oakland town parking lot, will open at 10 a.m. each day. Local gardens should be at peak production then, so a wide variety of produce will be available. Crafts and baked goods will also be sold.

Customers at the market will be invited to sign up for a drawing of a market basket comprised of items donated by members of the association. The drawing will be held on Saturday before the market closes.

BLOCK GRANT COMES THROUGH FOR SAVAGE RIVER BRIDGE - County officials were pleased last week to learn of the approval of a Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) application. A total of $273,511 was given to the county to help replace the Savage River Bridge, which was severely damaged in January 1996 flooding. County Roads director Lee Thorne told the Garrett County Commissioners on Tuesday that he was surprised at the amount, as it was almost as much as the request. "It is unusual to be given the total amount," he said. The Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development's Division of Neighborhood Revitalization administers the CDBG program. According to a letter of approval from Governor Parris Glendening, the staff at the department are currently preparing the grant agreement. Thorne said the money will be used to purchase the pre-fabricated truss that will be used for the new bridge. "This is a very worthwhile project," he said, noting that his office has already received a bid for the work. The CDBG grant, in combination with about $27,000 expected to come from the Federal Emergency Management Administration (FEMA), will cover a significant portion of the project cost. Thorne said construction should begin next spring. Pictured left to right with the check are Thorne and Commissioners Wayne Wilt and Gary Fratz.

Man Sentenced For Theft, Sniffing Of Plastic Cement

An Oakland man was sentenced to two years in jail sentence in last week's Garrett County District Court after being convicted of the theft and inhalation of several tubes of plastic cement, commonly used by hobbyists in building model airplanes and cars.

Dannie Allen Stemple, 43, was arrested by the Maryland State Police in June in the rear of the Grantsville Plaza Shopping Center on Route 219. After being called to check on a disorderly subject at that location, troopers found Stemple carrying a bag with 11 tubes of plastic model cement that clerks at the Ben Franklin store alleged he had shoplifted. The report notes that two of the tubes were open and empty, modeling cement appeared to be on Stemple's shirt, and that he appeared to be intoxicated, allegedly from inhaling the cement.

Stemple was convicted on one count of theft and one count of inhaling a harmful substance. District Court Judge Ralph M. Burnett sentenced him to two years in jail.

In other district court news, a charge of resisting arrest against Mark Edward Whitacre, 28, Kitzmiller, was placed onto the stet docket. Whitacre's charge resulted from his arrest on a violation of probation warrant in June, when he resisted and struggled with the arresting Garrett County sheriff's deputy. A spray from the deputy's pepper spray bottle was required to enable him to handcuff Whitacre. The charge may be recalled for trial at any time within the next 365 days if Whitacre does not comply with the terms of the stet.

Timothy Allen Whitacre, 36, Bayard, W.Va., was found not guilty of unlawful taking of a motor vehicle. He had been accused of disposing of a customer's vehicle at Garrett Transmission Service, where he worked at the time, by having it towed off to a junkyard in July of last year.

Oakland Police Note DWI Arrest

Oakland town police reported a DWI arrest Saturday around 2:10 a.m.

The officer reported noticing a pick-up truck turning from Memorial Drive onto Third Street. Because the truck allegedly had a loud exhaust system, the officer turned on his emergency lights in order to stop the vehicle.

The driver, Rodney G. Guthrie, pulled the truck into the parking lot of the American Legion where the officer said he believed the vehicle would stop.

Guthrie, however, pulled back into the road and continued traveling east on Memorial Drive, turned south onto Eighth Street, crossed the center line, and stopped at the bottom of Winter's Hill, the report stated.

Having failed a field sobriety test, Guthrie reportedly refused the breathalyzer test. He was arrested and later released on his own recognizance.

"National Night Out" Town Picnic Set For Oakland

The Oakland Neighborhood Crime Watch, in association with National Night Out, will hold a picnic at the Mtn. Fresh Pavilion, Oakland Town Parking Lot, on Tuesday, August 5, from 6 to 10 p.m.

National Night Out is designed to bring residents within communities all over the nation together in heightening crime and drug prevention awareness, generating support for, and participation in, local anti-crime efforts, strengthening neighborhood spirit and police-community partnerships, and sending a message to criminals that neighborhoods are organized and fighting back against crime.

Until 10 p.m. on the evening of National Night Out, Oakland residents are asked to lock their doors, turn on outside lights, and spend the evening outdoors at the picnic with neighbors and police.

the landfill, resulting in additional savings.

"The final part of the equation which makes economic sense to recycle plastic is the space saved at the landfill by diverting that material to recycling markets," Glotfelty noted.

While the market price for #2 HDPE plastic will go up and down, as is the case with most recycled materials, Glotfelty expects that the county will realize an income of between $35 to $90 per ton for the bottles and jugs recycled at county sites.

He said the inclusion of other types of plastic -- such as #1 (PETE) soda bottles and all other numbered plastics (3-7) -- into the collection system would dramatically decrease the value of the load.

"The reason for this is the cost of labor which would be required by the processor to sort the material, as well as the fact that the market price for other types of plastic is very low at this time," Glotfelty stated. "The county will continuously monitor market prices for other types of plastic in the hope of eventually adding to the variety that can be collected."

For now, only #2 bottles and jugs will be accepted. To avoid the possibility of contaminating the whole load of plastic, residents are asked to not recycle oil or antifreeze containers, or oleo or butter tubs and buckets, even though they may contain the #2 emblem.

Most recycling markets prohibit these type of containers from being included with acceptable #2 bottles and jugs because, he explained, they are extremely difficult to clean. If any oil residue gets into the melted plastics in the recycling process, the product can be ruined.

Information packets are available at all county refuse collection sites concerning this pilot project. Personnel at the County Solid Waste and Recycling Office at 301-387-0322 are also available to answer questions concerning this and other recycling programs.

County Staff Meeting Held, Reports Given

The Garrett County Commissioners met with the leaders of various county departments this week in the regular monthly session and heard brief reports of ongoing activities and happenings within those offices. Commissioner Wayne Wilt opened the meeting with an update on the medical condition of Commissioner Roger Glotfelty, chairman of the board, who is currently undergoing treatment for leukemia.

"Commissioner Glotfelty came home from the hospital on Monday evening," he reported. "He hopes to return to work as soon as he regains his strength." Glotfelty began chemotherapy several weeks ago to battle the blood disease. He is reportedly doing fairly well and may be back in the office, at least part-time, by next week, according to Monty Pagenhardt, county administrative officer.

The staff reports followed Wilt's update.

Extension Service

Alice Hevner of the Extension Service reported that crops in Garrett County are somewhat late but are doing well. The service worked with the Garrett County Health Department, Garrett Memorial Hospital, and other entities to sponsor Farm Safety Day, held Saturday. Hevner said it was a success, with 175 individuals participating.

"We were very appreciative of all the volunteers and other support," she said. "And we were very pleased with the results."

She said the service is preparing for the 41st Annual Garrett County Fair, and noted that the recent move to the new facility along Rt. 135 in Mtn. Lake Park is complete. An open house at the new office is tentatively slated for Sept. 30.

Ruth Enlow Library

Emily Ferren, director of the Ruth Enlow Library, announced that the local system has received a grant of $20,000 as part of the Library State Technology Act. It will help fund computer upgrades and other technological improvements.

Promotion Council

Diane Wolfe, director of the Garrett County Promotion Council, said her office will be part of a regional booth at the Rocky Gap State Park music festival this weekend. The council will also have a booth at the Maryland State Fair, slated for late August.

She reported that in the tourism area, the county is "having a good summer" and is leading the state in calls to an 800 number that offers travel information about Maryland. Wolfe said the Autumn Glory brochure is now being distributed.

Solid Waste & Recycling

Rodney Glotfelty of the Office of Solid Waste and Recycling announced the addition of plastics recycling, with receptacles at the Grantsville and Mt. Nebo sites (see separate story).

"We're very happy to finally be able to offer this program," he said. "It has been the most requested thing since we started."

He noted that at least two groups of individuals from West Virginia are looking to Garrett County's system as a model for their own recycling projects. One group has already toured the local system and the other is expected to visit in October.

Emergency Management

Brad Frantz, director of Garrett County's Emergency Management Office, reported that the enhanced 911 system is now fully operational. While the new system is "not without some glitches," Frantz said it is working well, "far above any system we've had in the last 20 years."

The enhanced system allows the dispatcher to instantly see the telephone number and address of any caller, expediting emergency care. Frantz said persons interested in seeing the system work are welcome to contact him.

He also informed the commissioners that this year marks the 20th anniversary of the local 911 system, and a video recording the history of the system is to be made soon.

Education Board

Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent of schools, addressed the commissioners, noting that school will be in session in less than a month. He reported that construction at the Yough Glades Elementary School is moving along well and that work is being initiated on the connecting corridors at Southern High School. He said the Northern Middle School roof is nearly finished, and that renovations at the Swan Meadow School have been completed chiefly by community members.

He noted that he is still learning about the county and hopes to visit all the schools soon.

Roads Department

Lee Thorne, director of the Garrett County Roads Department, announced that a Community Development Block Grant has been awarded to the county in the amount of $273,511. The money will be used to help pay for the replacement of the Savage River Bridge (see related photo).

Thorne also responded to an earlier comment by Dr. Stephen Herman, president of Garrett Community College, who thanked Thorne and his staff for work being done on the road that runs beside the college and connects Bumble Bee and Mosser roads. Thorne said that work is being completed by Frank Arnold Contractors.

He also said that the Glendale Bridge project is nearly finished. An overall inspection by county and state officials should take place in the near future, he said.

Health Department

Dr. Rex Archer, health officer for the county, said that the mental health clinic, now located in Oakland on Third Street, is fully operational. An open house is in the planning stages.

Archer noted that the teen birth rate in Garrett County has dropped slightly, going from about 54 births in the late 80s to 47 per year over the past five years.

"We are still above the state average, but we're obviously moving in the right direction," he said.

The officer said the health department has several events and activities planned for the Garrett County Fair.

He also noted the abundance of water resources in the county -- rivers, lakes, farm ponds, etc. -- makes water safety a prime concern. He added that a public Olympic sized pool would be a great asset to the county, pointing out that the swim team has been without a proper facility for some time.

"I know about 40 families who would be thrilled to have a pool here," he said. Dr. Herman then stated that a regulation-sized pool at GCC has state approval "on the books," and that the construction of one is planned at the college. He did not say when it will be built.

Let's Build That Center...

It's no secret that recreation and tourism are Garrett County's primary assets and number one "industries," so the proposal to establish the National Adventuresports Center right here on the Mountaintop not only makes good sense, but is also quite exciting.

It's estimated that adventure sports are among the fastest growing activities in the "baby boomer" American society today, and are generating an estimated $40 billion annually for the U.S. economy. Nearly 95% of Americans age 16 and above participate in some form of outdoor recreation. With Garrett County's extremely wide variety of outdoor, world-class recreation, which is already being promoted and utilized; with an adventure sports college degree program offered only at Garrett Community College and Frostburg State University; with the need for more jobs in the area; and with the need to coordinate and, in some cases, regulate usage of our recreational resources, what better place could there be for a national adventure sports center than Garrett County?

Some business persons attended Tuesday's feasibility study hearing with concerns that the center would unfairly compete with their recreation enterprises, but they left the meeting pleased to learn that the center would enhance their businesses, by being an adventure sports information "hub" that would direct visitors to their locations. The center would be a link between all forms of adventure sports that are offered in the county, but are so spread out right now that visitors often do not know where to go to get information about them. Persons wanting to rock climb, mountain bike, cross-country ski, fly fish, hike, or take a whitewater rafting trip, for example, could visit the center and obtain information about all of the providers of such activities in the county. It would be a great marketing tool, not only for the providers of adventure sports, but also for the motels, restaurants, gas stations, food stores, and practically every other business in the county, which would also see more customers, conduct more business, generate more income, and provide more jobs.

Another benefit of the center, since the state would be involved via the Department of Natural Resources, would be regulation of adventure sports in those areas which are possibly being damaged by over-utilization, plus promotion of those that are being under-utilized.

The adventure sports degree program at GCC, which had one enrollee in 1993, has 74 for the 1997 fall semester, and they include persons from as far away as Canada and South Africa. So the county already commands a certain amount of worldwide attention for its recreation. If we don't jump on this now, someone else surely will.

The center would also house an adventure sports hall of fame and museum, which would bring still more visitors to the area. Cooperstown has the Baseball Hall of Fame, Canton has the NFL Hall of Fame, and Springfield has the NBA Hall of Fame. Let's act now to become the home for the Adventuresports Hall of Fame, and with it the national center for the many adventure sports that Garrett County has offered for years.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Thank you so much for the wonderful exposure you gave The Fresh Air Fund recently by publishing an article. Your publication enables us to attract volunteer host families and provide thousands of needy New York City youngsters with much needed summer vacations. We greatly appreciate your help in bringing The Fund to the attention of your readers.

On behalf of the Fresh Air Fund, our local volunteers, and thousands of grateful Fresh Air children, thank you again for your continued support.

To the Editor:

The recent boycott of the Walt Disney Enterprises by the Southern Baptist Conference smacks of similarities in the Amish way of solving a problem or differences--a method called shunning. Both methods hurt real people. It seems to me that simply meeting with persons or corporations which expound different beliefs would be a step in the right direction.

If Martin Luther King had not walked the streets of Alabama and Rosa Parks had continued to sit at the back of the bus, equality of the races may well have taken additional decades before being addressed sensibly. During these encounters it becomes possible to understand the others' differences and, consequently, ideas are formulated to achieve a common goal.

I attended a typical southern Protestant church regularly until the age of 18 when I moved to New York, along with my parents. There I discovered a broad range of churches and religions and one in particular which spoke frequently of the love of God rather than the sins of man. When I called my cousin (who was also the southern minister back home) to tell him of my discovery, he remarked, "If all I did was preach the love of God, the congregation would fall asleep. You have to put the fear of God in them to bring them back...." It was that kind of rhetoric that further distanced me from my cousin. During the years, however, we have talked and found common ground. Today he is a successful evangelist in the Atlantic region and speaks often of the love of God rather than the differences of man.

If we are all expected to act and look alike, then perhaps we should quickly approve the current trend towards cloning. Now, there's a chilling thought.

To the Editor:

I would like to express more concerns about the proposed four-lane interstate. I suspect the growth fostered by such a highway will leave our town by the wayside while major chain stores cluster at the highway. Major manufacturing seems to be heading south of the Mexican border where labor is cheap.

Garrett County is already VERY accessible via I-68. Rt. 219 in this county has been much improved over the last 20 years, and is in fine shape.

Take a look at a road atlas. The whole east coast is already a tangle of interstate highways. With I-81 to the east, and I-79 to the west, there is really no dire need for an expensive project such as this. This type of "growth" only consumes. It will eat up farm land. It will eat up forest land. And for what? Loud tractor trailer traffic going through, not to Garrett County. There will be more city people building "country" estates. The price of property will go up. Taxes will go up. Rent will go up. The cost of living here will go up, while the standard of living will stay the same, or go down for most.

This highway project will most certainly degrade our county, our lives, and our environment, not enhance them.

I invite discussion and opinions, but please, no anonymous hecklers.

Sincerely,
Jaime Alvarez

To the Editor:

I explicitly emphasize that I (C.S.) am writing this letter as a concerned native resident of Garrett County, and in no way whatsoever do my following words represent any journalism or news reporting on behalf of The Republican, though my work appears in this newspaper regularly. There are some who will see things differently from me. I ask them to give me constructive feedback. Again, this letter does NOT represent The Republican.

I would love to know exactly where the proposed international federal trade corridor freeway will be located. But I guess asking to see the route would be like asking the arsonist which house he plans to burn down next.

I speak from personal experience with Interstate 68. When it was constructed the land of a family friend, a widow, was taken. She was offered a nominal payment and told--"Take this amount or your land is condemned!" I consider that quintessential robbery in its most sophisticated disguise. (If she had received fair market value for payment, that would be an entirely different story.) "Eminent domain"--what a pleasant sounding narcotic for the conscience of property thieves. Am I wrong?

The land grab was followed by rampant rape of the earth. Day after day, former property owners watched in despair--which simply cannot be understood until it happens to you--as former properties were slashed and gashed, like a cold scalpel opening a human heart that will never fully recover. Another friend who also lost land once told me her husband died of heartbreak that began the day the state split his farm open. This widow is exactly the type of person I now fear for.

To everyone dreaming of the pot of gold at the end of a rainbow, eagerly joining the stampede for this corridor without concern for the property owners and those who will be forced to live beside it, breathing the carcinogenic fallout, I ask: Do you realize you are calling down unspeakable heartbreak and devastation upon people?

Guest Commentary . . .

Chamber's View On Four-Lane

by David Moe

Thank you for the opportunity to offer this guest editorial in response to your editorial of July 10 regarding the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce's push for a four-lane, limited-access, north/south highway in Garrett County.

I am president of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. The chamber is a member of the Garrett County Development Corporation. As the chamber's representative on the corporation, I am a member of its Infrastructure Committee. As you know, infrastructure is composed of transportation systems - (rail and highways), water and sewer services, educational facilities, health care facilities, telephone systems with high speed switches, fiber optic lines, etc.

The chamber and the development corporation are lobbying state and federal officials in support of a limited-access, north/south corridor. Our chamber co-sponsored, along with other chambers in the 219 corridor, the US Route 219 Stakeholders Workshop in Somerset, Pa., on May 31, 1996. On March 13, 1997, we organized a bus trip to Washington, D.C., joining Route 219 delegations from other states to lobby our federal representatives. We appreciate the coverage of those events provided by your newspaper.

An improved north/south highway has been a historical goal of the county leadership since the 1970s. It has been annually discussed by the various boards of county commissioners with the state secretary of transportation during the secretary's annual tour of the county each October or November. It has been viewed by those various boards as a way of facilitating transportation between the northern end of the county and the county seat of Oakland, as well as needed transportation infrastructure for the business and hospitality industries.

The four-lane, limited-access, north/south concept is in the countywide development plan, "A New Development Plan for Garrett County," recently approved by the Board of County Commissioners.

When a business is looking to relocate or establish itself in an area, the transportation infrastructure is one of the items it reviews before even deciding to visit a potential site. When marketing material is sent to a potential business looking to relocate, for example, references to these infrastructure components are shown on a map. To have a major east/west interstate such as I-68 and a north/south interstate crossing is a major plus in attracting new businesses and the employment they generate.

The chamber, development corporation, mayor of Oakland, and the chairman of the Board of County Commissioners requested the recent July 8th meeting with Maryland Secretary of Transportation David Winstead, Administrator of the Maryland State Highway Administrator Parker Williams, and Secretary James Brady of the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development.

This was extraordinary and historic to have two cabinet level state officials visit Garrett County to discuss transportation infrastructure and federa! enabling legislation. We discussed, as your July 10th front-page story pointed out, the legislation now up for re-authorization, the Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act (ISTEA). There are seven bills introduced in the Congress to re-authorize this legislation - four in the United States Senate and three in the U.S. House of Representatives. Of these seven bills, there are sections of President Clinton's bill and Congressman Bud Shuster's bill that deal with planning and development of international trade corridors. Shuster (R-Pa.) is chairman of the U.S. House of Representatives Transportation and Infrastructure Committee. Shuster is almost singularly responsible for the creation of Interstate 99 out of a 58-mile section of US 220 in Pennsylvania.

The state of Maryland has endorsed one of the seven bills dealing with re-authorization called "ISTEA Works." This bill was introduced in the House by Congresswoman Molinari. The reason Maryland has endorsed this bill is because its reimbursement formula returns more federal tax dollars to Maryland than the others and it basically operates as a block grant program letting the state decide where to spend transportation funds within the state. It does not fund any international trade corridor development or planning.

In our July 8th meeting with the secretaries, we sought support for inclusion of the language in the President's and Congressman Shuster's bills that allows for funding of trade corridor planning and development in whatever re-authorization legislation is passed this fall.

We believe a four-lane, north/south trade corridor through Garrett County would make a significant positive impact on Garrett and Allegany counties' horrific unemployment problem and for our tri-state region as a whole. It is part of a long-term solution not a temporary bandaid.

You are concerned about the impact on our county if this corridor funding is authorized in terms of quality of life and location. We share that concern. Perhaps what is needed is a reminder of what a four-lane, "limited access"

View From My Window

LEARNING HUMILITY

Nearly 36,000,000 years ago, the scientist said on the radio, a couple of meteors hit the earth, and changed the global climate. One of the meteors formed what we call the Chesapeake Bay. The other one landed somewhere in Siberia.

The scientist made clear that when he said these two meteors hit "at the same time" he did not mean "on the same day," rather within a millennium or two of each other. In context of a human life (assuming 100 years) this would equate to meteors hitting on two consecutive days.

These special reports have dovetailed with the more current reports on the Mars probe and the various rocks scientists have named after cartoon characters. While Americans work and play their way through the summer, we are invited to wonder what happened not only on planet Earth but on Mars and who knows where else in the universe over a period of billions and billions of years.

What puzzles me about the tenor of scientific discussion, as reported in the media, is the arrogance which accompanies it. It is a happy, friendly, smiling sort of arrogance nevertheless. It is an arrogance of those who have discovered secrets and who have the responsibility to explain those secrets to the masses.

In a sense, the giving of cartoon character names to the Martian rocks serves as an excellent example of this. It subtly communicates to the common folk that the scientists are really just like us.

They spent the Saturday mornings of their childhoods watching cartoons (just like ordinary people). They give names to those rather remote rocks which all of us can relate to. If we could only get our hands on the rocks, we would discover that they are as comforting as stuffed animals.

A substantial number of American fundamentalist Christians believe the universe is only 6,000 years old. I wonder what they are saying to each other around the supper table about the reports of what supposedly happened here or on Mars millions of years ago.

What many scientists and many fundamentalists agree upon is that these alleged discoveries undermine the authority of the Bible and belief in God. I think it is on this point about which they agree that they are the most wrong.

While I think the world is older than 6,000 years, I also listen with some skepticism to the scientific discoveries reported so mundanely. To hear someone tell me a meteor hit the earth 36,000,000 years ago with less excitement than the sportscaster who tells me that Cal Ripken just hit another home run, makes me scratch my head. Scientists would seem more believable to me if they were not so sure of themselves.

I am myself not a modest person by temperament. Cockiness comes naturally to me. As I grow older, however, I sometimes humble myself and am sometimes humbled before so many and so much which are greater than I.

Taking the God-orientation out of Psalm 8, the psalmist sums up the kind of humility even an atheist should feel: "When I consider [the] heavens,...the moon and the stars...What is man?"

If science does not inspire humility before the universe (if not before the creator), what good is it? However genial the discoveries made by scientists, without humility those discoveries, sooner or later, are translated into the means of war and exploitation.

For my part, let me walk the dogs just at dusk, and watch the stars come out. Then in the darkness let me see those shooting stars, the meteorites. I feel very small at such moments, but wonderfully and delightfully small, having the pleasure of living in a world so big and beautiful.

County Officials Take Tour Of New Yough Glades Elementary

The new Yough Glades Elementary School construction site was visited by county officials Tuesday afternoon. Dr. Wendell Teets, Garrett County superintendent of schools, was joined by the Garrett County Board of Commissioners, and the members of the Garrett County Board of Education for the walk-through.

The roof is in place, the walls are up, and the windows are glazed. Inside the building, steel skeletons delineate classrooms and offices. Yellow insulation has been placed in wall pockets, and drywall compartmentalizes some sections.

The tour guide through the maze of steel was Rich Visniski, project superintendent with Cleveland Construction Company, Inc., the general contractor for the facility. He explained that about 40 workers were on site, wielding the tools of their trade.

"We're averaging about 200 hours of overtime a week right now," he noted.

The Yough Glades Elementary School is scheduled to open after the Thanksgiving break. It will serve children from Red House and Loch Lynn elementary schools as well as some from Dennett Road School.

Speaking over the resonant din of the ongoing construction, Visniski described the structure in progress. "This is all metal construction," he said, gesturing toward the steel beams spanning the ceiling and reaching up from the floor.

Rapping his knuckles on a block fastened between studs, he explained that the only wood in the building was there for ease in attaching chalk boards or chair rails. It is not structural.

Stepping into spaces separated now only by steel beams, Visniski described the rooms that will form as the remaining drywall goes into place. "We've used 60,000 drywall screws already," he said, underscoring the scope of the project.

The ductwork stretching above the ceiling beams will be easy to access should any repair work be needed, he explained, saying that the pitched roof design allows for ease of movement in that area.

The media center/library is a focal point in the building. Filling a wall from cathedral ceiling to floor, a window in the room overlooks the wetlands and the hills beyond. The computer center opens off this area.

A trail through the wetlands is underway. A slightly raised gravel path crosses through a copse of trees to a boardwalk that extends over marshy grounds.

Around 27 contractors are contributing to the project. "We're averaging highway is.

The prime example we have in our region is Interstate 68.

I was in Grantsville last week and watched four volleyball teams compete on two adjoining volleyball courts set against a background of green, gently rolling farm land, and a blue sky with a brief wisp of a single white cloud, yet Interstate 68 was only a mile away! It was clearly a Norman Rockwell moment. In my opinion, I-68 rolls gently through western Maryland providing our population access to Cumberland, Morgantown, and connections to points beyond.

I am not aware of any "criminal element" that came with the development of I-68. I am additionally unaware of any "negative impact" I-68 has had on our quality of life.

Perhaps you are referring to the recent "Hot Spots" grant the town of Grantsville received. That grant was the result of a state program to give every county in the state additional funds for law enforcement. The reason that Grantsville received the grant award was primarily the result of three juveniles who conducted numerous acts of household vandalism. Next year, it could be the towns of Mtn. Lake Park or Deer Park that may be eligible.

It is correct that there is a mathematical probability that with increased traffic on the interstate there is a possibility of increased crime.

We, the Development Corporation and the Chamber of Commerce, support the north/south highway concept, even though we don't know where it will be located. We believe the impact on the county will be positive. As I told your reporter, the first battle is to get the concept approved via the ISTEA re-authorization. If that doesn't happen, then we are back to square one. The state of Maryland will probably not do anything on this corridor development because without the federal reimbursement the state simply can't afford it. The state of Maryland will spend transportation funds for the "inter-county connector corridor" connecting I-95 to I-70 or as I call it, the first section of the outer-beltway around Washington, D.C.

If we are successful and there is legislation for international trade corridor planning and development, then the state will begin the long process of conducting a "corridor location study." Highway planners suggest possible routes based on topographic surveys and community needs and then conduct a series of public meetings and hearings before making a route selection. The public will have many, many opportunities for input into this corridor location process. Then following a location determination, an environmental impact statement is prepared. This whole process, along with the design phase, can take at least 10 years before any construction takes place. The U.S. Department of Transportation estimated that for every dollar invested in the highway system there is a return of more than $2.60 in benefits to the economy. A study done by the National Science Foundation of 110 Appalachian counties with an Appalachian Development Highway System (ADHS) highway found that those counties with ADHS highways grew 69 percentage points faster in income, 49 percentage points faster in earnings, and just 6 percentage points faster in population than similar counties outside the Appalachian Region.

Our county's unemployment rate is nearly triple the state and national averages. Our Maryland neighbor, Allegany County, had an unemployment rate more than double the state average in April. Allegany County is losing population.

THE GWFC CIVIC CLUB OF OAKLAND made donations recently to some of the many organizations that serve the citizens of Garrett County. Shown above, Civic Club vice president Ann Rebele presents a $150 check to Donna McClintock, co-chair of the Garrett County AIDS Council, to assist with educational programs, counseling, testing resources and medical treatment. Below, Rebele presents Sheila Hughes, assistant librarian of the Ruth Enlow Library, with a check for $350. The money will be used to purchase audio and video tapes, two of the library's most popular offerings. The Civic Club uses the profits from its Autumn Glory antique show to make contributions to these and other civic and charitable organizations serving area residents. Membership in the Civic Club is open to anyone who wishes to better the community through volunteer work, and interested persons may either attend the regular Civic Club luncheon meeting held on the last Tuesday of each month at Will O'The Wisp, or call 301-334-2180 for information.

Garrett and Allegany counties need to act now in the face of our own economic conditions. In Allegany County, the PPG building has been vacant for how long? Neither the speaker of the house, Cas Taylor, nor the governor, whose wife hails from Allegany County, has been able to fill that facility. Now Garrett County has the Bausch & Lomb 190,000 sq. ft. facility vacant.

The international trade corridor in Garrett County is an infrastructure project designed to allow our region to participate and compete on an equal playing field with other regions in the country. It is the only chance our two county regions will get in the near term because of the ISTEA re-authorization process. The bipartisan visions of the administration and the Republican chairman of the U.S. House Transportation and Infrastructure Committee, Bud Shuster, in their re-authorization of ISTEA make this a time to act.

Thank you for the opportunity to present the viewpoint of the Garrett County Development Corporation and the Chamber of Commerce on this important economic issue. We welcome your questions and comments and those of the public.

WINS QUILT - Chief Deputy Dick Sanders of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office was the winner of a quilt, recently raffled off by the Domestic Violence, Sexual Assault Resource Center (DVSARC). The quilt was donated for the fund-raiser, according to a spokesperson. Pictured are Sanders and Donna Shafer, representing the DVSARC board of directors.

Who among us wants to inflict the lives of many out of the love of money? Who would willingly have their home land, their hopes, their heritage greedily butchered like the sacrificial animal, reduced to dust in the wind? Please be courageous enough to identify yourself by name.

"The love of money is the root of all evil." If that is true, then, as Jesus asked, "What shall it profit a man if he gains the whole world, but loses his soul?" (Not to imply that I am holier-than-thou.)

WE, THE PEOPLE, are the true "representatives" of Garrett County! People, please understand: We will not be getting just a "freeway" (a handy political euphemism at this point), but will become part of an international federal trade corridor, constructed in accordance to the whims of federal government, a political trophy!

This is not a Garrett County issue, but an international one to Congress, world champion of fiscal blunders. "Rt. 219 will be," said N.Y. Sen. Alfonse D'Amato (Cumberland Times-News, 7/2/97). Who is Sen. D'Amato looking out for: New York, or Garrett Co. farmers?

This trade corridor--a wonderful weapon for Florida dealers exporting drugs and every other vice Miami has to offer--is not a "done deal!" It will be decided upon by the U.S. Congress, not our Chamber of Commerce--soon, very soon.

All of you, wherever you live, wanting a say in this matter may share your thoughts by writing to: C.A.R.E. (Conservative Action for a Rural Environment), P.O. Box 780, Grantsville, MD 21536. Please include your day and evening phone numbers, and a full explanation of your views. This action, however, will do little good unless you also take the next step, the most important of all.

It is extremely critical to immediately express your concerns to your U.S. senators (for Md., Paul S. Sarbanes and Barbara A. Mikulski; for W.Va., Robert C. Byrd and John D. Rockefeller, at U.S. Senate, Washington, DC 20510) and representatives (for Garrett Co., Roscoe Bartlett; for W.Va., Alan B. Mollohan and Robert E. Wise Jr.; at U.S. House of Representatives, Washington, DC 20510). You may phone 202-224-3121 for all senators and representatives. It is best to both write and call.

It is also crucial to reach our Md. state legislators, House Speaker Casper R. Taylor Jr. (316 Prince George's St., Cumberland, MD 21502); Senator John J. Hafer (58 Frost Ave., P.O. Box 116, Frostburg, MD 21532); and Delegate George C. Edwards (P.O. Box 658, Grantsville, MD 21536). See the telephone directory for numbers.

Contact Garrett County Commissioners Gary E. Fratz, Roger P. Glotfelty, and H. Wayne Wilt at 203 S. 4th St., Courthouse Room 207, Oakland, MD 21550; phone 301-895-3188 or 301-334-8970.

It is tragic that so many jobs have been lost here. But keep in mind, 25 years ago we clamored for the existing freeway, I-68. Wasn't that supposed to be our economic cure-all? Well, now we have it. Where's the beef? The pot of gold? What do we have to show for it? Pit stops to the east (Chestnut Ridge), pit stops to the west (Keyser's Ridge), pit stops in the town heart. This is the I-68 legacy: Pit stop industry. Be still, my heart.

Allegany Co. got a mad menagerie of franchises (look how fast they come and go) called the Country Club Mall (where is the country club?) and a Wal-Mart, which provided thousands of excellent jobs. Do we need more pit stops and franchises, or do millionaires need us?

I see the Chamber of Commerce came and asked the mayor and council of Grantsville to support the corridor. Boy, I wish I had known they were coming! Is this what you want, folks? More traffic congestion? More trafficking of the hottest drugs? (Remember, Rt. 68 has already made Grantsville an official state crime hot spot! How hot must we be?) More carcinogenic pollution? More urban sprawl? Of course, the pit stops want it. Do you? There are jobs galore in Washington and Baltimore, urban and suburban, just a few hours away, if that's the element you want. Wouldn't it be easier to go to the jobs, than to bring the element here? Garrett County was chosen by the National Police Bloodhound Association for annual training here, precisely because we have the most diverse environment in America! That diversity cannot last with a corridor. May the majority (not the aristocracy) rule. May the evicted property owners become the first millionaires. May we please have concrete sound barriers?

I suggest that those concerned act by sundown. The business community already has. Tomorrow may literally be too late.

Finally, I emphasize that it is far cheaper to share your opinion with your legislators and this newspaper, than with an attorney. I hope we can all agree to pray for the unemployed and Garrett County. God bless America, the Beautiful.

RT. 40 SCHOOL OFFERS SUMMER FUN - A wide variety of activities appealed to the interest of the students who participated recently in the summer program offered at the Rt. 40 Elementary School near Finzel. Under the instruction of Mary Margaret Ward, children engaged in physical conditioning by playing kickball, basketball, wiffleball, dodgeball, and relay races. Nature walks and wetland ventures made flower and tree identification active and fun. Daily reading and functional math were tucked into each day's activities through projects like following recipes to make trailmix or peanut butter. Candy Opel read aloud to the children from the works of Dr. Suess. Floyd and Sherry Presley shared data and details on falconry. They have had their hawk Elvis for 17 years. Rose Opel of the Eastern Garrett Fire Department Auxiliary talked with the children about fire safety and presented each with an educational package. A community program of collecting and donating books to the library was undertaken by the group. Painting T-shirts, making ice cream clowns, watching a karate demonstration, and just plain having fun rounded out the full agenda of the summer program. The children pictured above are exploring the world of plants and critters found in the wetlands at the school. Those pictured below are making sandwiches with their homemade peanut butter. joyed; the letters to the editor are always so enjoyable, enlightening, and gives one pause to think of others' ideas and viewpoints! The cartoon even was excellent!

I, too, question the validity of the interstate being pushed for Garrett Co. and all the supposed benefits. They'll have to come up with a lot more real issues before I'd buy into the concept.

I was so happy to read of Commissioner Glotfelty's health update. Thank you, Comm. Wilt, and could we continue to have a periodic update? For those of us who are not in a gossip ring or active in the community generally, we have no means routinely to get such information which we appreciate! We are concerned and we wish Comm. Glotfelty Godspeed in his recovery.

The front page of The Republican was "dynamite" to me this week, the state health secy's visit being the most important to me. It's too bad the general public does not know when the "big shots" are coming to town in an open public meeting; I find it out when I read it long after they are gone in the Garrett Co. Weekender and The Republican. Certain local big shots are notified, but why not some concerned citizens who know everything is not rosy in our health services and who would like some real answers to real questions, particularly in the finances for services to our seriously mentally ill?

Dr. Wasserman has been around for many years before his present elevation; where is there a "rosy picture" in the history of our care for our seriously mentally ill in Garrett Co. in the last seven to 15 years? Where is the core service agency which was supposed to be in place July 1997? That's all we have heard and worked toward supposedly for one year solid and five years overall! That would have put the money and responsibility in Garrett Co. for Garrett Co. residents' mental health care. Who asked any questions about our sadly lacking mentally ill? Where does the money go? Who knows? No one but the administration of the Health Dept. knows, or so it would seem.

Do we have at state and county level no real accountability? Could we have another Fousek-type method of accounting? Where does it all begin and end? Does anyone other than a couple top people really know?

According to the Garrett County Weekender report of Dr. Wasserman's reply to hospital VP Weaver's question, Wasserman said, "we want people to get services in their own communities." So then why have our seriously ill mental patients been being sent to Finan Center all these years and still are and will be forever, I guess, since no one is actively doing anything to change it that I am aware? Talk is cheap! I know what we don't have and haven't had for at least 20 years. We have had both an administrator and a medical person making the decisions ever since we have had a Health Dept. in Garrett Co. and Dr. Wasserman at the state level has been for many years in there helping and advising Dr. Archer. So what does he mean by so many of the statements in the articles concerning his review here? It raises so many more questions than it answers for me.

The feasibility study for local adventure sports center raised my blood pressure this soon following the specially created high-paying position for our ex-commissioner, and I suppose there will be hundreds of thousands of our tax dollars going into all this by year's end, but no money available for salaries for eight health employees. How insincere can we get?

This is my opinion. Thanks.

Two recent thefts from parked vehicles are currently under investigation.

Bartlett Comments On Budget Passage

Rep. Roscoe Bartlett (R-6-MD) said that Wednesday's House passage of a bipartisan plan to balance the budget by 2002 and save Medicare from imminent bankruptcy is "the change in direction for the country that voters have been demanding."

"Do I think it's perfect?" asked Bartlett. "Absolutely not. Not even close.

"However, look how far we've come," Bartlett said. "The last time the federal government balanced its budget was 1969--a generation ago. We've gone from decades of deficit spending to adoption of a bipartisan plan to balance the budget. We've gone from decades of runaway entitlement spending to reforms that will save Medicare from bankruptcy by giving seniors more health care options.

"This is undeniably a historic first step in the right direction to get our nation's fiscal house in order," Bartlett concluded.

The center will not introduce sports that are already offered in the county, the officials said. The only sport to be introduced will be cross-country skiing trails with lighting and man-made snow facilities. This is not offered in the county nor anywhere nearby, the officials said.

"We would be remiss if we didn't proceed with this study now," Braskey said. "If we don't do these things (like the cross-country skiing facility), someone else will."

Paul Durham, Deep Creek Lake manager for the DNR, was present and explained that his department would be involved with the center, especially in the management of usage.

"We want to promote the areas that are under-utilized and put a cap on the areas that are being over-used," he said. The object is to protect the utilized areas so that they are not damaged by the sports participants, but also to bring to the fore some sports that have been under-promoted in areas that are not being utilized.

Adventure sports are defined as those sports that are done in a natural outdoor environment, are non-mechanized, and entail an element of personal danger. However, the officials noted that the Adventuresports Center will be able to offer information about several "spin-off" sports as well, such as golfing, indoor swimming or ice skating, and other less adventurous activities. This, too, will promote local businesses, and will be a boost to GCC, where plans are in the making for the construction of a pool, a new gymnasium, and an ice-skating rink.

Hinebaugh also pointed out that the center will give a boost to the hospitality industry, and will improve local employment rates.

"The center will provide jobs," he said. "And it will fill our motels, hotels, and restaurants."

Zbel also stated that Precision Rafting has difficulty in getting cooperation from companies such as Penelec in releasing water for rafting. The number of days is extremely limited for the company, which is harmful to business.

"We can't offer what we would like to offer because we only have so many days of whitewater," she said. The officials suggested that the company may be helped in this area if it is backed by the center.

"We want this center to help people," Braskey said. "We will not compete with anyone, but will in fact complement the private sector."

As far as ownership of the center, this element has apparently not been decided.

"We are looking at a possible private/public partnership," Braskey said. "The study will give us more information as to how to operate."

The study will now commence, to be performed by a Virginia firm that apparently has compiled several similar analyses. It is to be complete by fall, Braskey said.

Information handed out at the hearing included a page of Outdoor Adventure Recreation facts, as recorded in the 1997 "State of Industry Report." According to this document, these sports contribute $40 billion annually to the country's economy and employ approximately 800,000 full-time individuals. Hiking, mountain biking, kayaking, rock/ice climbing, and snowshoeing are among the fastest growing activities. Aging "baby boomers" are the major participants in outdoor recreation and, according to the report, will continue to "increase demands." The increase of urbanization, the report states, generates the need and desire for outdoor recreational experiences.

Fair To Again Feature Home Canning Awards

There will be a number of awards sponsored by the Ball, Kerr, and Alltrista companies that will be presented to persons who enter home-canned goods at the 1997 Garrett County Agricultural Fair, slated for Aug. 10-16. There are some new stipulations for eligibility for these awards, according to Irmgard Koscielniak, of the Garrett County Extension office.

The Adult Premium Food Preservation Award requires that the adult's canned product needs to be in Ball jars with Ball two-piece lids or Kerr jars with Kerr two-piece lids.

The Pickled Foods Award must also satisfy the above requirements. In addition, Heinz distilled white vinegar or Heinz apple cider vinegar must have been used.

Soft Spread Awards also have the same eligibility requirements as the Adult Premium Food Preservations Award. In addition, the soft spread must have been prepared with 100% Natural Fruit Jell Pectin. The UPC seal (striped seal) from the Fruit Jell package must accompany the product, which is a new requirement.

For more information about these requirements, persons may call the Extension office at 334-6960.

McClive's Food For Thought

by Chef Francesco G. Pisano

If you want a smokier taste to your grilled foods, soak wood chips and chunks in water before burning them on the grill. They'll burn more slowly and impart more flavor.

Summer corn off the cob makes a terrific salad. Steam husked ears in 2 inches of boiling water; cool and cut off kernels. Toss with tender-crisp steamed green beans, a diced red pepper and a small, minced sweet onion in an apple-cider vinaigrette.

"Frost" fruit by brushing with maple syrup and then rolling in granulated sugar. Grapes will keep several days; use berries now.

Easiest-ever chocolate mousse has only the three ingredients: 12 ounces semi-sweet chocolate, 5 Tbs. honey, and whipping cream. Warm chopped chocolate and honey with 3/4 cup cream until melted and smooth; cool, stirring now and then.

Meanwhile, beat ¼ cups cream until soft peaks form and fold into the chocolate mixture in two additions. Spoon into 8 serving dishes and chill about 2 hours. Top with more whipped cream.

What's even easier: eating out at McClives.

LOTS OF TROPHIES were captured by the Garrett County Swim Team at the annual Cumberland YMCA championships, held Saturday at the new YMCA facility in Cumberland, as the Manta Rays garnered approximately 40 percent of the top awards in the seven-team, A flight and B flight competition. They also set three new YMCA league records in the process, as Greg Speicher broke a 1973 mark in the B flight junior boys' 50-yard butterfly, Amanda Bell set a new mark for the B flight prep girls' 50-yard butterfly, and Jenny Grant broke a 1990 record in the B flight senior girls' 50-yard backstroke, which had been held by teammate Audra Speicher. Manta Rays Conclude Another Successful Year At Championships

Another successful swimming season of competition was completed Saturday by the Garrett County youth swim team, the Manta Rays, who participated in the annual Cumberland YMCA championships and returned home with numerous trophies and ribbons for their efforts. The Manta Rays, coached by Joanne Graybill, were one of seven teams in the championships, but captured nineteen of 47 trophies, or 40 percent, that were awarded.

Competition was held in both A and B flight divisions, with A flight swimmers being those who have either won a B flight title or who swim competitively year-round. All of the Manta Rays compete just seasonally, and so all of the Garrett County swimmers who achieve A flight do so by winning B flight titles.

Among the 19 trophies garnered by the Manta Rays, nine were either first or second place in A flight, and 10 were either first or second place in B flight. Winning A flight championship trophies were: Adam Chorpenning, senior boys; James Marc and Rusty Strubin, junior boys (tie); James Naylor, cadet boys; and Kelly Taylor, tyke girls. Runner-up trophies in A flight were won by: Caine Chorpenning, senior boys; Natalie Sanders, junior girls; Michael Schwalm, junior boys; and Jordan Lantz, cadet boys.

The Manta Rays also set three new YMCA records this year, as Greg Speicher broke a 24-year-old, junior boys, B flight record in the 50-yard butterfly event (35.04 seconds); Amanda Bell set a new mark in the prep girls, B flight 50-yard butterfly (36.83 seconds); and Jenny Grant broke the previous record for the senior girls, B flight, 50-yard backstroke (35.82 seconds). Audra Speicher, a former Manta Ray, held the former 50-back mark from 1990.

MINOR LEAGUE CHAMPS - Pictured are the members of the Oakland Little League team, sponsored by the Oakland Rotary Club, which won the minor division championship this season. Oakland Team Wins Tri-Towns World Series

A team of 11- and 12-year-old Oakland all-stars recently captured first place in the 28th annual Tri-Towns Little League World Series Tournament in Westernport. The local team competed against 10 other area teams in the week-long event and finished with a perfect record.

Oakland ultimately won the title by defeating Keyser in the final game, 2-0, behind an outstanding pitching effort by Dennis Tressler and strong defensive play led by Toby Stoner and Kevin Goralski. Tressler allowed only one hit, struck out 10, and issued just one walk.

Oakland's runs were scored on an RBI single by Goralski that plated Stoner in the third inning, and a solo home run by Stoner in the fifth. Other hits were recorded by Justin Baylor and Tressler.

Other winning pitchers for Oakland in the tournament were Willy DeWitt in the first game against Central Garrett, A.J. Bender and Corey Burrell in a victory over Dawson, Danny O'Brien and Chris Hoff in the game against Tri-Towns, and Goralski and Stoner in another close game against Keyser.

Batting over .300 for the tournament were Stoner, Baylor, Burrell, and Goralski. Stoner garnered three awards, including MVP, best catch, and most home runs, while Goralski won the pre-tournament home run derby with six blasts, including a nearly 300-foot shot into a sewage tank. O'Brien placed second in the base-running contest. Goralski, Tressler, Stoner, and O'Brien were named to the All-Tournament team.

The squad was managed by Bob Goralski and coached by Dave Bender, Mike Baylor, Bruce Burrell, and Ed Wildesen.

Oakland All-Stars Finally Stopped By Capitol City

The dream of playing in the Little League World Series at Williamsport, Pa., was dashed for a group of 13-year-old all-stars representing the Oakland Little League, but not before a string of major accomplishments by the team, including district, sectional, and North Maryland championships.

The Oaklanders captured the North Maryland title last Thursday evening by defeating Rising Sun in the second game of a best-of-three series, which advanced them into the Mid-Atlantic Regional Tournament at Seaford, Del. In that double-elimination tournament, the Oakland team lost to Capitol City of Washington, D.C., 4-0, on Friday, defeated Georgetown, the Delaware south state champions, on Saturday, 6-2, and finally lost again to Capitol City on Sunday, 8-6.

In the first loss to Capitol City, Oakland was limited to just three hits by Brian Kelly. Stephen Eiswert recorded two of those hits, a double and a single, while Ricky Reams added a single.

Capitol City finished with nine hits, three each by Walter Neel and Danny Smith.

The Oakland team hit much better in Saturday's game against Georgetown, as opposing pitcher Wesley Givens was tagged with 10 hits.

The Oakland all-stars trailed 2-0 going into the top of third, which is when they cut the lead in half with a run. They took the lead for good with four runs in the fourth.

Leading the 10-hit effort was Ryan Ewing, who had three hits and scored a pair of runs. Chad Panther had two hits and scored twice and Ricky Reams finished with a pair of hits.

Trey Bell recorded a pair of hits and a run for Georgetown.

Bryan Hauser, who went the distance on the mound for Oakland, gave up six hits, struck out one, and walked four.

The Oaklanders hit much better against Capitol City in their second game, but it was not enough to pull out a victory. Each team finished with eight hits, with Eiswert and Bryson Meyers each getting a double and a single, and Chad Panther hitting two singles for Oakland.

Pacing Capitol City's offense were Walter Neel and Daryl Diaz with two hits each and Jack Lyons with a triple.

Oakland trailed the entire game and was down 7-1 after four. The local team chipped away at the lead with a run in the fifth and two each in the sixth and seventh frames, but could get no closer.

Among the highlights of the game was a triple play by Oakland's J.B. Murphy, Meyers, Joel Helbig, Eiswert, and Ewing.

The winner of the Mid-Atlantic title will advance to the Eastern Regional in Rockhampton, N.Y.

Oakland Loses Two Of Final Four, But Still Top-Ranked

Despite dropping two of four games this past weekend, the Oakland Oaks captured the regular season title in the Pen-Mar Baseball League, and will thus be the top-seeded team going into the league playoffs this weekend.

The Oaks dropped an 8-4 game with Fairmont and then split a make-up doubleheader with LaVale, all on Saturday at Garrett Community College. They came back to hand Fairmont an 8-4 defeat on Sunday to finish the regular season with a 17-5 record.

Leading Fairmont to its 8-4 win in the first game Saturday was Todd Stevens, who finished with a double, two singles, and an RBI, while teammate Mike Dotson contributed a double and a single. Jacob Lowther added two singles and two RBI.

Each team finished with nine hits, and leading Oakland's offense were Ronnie Palmer and Aaron Taylor with two singles each, Joey DiSimone with a double, and Donnie Reeves with a run-producing single.

Andy Jeffries earned the win on the mound, as he went the distance, struck out five, and walked two.

Oakland came back in the first game with LaVale to record a 13-3 victory, as Reeves and Mark Elliott each smacked two-run homers for the Oaks and Bill Phillips added a solo shot.

Elliott also had a single, Ernie Galusky hit two doubles for two RBI, Josh Woods doubled and singled for two more RBI, Palmer provided a double and a single, Taylor hit two singles, and Jason Sweitzer contributed an RBI double. Oakland finished with 15 hits.

Jason Ward hit a pair of triples for LaVale (3-17).

Leading LaVale's 6-4 upset of the Oaks in the second game was Mike Bowman, who smacked a two-run homer in the first inning.

Oakland tied the score with single runs in the second and fourth, and went up 4-2 in the top of the sixth, but LaVale answered with four runs in the bottom of the sixth and held on for the victory.

LaVale won the game in the sixth as winning pitcher John Natally walked and Bowman reached on an infield single. After another walk, Jeremy Hedrick hit a two-run double to tie the score at 4-4. An infield error, followed by a wild pitch, allowed runs number five and six to score.

Oakland pitchers Mark Keener and Reeves allowed only four hits, with Bowman getting half of them (a homer and a single). Natally and Tony Clark combined for a six-hitter, with Palmer recording a solo homer and a run-producing single and Reeves adding a double.

The Oaks avenged their 8-4 loss to Fairmont on Sunday by the same score, as Reeves led a 14-hit performance by going four-for-five with four singles and driving in three runs. Phillips drove in two more runs with a double and a single.

Fairmont took a 2-0 lead in the second inning, but Oakland took the lead for good with three runs in the third.

Ryan Folk and Sweitzer each singled twice for the Oaks, while Andy Jeffries hit a home run for Fairmont and John Chambers singled twice.

Getting the win on the mound was Kent Taylor, who pitched into the ninth inning and got relief from J.D. Hawkins. Jacob Lowther took the loss.

Romney and Fairmont finished second in the league standings with 17-7 records, followed by Stangel's at 13-9, Hyndman at 11-11, and LaVale at 3-19.

Oakland received a first-round bye in the league playoffs, which will get underway Saturday. The Oaks will play the winner of the Hyndman-Stangel's game at 3:30 p.m. at Donahue field in Cumberland, and again at Garrett Community College at 2 p.m. Sunday. The semifinal winners will then play a best-of-three championship series Aug. 9-10.

Sisler Lumber Currently 1-1 In Tournament

Sisler Lumber concluded a Hot Stove Baseball League playoff sweep Friday by defeating Document Solutions, 10-0, at Ellerslie, and is now 1-1 with Barton Mining in the second round of the tourney. Sisler's topped Barton in game one on Monday, 6-3, at Northern High School, but were defeated by the same team last night, 8-1, at Westmar High School in Lonaconing.

In Friday's win over Document Solutions, which ended after six innings because of the 10-run rule, Josh Hook went the distance on the mound for Sisler's and fired a two-hitter. Hook recorded seven strikeouts and walked just one.

Leading Sisler's 11-hit offense were Taylor Glotfelty with two singles and two RBI, B.A. Sisler with a pair of singles and one RBI, Hook with one single and two RBI, and Jeff Carr with a run-producing single.

Chris Bloskey had a double for Document Solutions (13-5).

Jeff Carr had a perfect game going until the fifth inning of Sisler's first playoff game with Barton Mining on Monday. That's when Zack Bittinger hit a double for Barton, which was followed by doubles by Sean Mowbray and David Ziler that yielded two runs.

It wasn't enough, however, as Sisler's had a 4-0 lead going into the fifth. The game was scoreless until the fourth when Sisler's scored four runs.

Paul Beitzel finished with a double and two singles in Sisler's 10-hit effort, Hook rapped a triple and a double, Trey Brenneman had two singles and an RBI, and Adam Brenneman contributed a double and an RBI.

Carr struck out eight batters, walked none, and scattered four hits until being relieved in the seventh by Hook, who added one strike-out.

Zack Bittinger earned the win on the mound for Barton Mining last night in the second game of the best-of-three series, as he struck out eight, walked two, and scattered eight singles.

Sisler's only run of the game was scored in the second inning. Adam Brenneman, Levi Schmuck, Taylor Glotfelty, and Josh Hook each recorded two singles.

Leading Barton's hitting were David Ziler, who had a double and a single for two RBI and Jeff Baker, who hit a double and two singles.

Sisler's, now 17-3, will meet Barton Mining (15-6) in the deciding game of their series this Friday at Northern High School. The game will get underway at 5:30 p.m.

Western Garrett Sweeps Jaycees, Splits With FU

Western Garrett completed a two-game sweep in the first round of the Hot Stove League playoffs Friday by defeating the Jaycees/Eagles, 10-2, at Friendsville. The local team then won its opening game in the second round on Monday by blanking Frostburg First United at Frostburg, 4-0, but then fell to First United last night, 10-0, to even the best-of-three series at 1-1.

In Friday's victory over the Jaycees/Eagles, Western Garrett rallied from a 2-0 deficit with eight runs in the bottom of the second inning behind two-run singles by Brant Green and Bryan Lenhart. Also recording RBI singles in that frame were Mark Wolf, Tim Umbel, and Greg Speicher.

Wolf and Umbel each had two singles in Western Garrett's eight-hit performance.

P.J. Workman earned the win on the mound, as he allowed just three hits and struck out four. All three of those hits came in the second inning and were recorded by Bobby Crissey, Tony Fetters, and Jacob Kagey.

In the playoff win over First United Monday, Brant Green and Workman combined for a two-hit shutout, as Green fanned four batters in six-plus innings of work. Workman came took the mound facing loaded bases and no outs in the seventh, but struck out one and forced a double play to kill the threat.

Losing pitcher Johnny Koppel allowed only five hits, with Jeremy Frazee getting two singles and an RBI. Green added a double and an RBI.

The only hits for First United were a double by David Schrock and a single by Jason Skidmore.

It was a different story last night, however, as Western Garrett was the team limited to just two hits, both singles, and First United erupted for a dozen hits.

David Schrock smacked a homer and a double in the game, which was shortened to six innings because of the 10-run rule.

First United scored six of its runs in the fifth inning. Other hitting leaders were winning pitcher Jason Skidmore, who doubled and singled for an RBI, Derek Yates with a double and a single for another run, and Jason Thomas and Mike Preston with a double apiece.

Skidmore went the distance on the mound for the win, as he struck out six and walked four.

The deciding game in the series will be played Friday at 5:30 p.m. at Frostburg Armory Field.

Uphold, Arndt Named All-Area Baseball Picks

Joel Uphold of Southern High School and Herman Arndt of Northern High School were named this past week to the first-team 1997 All-Area Baseball Team by a vote of the area's coaches. Selected to the second team were Southern's Derek Everd and Northern's Zack Leverenz.

It was the second straight year that Uphold was named first-team All-Area as a pitcher. The senior right-hander finished the 1997 season with a 6-3 record, as he worked 52 innings, gave up 43 hits, and allowed just 12 earned runs for an ERA of 1.62, third best in the area. He struck out 75 batters, or about 1.5 per inning pitched, and walked just 19.

Uphold was equally effective with his bat, as he recorded 25 hits in 59 at-bats for an average of .424. He led the area in home runs with eight and in RBI with 34. He also scored 19 runs to help lead the Rams and Coach Jim Bosley to another area championship, the WMIL title, and a 12-5 overall record.

Over the past two seasons, Uphold recorded an ERA of 1.71 and a personal record of 13-5, while batting .392. The Rams won 33 of 40 games over the past two years with Uphold in the line-up.

Outfielder Herman Arndt, who also graduated this spring, finished his senior season with a .411 batting average with 30 hits in 73 at-bats. He finished fifth in the area in runs scored with 27, hit seven doubles and three homers, stole nine bases, and had 15 RBI for Coach Phil Carr and Husky fans.

Arndt was a key figure in the Huskies' big playoff upset of Southern.

DESPITE A THIRD-PLACE FINISH in the regular season of the Oakland Area Girls' Fast-Pitch Softball League, this team sponsored by Stewart's Funeral Home won the league title by upsetting league-leading Frostburg Pride, 6-5, in the title game played Saturday in Frostburg. In the front row, from left, are: Rachel Paugh, Jessica Hinebaugh, Cambria Baylor, Ashley Liller, and Megan Burner. Standing, same order, are: Beth Sauder, Jennifer Teagarden, Amanda Palmer, Jennifer Bosley, and Nicole Kitzmiller. Not present for the photo were Katie Richter and Audrey Shipe. See story for details.

Stewart's Girls' Softball Team Wins Tourney

A team sponsored by Stewart's Funeral Home, Oakland, captured the championship of the Oakland Area Girls' Fast-Pitch Softball League (ages 15 and under) by edging Frostburg Pride in the title game, 6-5, played Saturday evening in Frostburg.

Stewart's finished the regular season in third place with an 8-7 mark, while Frostburg Pride was the regular season winner with an 11-4 mark. The Friendsville Indians finished second in the standings (10-6), while Oakland Sylvan Manufacturing was fourth (7-9) and Oakland 84-Lumber was fifth (3-13).

Stewart's advanced to the title game by nipping Friendsville in the semi-finals, 5-4, on Friday. Jennifer Bosley was the winning pitcher, as she struck out a dozen batters, walked four, and yielded five singles, three of which were recorded by Friendsville's Heidi Frazee.

Nicole Kitzmiller had two singles in Stewart's seven-hit effort, as Heather Nugent took the loss. Nugent walked five and struck out six.

Bosley was also the winning pitcher in Saturday's championship game, as she fanned 15 batters, walked only two, and gave up seven hits.

With the score knotted at 5-5 going into the top of the seventh, Kitzmiller smacked a two-strike pitch down the right field line for a lead-off triple. Jennifer Teagarden followed with a grounder past the third baseman to bring Kitzmiller home with the winning run.

Frostburg threatened in the bottom of the seventh, as Jenny Murray led off by drawing a walk on four straight pitches. Corinthia Kendall, who had homered that morning in a 15-5 win over 84-Lumber, then hit a pop-up to shallow center field where shortstop Ashley Liller caught the ball while colliding with center fielder Megan Burner. Murray stole second and third, but was left stranded as Bosley struck out the next two Frostburg batters to end the game.

Kendall, who led her team's offense with a double and two singles, was the losing pitcher. She struck out 10, walked seven, and allowed eight hits, including a triple and two singles by Kitzmiller and two singles by Liller.

Coaches for Stewart's were Nicole Bosley, Larry Friend, and Dave Bosley.

Heslop Named To All-Area Softball Team

Kristen Heslop, a senior infielder for the Northern High School girls' softball team this past spring, was named to the All-Area team this past week by vote of area coaches.

Other Garrett County players who earned second-team All-Area honors were Heslop's teammates Brooke Brenneman and Mindy McCarty, and Southern High School's Jennifer Teagarden.

Heslop finished her final year in a Husky uniform by hitting at a sizzling .510 pace. She recorded 25 hits in 49 at-bats, as she led the area in triples with seven and shared the lead in runs scored with 40. She also rapped 10 doubles, stole 30 bases, and finished the 1997 season with 14 RBI.

Public Meetings On Waterfowl Seasons Slated

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary John R. Griffin has announced that public information meetings have been scheduled to review the department's 1997-98 waterfowl hunting proposals. DNR's Wildlife and Heritage Division will hold three public meetings across the state in late August to provide an opportunity for interested people to review and comment on DNR's initial proposals.

"With good breeding habitat conditions in the Northeast states and Canada, hunters should see similar or increased flights of ducks to Maryland this fall," Secretary Griffin said. "The greater snow goose population continues to expand, and following several years of poor reproduction, gosling production improved for migrant Atlantic Canada geese."

The department has not yet received the federal guidelines for waterfowl hunting regulations will be available following the Atlantic Waterfowl Council meeting from July 28-Aug. 1, and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service Regulations Committee meeting on Aug. 5-6. On Aug. 8, or shortly thereafter, the department will publish its 1997-98 waterfowl hunting season proposals for public review and comment.

The meeting nearest Garrett County is set for Tuesday, Aug. 19, at Frederick High School in Frederick, beginning at 7 p.m.

Griffin said that comments received, either at the public information meetings or in writing, play an important role in the Wildlife and Heritage Division's determination of hunting seasons, bag limits, and regulations. Written comments concerning the 1997-98 waterfowl seasons and bag limits may be sent to Joshua L. Sandt, Director, Wildlife and Heritage Division, 580 Taylor Ave., Annapolis, MD 21401, and must be received by Sept. 4.

ROCK CLIMBING and whitewater paddling are just two of the adventure sports learned by Elyzabeth Lynch during her studies in the adventuresports degree program at Garrett Community College and Frostburg State University.

Lynch, the former Elyzabeth Savage, will become the first female graduate of the program next month at FSU. See story.

Elyzabeth Savage Lynch First Female Grad In Adventure Sports

Elyzabeth Savage Lynch, a native of Garrett County, will be the first female graduate of Frostburg State University's Adventure Sports Program. She will complete her studies in August.

Lynch, a former Deep Creek Lake resident and a graduate of Southern High School, will graduate with a 3.2 grade point average from a program that combines challenging outdoor sports with recreation management. She was the first student to enroll in the program and will be its third graduate.

To complete the degree, Lynch mastered a variety of skills, including white-water kayaking, rock climbing, mountain biking, white-water canoeing, ropes courses, and scuba diving. She also worked to develop various educational programs and business plans relating to the outdoor field.

Her minor course of study was earth sciences, which involved an environmental curriculum.

While a student, Lynch completed several internships, including teaching rock climbing to children and adults at Earth Treks in Columbia, as well as developing environmental field trip programs for students at The Key School in Annapolis. At Frostburg State, she participated in many extra-curricular activities. She coached and played for the university's women's rugby team, was a member of the Geography Club, served as a biology tutor, assisted teaching an outdoor adventure class, and was on the dean's list. She also volunteered for and participated in the first and second Intercollegiate Adventure Sports Triathlons, placing second in her division.

Lynch now works in the outdoor education field with The Key School and as a rock climbing instructor. She currently lives along the bay in Chesapeake Beach with her husband John and her son, Colin Preston Lynch. She is the daughter of Drs. William and Ruta Savage, Deep Creek Lake.

Cherry Glade, Mt. View Sweep In Men's League

Mt. View won a pair of doubleheaders and Cherry Glade won one this past week in Garrett County Area Men's Softball League action.

Mt. View swept a pair from Maranatha on July 22, 22-11 and 20-4, with Aaron Tice earning the win in game one and Gerald Tice pitching for the win in game two. Dave Tice hit a home run for the winners, while Paul Edwards rapped two for Maranatha and teammates Gary Hay, Eric Daniels, and Dale Meese each hit one.

Mt. View recorded another pair of wins Monday evening, 19-4 and 11-7, with league-leading Cherry Glade being the victim this time. Gerald and Aaron Tice were again the winning pitchers. Meryl Beachy hit a home run for Mt. View, and Kevin Miller and Terry Beal each recorded one for Cherry Glade.

Cherry Glade came into the twinbill with Mt. View after taking a pair from Cornerstone last Friday, 6-3 and 32-21, with Beryl Moser getting the win on the mound in both contests. Kevin Miller hit three homers for Cherry Glade, and adding one each were teammates Terry Beal, Melvin Schrock, Danny Tice, and Moser.

Cherry Glade and Glade Mennonite are now tied for the lead in the league with 15-7 records, followed by Deer Park, 12-6; Mt. View, 14-10; St. Mark's, 10-8; Cornerstone, 11-11; Maranatha, 11-13; Crellin, 6-14; and Nazarene, 4-18.

household.

The grant funding available is to assist people in paying for the connecting fee, Keaton said. "We tried to get the hook-up fee included, but that wasn't approved," he added.

The income limits for receiving assistance range from $24,150 for a one-member household to $42,750 for households of seven.

Wendell Beitzel of the Garrett County Sanitary District explained that over five years ago the Deer Park council had requested the help of the county in getting sewer service. It was the Sanitary District that accessed the funding.

Included in the public funding is the cost of installation of the main sewer line, the septic tank on each property, and the pipe from the main line to that tank, Beitzel said.

The project was started over a year ago with a projected conclusion in about two months, he remarked.

Anyone wishing more information on the Sewer Connection Assistance program may contact Wendell Keaton at 301-334-4653.

Sailboat Racing

THE SANDY DOUGLASS MEMORIAL INVITATIONAL FLYING SCOT REGATTA
by Dan Muss

An invitational regatta is one in which sailboat racers in the specified class are invited to attend from outside the host organization. This particular regatta is our largest event and is also the Maryland State Championship Regatta. We had visiting boats from all over the Northeastern U.S. and one boat, skippered alternately by John and Marie Coolidge, came from Chattanooga, Tenn. Our visiting sailors stay, for the most part, with members of the yacht club and take their meals at the club.

The first race went off on Saturday at 11 a.m. in light air, about 3-5 knots from the northwest. The race was followed by lunch at the Turkey Neck Yacht Club. The second and third races were sailed back-to-back after lunch.

Just before the start of the third race, the fleet was milling around waiting for their start. I thought I heard a dog bark very close by. I looked around and, sure enough, there was a dog in the bow of a visiting Flying Scot. I hailed them and asked jokingly if he was asking for right-of-way. The couple in the boat with the dog laughed and said that it wasn't their dog that had barked; the bark had come from on shore.

On Sunday the winds were stronger, 5-10 knots from the west, and I sailed one of the worst races I can remember. On the first windward leg, I was on port tack headed for the Thousand Acres shore just east of the Deerhaven Yacht Club. A starboard tack boat with right-of-way was coming at me. I had to tack quickly onto starboard or bear off and go behind him. I was worried about a shoal off Thousand Acres so I decided to tack. I should have noticed another port tack just behind and to windward of me. If I had noticed him I could have hailed him, asking for sea room because of the shoal, and then tacked. He, then, would have tacked, too. But I didn't see him and, as I tacked, he was forced to do an emergency tack and my boat tapped his. I had fouled him, so I then did two complete turns as a penalty and continued the race--pretty far back.

On the second downwind leg, I was approaching the leeward mark with my spinnaker up and weaving through the rest of the Flying Scot A Fleet that had already rounded and were beating up to the finish line. Since I was again on the port tack and sailing down wind, I had to keep clear of everybody. At one point I became distracted by a problem my crew was having with the spinnaker take-down and I failed to see this close-hauled boat coming at me. At the last moment he bore off and I headed up, and we avoided a major collision but, again, I had fouled him. So, again, I did two more penalty turns.

The fifth race went better and I realized that, in spite of my difficulties, I had had a wonderful time in the thick of the action.

At the brief awards ceremony, Jack Stewart, upon receiving a fifth-place trophy, said that ever since his wife Martha had become eligible for Medicare last year they had "trophied" every regatta they've sailed in. This remark brought a warm round of applause from the gathering.

Meredith Dodd, 11 years old, and a regular at the Deep Creek Sailing School, came in second in the Flying Scot B Fleet against stiff competition with her aunt, Jennifer Meredith, as her crew. And Jessica Potts, 16 years old, a graduate of the Sailing School and now in her second year as a junior instructor in the school, came in first in two Laser races this past weekend.

The Lasers did not have a regatta this past weekend; they just sailed the five races as part of their regular July-August Series. The Laser Invitational Regatta and the Women's Regatta will take place the weekend of August 16 and 17.

YOU ARE NOT JUST A NUMBER!

Social security, employers identification, credit card, telephone, license plate and even prescriptions. The list appears to be endless. These days a name doesn't seem to mean anything. But there is one exception we are pleased to say, and that is in our family pharmacy.

We feel that if customers are going to rely on us for their vitally important prescription medicines and health-aids, then they deserve to have us make the effort to know them by name. We promise to try, but if we forget, please help by reminding us.

There are few constants in our world. One day life appears rosy. The next day our "rose-colored glasses" may lie broken into bits.

Be assured that there is one all important constant...God's plenteous mercy. This Sabbath may we thank God for this precious gift.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

GROW UP!
August 3, 1997

Background Scripture:
Hebrews 5:11 through 6:12
Devotional Reading:
Hebrews 6:13-20

Our text for this week is one example of where we could easily "miss the forest for the trees."

It can be a very confusing and frustrating passage. We're not certain the writer means to say what it sometimes seems he is saying. For example, in Hebrews 6: 1,2 he seems to imply that the "first principles" of Christianity are "repentance from dead works and of faith toward God, with instruction about ablutions, the laying on of hands, the resurrection of the dead, and eternal judgment." Note that he does not mention the Lord's Supper, the Holy Spirit or the atoning sacrifice of Christ—all of which we would include as part of the "first principles." So what does he mean here?

Another troubling passage here is his assertion that those who commit apostasy—a rejection of God or the Church—cannot possibly be restored through repentance. Is this an "impossibility" because God will not accept the apostate's repentance or because the apostate's heart has been hardened to the point that repentance is impossible?.

These are just two of the problems that occur in this brief selection from Hebrews and the problem is that, if we become bogged down in these perplexing questions, we may very well miss what is of primary value for us as Christians today. Regardless how we solve the problems noted above or interpret what Hebrews is saying, there seems to be little doubt that he is telling us here to 'Grow up!'

And that is a very relevant and timely message for us today!

WHERE YOU GOT IN

The writer of Hebrews says his readers have "become dull of hearing" (5:11) and later warns them against becoming "sluggish" (6:12). He is concerned, not because they have become blatantly immoral or heretical, but because they have simply become inattentive. They are in danger of God's judgment because of the complacency and indifference that characterizes their relationship with God in Christ.

I'm afraid that diagnosis fits all too many of us. We're like the little boy who fell out of bed one night with a loud crash. To his anxious parents he explained: "I guess I fell asleep too close to where I got in." Many of us have fallen asleep too close to where we entered life in Christ!

Do you remember when you first started school? How much more do you know now? 100%? 200%? 500%? Or think back to when you began to learn to play tennis or golf. How much have you grown in your understanding of the sport and your skill?

Now, think of the level at which you became a Christian. Have you grown or matured in your discipleship? Is your faith stronger or the same? Is your capacity for love greater or is it still pretty much at the same level? Has there been growth since you began following Christ? Enough?

NOT 'HOW LONG?: BUT 'HOW MUCH?'

A certain teacher at a private boys' school was passed over for promotion when a vacancy occurred in his department. "How could you ignore my 20 years of experience here" he demanded of the headmaster. "Actually," the headmaster replied, "you haven't had 20 years of experience—just the same year of experience twenty times over." That's also true of us. The question is not how many years have we been following Christ but how much have we grown in that experience?

I hope this doesn't come as a shock to you but we are not simply called to become Christians and to join the Church! What we are called to do is continue to grow to Christian maturity. I may not be able to spell out just exactly where "Christian maturity" is for you, but I do know that it is considerably beyond where a lot of us find ourselves.

Is your Christian walk and talk that of a mature follower of Jesus or are you sull a babe in Christ? And If you answer is the latter. then the next question you need to ask yourself is "Why?"

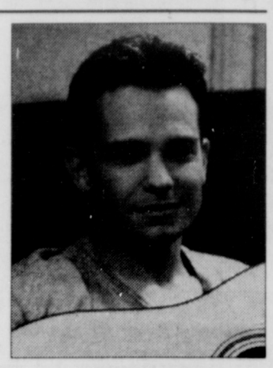
COVER STORY

USA courts morning viewers with teen comedy

By Suzanne Gill
©TVData Features Syndicate



Josh Holland

The longtime home of Murder, She Wrote and Wings reruns is trying something new in the morning.

Beginning Monday, Aug. 4, the USA Network is targeting viewers with ages in the low double digits with a new weekday "teen block." The live-action hour consists of a new high-school comedy, USA High, paired with episodes of Saved by the Bell: The New Class that originally aired on NBC.

"We felt if we could provide fresh, original shows combined with kind of a trademark show," USA President Rod Perth says, "we would have a very solid block that has the potential to perform (in the ratings)

"And USA High is really a smart show directed right at that 10-year-old to younger-teen audience."

High is the brainchild of executive producer Peter Engel, creator of Bell, Hang Time and California Dreams for NBC's Saturday morning lineup.

"I always wanted to do a series set at the American School in Paris," Engel says. "The idea was to have a bunch of kids living away from home during senior year because their parents are living in Europe or traveling with unusual jobs."

Last November, Engel closed the deal with USA. Since then, advance sales of advertising have gone "through the roof," Perth says. "It's been unbelievably successful with advertisers that we've never been able to attract to the network before, (such as) soft drink companies and some candy companies."

All this euphoria is based on the belief that the combination of Bell and High will attract millions of adolescents to the tube. When they get there, they'll find a drop-dead gorgeous cast and plenty of sexual innuendo. By a cozy chance, the main characters occupy a coed suite of rooms guaranteed to test even the most platonic of friendships.

Josh Holland stars as ringleader Jackson Green, a blond Luke Perry. Elena Lyons plays weight-conscious Lauren Fontaine. Marquita Terry portrays jargon-spouting, high-fiving Winnie Barnes, the token minority character.

Thomas Magiar plays pumped-up German transfer student Christian Mueller, whose favorite English phrase is "group hug." Blond Kristen Miller plays Ashley Elliott, daughter of the headmaster (Nicholas Guest); her favorite English phrase is "Sorry, Daddy!" And James Madio has the role of class clown Bobby Lazzarini. Bobby worships teacher Gabrielle Dupre (Angela Visser), who in turn has eyes for the headmaster.

Unlike Engel's NBC hits, High escapes the FCC rule requiring educational or pro-social content. "The idea is to start with the message on our (NBC) Saturday morning shows," Engel says. "And on USA High, which just is fun, we don't have the same constraints."

Engel exercises his creative freedom with pubescent glee, giving the actors skintight costumes and lines such as "I have a Ferrari to start – Giuseppi Ferrari." If anything is being modeled here, it's the clothes, not the roles.

The best that can be said for USA High is that for juvenile entertainment, it's a great advertising vehicle.

Bad boy Born joins All My Children

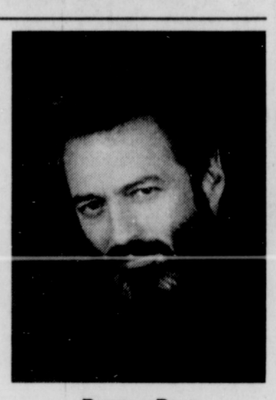
By Candace Havens
©TVData Features Syndicate



Roscoe Born

Roscoe Born, last seen rocking viewers' worlds in The City, has landed himself a new role. The man who has made a career out of playing bad boys joins the cast of All My Children.

The affable and charming actor's new role is Laura's (Lauren Roman) father. And he definitely is a man with an agenda – one that is going to cause serious trouble.

But getting into trouble is nothing new for Born's characters. As Mitch Laurence on One Life to Live, he messed with Tina's mind and wreaked havoc all over Llanview.

During his stay in Santa Barbara, he played devilish twin Quinn Armitage. Rounding out the list of scoundrels he has portrayed are mobster Joe Novak on Ryan's Hope and rock star Nick Rivers on The City.

Also joining the AMC cast is Emmy winner Helen Gallagher. The actress is best known for her role as Maeve Ryan on Ryan's Hope.

She will play the recurring character Dr. M. Maude Boylan, a renowned sex therapist and best-selling author.

In other news: Frank Dicopoulos (Frank Cooper, Guiding Light) and his wife, Teja Anderson, welcomed a new addition to their family on June 24.

Olivia Anderson Dicopoulos weighed in at 8 pounds, 4 ounces. Olivia's older brother is Jaden.

Dear Candace: I've watched The Young and the Restless for years, and it is the sorriest it has ever been.

I'm so sick of Victor and Nikki (Eric Braeden, Melody Thomas Scott) always trying to get back together while they are with other people. They need to just get a life.

The plot where Grace (Jennifer Gareis) finds Sharon's (Sharon Case) daughter and then doesn't tell Sharon is ridiculous.

And Victoria and Cole (Sarah Aldrich, J. Eddie Peck) are so boring as a couple.

I'd like to know how the ratings system works for television. I have a hard time believing that something as stupid as Y&R has been No. 1 for so many years. –Nina Jacobs, New Castle, Ind.

Dear Reader: Y&R fans are loyal and stick with it through the good and bad. I can just imagine how you feel about Nick (Joshua Morrow), Sharon's husband, sleeping with Grace.

Tom Bosley

Q: I remember a show I used to watch when I was a kid called Wait Till Your Father Gets Home, but I can't remember exactly what it was about. Can you help? –J. Arnold via e-mail.

A: This animated series, an attempt to ride the All in the Family gravy train, ran only in syndication from 1972-74. Tom Bosley provided the voice of archconservative Harry Boyle, who was constantly clashing with his hippie son, Chet, and his free-spirited daughter, Alice, while wife Irma tried to keep the peace.

Q: When did Gilligan's Island premiere and when did it end? –Angie U. in New York.

A: The castaways came to their CBS island on Sept. 26, 1964. The show sailed off the air as a weekly series on Sept. 4, 1967.

Q: My friend says that Captain Kangaroo is Ted Nugent's dad. I say he isn't. Who is right? Tammy Wrase, Appleton, Wis.

A: You are.

Q: In your column recently you stated that James MacArthur created the role of Danny in Hawaii Five-O. I recently saw the pilot and another actor was playing the role. –Thomas Garner, Wadsworth, Ohio.

A: Thanks for pointing out a detail that I missed. MacArthur did play Danny from the beginning of the weekly series, but the original movie pilot featured an actor named Tim O'Kelley in the role.

Q: Are George Clooney (ER) and Nick Clooney of American Movie Classics related?

How about John Cusack (Con Air) and Ann Cusack (The Jeff Foxworthy Show)?

–Ramona Gerard, Reedsport, Ore.

A: Yes on both counts. Nick Clooney is George's father. And John Cusack gave roles in his hit comedy Grosse Pointe Blank to all three of his acting siblings, Ann, Joan and Bill.

Q: What other movies and shows did Richard Long star in besides The Big Valley and Nanny and the Professor? Was he married when he died? –M.L.P., Jackson, Mich.

A: In addition to the two series you mentioned, Long costarred with Julie Harris in a short-lived sitcom called Thicker Than Water and starred as Rex Randolph on two different but related dramas: Bourbon Street Beat and 77 Sunset Strip.

I can't list all 20 of his (mostly minor) movie roles, but it's worth noting that he played Tom Kettle in The Egg and I and three Ma and Pa Kettle sequels.

Long was married to actress Mara Corday, his second wife, at the time of his death in 1974.

Glimpse of The Past . . .

On Dean's List

Biology major Michael David Eyer, Oakland, has been named to the spring semester dean's list at Stetson University, Deland, Fla. The dean's list includes undergraduates with a 3.5 grade point average based on 12 hours of work attempted and no grade below B.

Eyer is the son of David and Irene Eyer, Oakland, and a graduate of Ligonier Valley High School, Ligonier, Pa.

Florida's premiere private university, Stetson ranks among the south's top four regional universities in U.S. News and World Report's 1997 special edition, "America's Best Colleges." A comprehensive university committed to undergraduate teaching, Stetson also emphasizes faculty-student research and has distinctive graduate programs in law, business, and education that offer students many opportunities beyond graduation.

HBC Graduate Joins TDEC

Hagerstown Business College recently announced that BeLinda Ann George, an April graduate with an associate degree in the legal assistant program, has joined TDEC in Oakland.

She has been employed with that company as a data entry operator.

A 1995 graduate of Union High School in Mt. Storm, W.Va., she is the daughter of Ronald and Gerda George of Oakland.

4-H Club News

SNOWY CREEK
Shelby Glover
Reporter

The Snowy Creek 4-H Club went to the Youghiogheny overlook on Saturday, July 12, from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. to serve refreshments to travelers.

On Saturday evening the club went to a hayfield and launched the rockets that the club built. The launching was a success. Afterward they held their meeting.

Ten members attended the meeting. They voted to have their float in the Friendsville Days parade as well as in the Garrett County Fair parade.

After the meeting they attended a campfire at the home of Nancy Guard. The topic for the evening was campfire safety. A few of the members showed some skits the had learned at 4-H camp. The group sang songs and roasted hot dogs and marshmallows.

Several club members will be showing lambs and hogs at the Garrett County Fair during the week of Aug. 10-16.

A meeting of the Shepherds 4-H Club was held on the evening of July 14 at the residence of Mark and Beverly Sines. Susan Mayfield called the meeting to order, where the main topic of discussion was the upcoming group trip, with the club selecting Kennywood as this year's destination.

Demonstrations were then given by Jenna Rush, whose presentation was on hedgehogs; Travis Sines, who displayed his hat rack; Ben Friend, displaying his bird feeder; Bridget Miller, displaying her artwork; and Jennifer Friend, displaying her cross-stitching. Refreshments followed the meeting's adjournment.

Shepherds 4-H club members are reminded that there will not be an August meeting. The September meeting will be held at Linda Rush's house, and participants are asked to bring a covered dish.

McHenry Child Wins Honors In State Pageant

Amber Marie Branthoover, daughter of Eric and Brenda Branthoover, McHenry, was honored as a first runner-up during her recent participation in the Miss Maryland American Princess Pageant at the BWI Marriott Hotel in Baltimore.

Amber's parents reported that she has become the new Miss Maryland State first runner-up in the photogenic competition. She received a plaque and also has the opportunity to compete on the national level in a competition in Orlando, Fla., during Thanksgiving week.

Amber also received a trophy for competing in the overall pageant.

During the three-day competition, in which Amber represented Garrett County, she competed in the talent competition in which she sang "I'll Just Be Myself" by Lynn Freeman Olson.

Amber's parents stated that she now possesses a positive attitude and self-confidence, and they credit the pageant administrators for helping her achieve this.

Eric and Brenda Branthoover have expressed their gratitude to those who sponsored and supported Amber.

SPRINGS MUSEUM REOPENS -- The Springs Historical Society announces the reopening of the Springs Museum in its 40th anniversary year. Interior renovations have been completed, showing a new face for the many displays in two buildings. First settled by the white man between 1750 and 1775, Springs is one of the oldest communities in the area and boasts a rich treasure-store of history, folklore, and tradition. The strenuous labors of the early housewife are portrayed in silent eloquence by the rye-straw baskets, earthen crocks, and heavy iron griddles located in the museum kitchen, pictured above. The spinning and weaving room portrays the stories of flax and wool in everyday life. The scullery displays a sausage grinder, dated 1755, and a sausage-stuffer from the ancestral home of Nancy Hanks, mother of Abraham Lincoln. In addition are the early church display, old school room, original post offices, early country store, children's toy display, and early books. The Springs Museum is located off Springs Road in Springs, Pa., and is open Wednesday through Friday, 1 to 5 p.m., and Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The Farmer's Market is adjacent to the museum. For further information, persons may call 814-662-2625 or 814-662-4159.

Overton Attends WOW Sales School

Charles Overton, Friendsville, a field representative for Woodmen of the World/Omaha Woodmen Life Insurance Society, recently returned from an intermediate sales school held at the society's home office in Omaha, Neb. The school emphasized total needs selling and fraternalism.

Woodmen of the World, founded in 1890, is one of the largest fraternal benefit societies in the United States and offers insurance protection with fraternal benefits.

The society's 850,000 members, who hold more than one million certificates, belong to 3,000 lodges throughout the United States. Woodmen lodges across the country conduct fraternal projects of benefit to people and their communities. These projects range from the presentation of U.S. flags to the donation of equipment to fire departments, rescue squads and hospitals, and assistance for senior citizens, the physically impaired, and orphans.

Clarification To District Court News Noted

In last week's issue of The Republican, the column on recent district court proceedings misstated the charges on which Billy Joel Lloyd, 19, Oakland, had been sentenced after completion of a pre-sentencing investigation which had followed his May conviction.

To clarify, Lloyd had pleaded guilty to a charge of "unauthorized use" for he "did without consent take and carry away a motor vehicle with the intent to temporarily deprive" (the victim) "of the use and possession of said property," as well as entering a guilty plea to a second charge of malicious destruction of property.

Lloyd received a two-year sentence, all but three months of which were suspended, was placed on two years supervised probation, and was ordered to pay $6,784 in restitution for damage to the truck in question.

An additional charge of unlawful taking of a motor vehicle was not prosecuted by the state's attorneys office.

Swallow Falls Site Of Recent Bowman Reunion

The Samuel and Effie (Enlow) Bowman family reunion was held last month, with 75 family members spanning four generations gathered together from 17 states. The state of Ohio produced the most attendees with 24, while Maryland descendants numbered 15. Those traveling the farthest came across the country from Santa Cruz, Calif.

Extended family members from Verner Bowman's side of the family were also represented through Grace King and Skeeter Bowman of Deep Creek. Some of the Enlow descendants also attended.

The entire family wanted to return to its roots, thus descending upon the Oakland area where Sam and Effie Bowman once toiled on the land. Prior to the formal reunion gathering, many family members visited the old homestead close to Crellin and the grave sites of Sam and Effie Bowman.

The reunion was held at Swallow Falls State Park.

St. Mark's To Host Ice Cream Social Sunday

Homemade ice cream, plus pies and cakes from the kitchens of members of St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland, will be featured at the church's annual Ice Cream Social, slated for Sunday, Aug. 10, from 2 to 4:30 p.m. Lemonade and coffee will also be available at the church, which is located at the intersection of Second and Center streets.

The public is invited to attend this free event, which will begin in the sanctuary with a half-hour concert of gospel singing by the Paul Petersheim family. Following the concert, the festivities will move outdoors, weather permitting.

Twenty-one members of St. Mark's who have passed their 80th birthdays will be honored during the social. Their families and friends are particularly invited to attend for this purpose. Those to be honored include: Elsie Sincell, Mary Helbig, Carrie Kolbfleisch, Carrie Shaffer, Clema Mattingly, Jessie Hinebaugh, Alice Heise, Polly Hanst, Nellie Swartzentruber, Wilma Calhoun, Myrtle Durben, David and Grace Marple, Hallie Leighton, Mildred Hoffman, Lenora Schrock, Catherine Hoye, Robert Houser, Gwen Sanders, Glenn Windell, and Virginia Sanders.

Bartlett Votes To Protect ARC

Congressman Roscoe G. Bartlett (Md.-6) voted against an amendment that would have eliminated $90 million from the budget of the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC). The final passage of the bill maintained the $160 million current level of funding for the ARC.

"I am always pleased to support the ARC, an agency that has proven time and time again to be a real friend to Western Maryland," Bartlett said. "When the budget is tight, maintaining current levels of funding is a victory. The margin of this vote clearly reflects Congress's faith in this agency's effectiveness."

The amendment was offered to the Energy and Water Appropriation Bill last Friday by Congressman Scott Klug (Wisc.) and was defeated 328 to 97.

Named to Committee

Newt Gingrich, speaker of the house, recently named Bartlett as a conferee to the house/senate conference committee on HR1119, the Defense Authorization Bill. This bill sets the defense spending for fiscal year 1998.

"I am pleased to serve on the conference committee," the congressman stated. "This will enable me to have a greater voice in setting our national defense priorities."

KULL THE CONQUEROR: You know him best from television as Hercules. Here, Kevin Sorbo follows in the footsteps of Arnold Schwarzenegger (in the "Conan" movies) to portray a comic-book swashbuckler.

In his motion picture debut, Sorbo stars in this epic fantasy adventure based on the Robert E. Howard pulp fiction hero of the '30s, which later inspired the popular Marvel Comics character of the '70s. Sorbo is the dynamic warrior who, through a twist of fate, rises from the ranks of a soldier-slave to become a king, only to be overthrown by corrupt nobility. He must then embark on a perilous journey in a world where magic is the most powerful weapon of all. His quest: find the legendary weapon that will enable him to reclaim his crown, secure the freedom of his people and reunite him with the woman he loves.

The film was produced by Raffaella de Laurentiis, who earlier helped launch Arnold Schwarzenegger's motion picture career as Conan (as mentioned above).

Co-starring with Sorbo are Tia Carrere ("True Lies," "Wayne's World," "High School High"), Thomas Ian Griffith ("Excessive Force"), Karina Lombard ("Legends of the Fall"), Litefoot ("The Indian in the Cupboard"), Harvey Fierstein ("Independence Day") and Roy Brocksmith ("Total Recall").

I have to admit that I enjoyed this movie much more than the aforementioned "Conan" offerings. For one thing, Sorbo is at ease in front of the camera. He's a natural actor, unlike Schwarzenegger, who was so stiff and lifeless in his first few flicks. Also, there's something here for everyone: plenty of action scenes for the men and lots of romance and adventure for the women. In fact, judging from the oohs and aahs of the women in attendance, I'd say Sorbo has achieved sex-symbol status!

This is one of summer's more fun releases. Don't miss it.

Home Tips

FANCY BUTTER — For butter molds for a party, I use cookie cutters, such as, a heart for Valentine's Day; a rabbit for Easter; an angel for Christmas; a pumpkin for Halloween; a turkey for Thanksgiving.

I spray the cookie cutter first with nonstick cooking spray and then put it on a clean chopping board and fill it with butter. Then I carefully push it through onto the butter dish.

My friends think I am so clever, but it really is easy and fun. Grace I., Kent, Wash.

PILLOW TALK — If you like to take your own pillows along when you travel, purchase a set of brightly colored pillowcases just for this purpose, or use a set of old, odd ones.

You are less likely to leave your pillows behind if they don't blend in with the motel sheets, and even if you do, you haven't ruined a sheet set. (A pillow is easier and cheaper to replace than your favorite set of sheets.) Dominique M., New Braunfels, Texas

EASY PATCH — If you wallpaper a room, make sure you save scraps just in case they are needed for repairs.

A patch can be made by tearing the edges, rather than cutting it. If there is any design, match it and tear it the approximate shape and size.

You can see the difference with the cut edges compared to torn. The torn patch leaves all the edges thinner and blends in much better than a thicker cut with scissors. Mike T., Bakersfield, Calif.

NUMBER PLEASE — When I get a coupon flyer in the mail or newspaper for a business or restaurant that I may need to call, I write the phone number of the business on each coupon.

Often the number is printed only on the flyer, but this way if the coupons are separated, I still have the phone number handy. Lynn G., Oconomowoc, Wis.

Q. I have a "Bird in a Gilded Cage" with a mechanical bird that moves its head, tail and beak while it "sings." The bottom of the cage is stamped "Made in France." What's it worth?

A. We've seen reproductions of 18th century French music boxes with a bird in a gilded cage. The reproductions sell for $1,650. Originals are worth much more.

TIP: Snow domes, those liquid-filled paperweights, should not be stored in the dark, because exposure to light is necessary to keep the liquid clear. Do not store them in direct sunlight, however, because they can magnify the sun's rays and start a fire.

Q. In my younger days, I used to wear beaded collars over my sweater. I was going to give them to my daughter. Before I let her play dress-up with them, are they valuable?

A. Anything from the 1950s is growing in value. The Japanese-made beaded collars are selling for $5 to $20, depending on the condition and the intricacy of design. Collars with fur and rhinestones among the "pearls" are especially popular.

Don't let your daughter play with them. When she grows up, she might want to wear them with her sweater.

Maryland Forward Program Provides Work Experience

A number of young people in Garrett County are employed this summer under The Maryland Forward Summer Youth Program. This project has been developed by the Western Maryland Consortium, The Training Place, and is funded through Maryland's Tomorrow program.

Through this initiative, which is under the direction of M. Sue Shockey, The Western Maryland Consortium supervisor, students in the county are offered an opportunity for employment with a difference. That difference is mentoring and one-on-one supervision on the job. This training is geared to help young people learn the skills and gain the experience that will enable them to enter the workplace.

As opposed to other types of youth employment programs, Maryland Forward places young people, ages 14-21, with employers in the private sector. The businesses vary in size, sales volume, number of employees, and types of services and products. Positions held by the summer workers include fast food clerk, car wash attendant, automobile mechanic, sales clerk, activities program worker, and custodian.

Upon completion of the program, participants may be considered for future employment. Several of the employers in the program have expressed interest in possibly keeping youth workers as part of their permanent staff, according to Robin Witt, liaison for The Training Place. She also explained that Harry L. Biggs of the Garrett County Board of Education, who is serving as program director, not only coordinates the worksite program, but also provides remedial help in math, citizenship, and writing skills. He visits each site and counsels each student-worker, she said.

The participants working in the program this summer are Beverly Yommer, Jeremy Moyer, Richlana Reedy, Cassie Nice, Scot Schroyer, Heather Boyce, Rebecca King, Joey Brown, Jessica Bittinger, and Matthew Waligorski.

The businesses and supervisors working in partnership with this program include: Goodwill Mennonite Home, Grantsville, Idella Bender; Garrett Container Systems, Accident, Mark Tonkovich; and Clean & Shine Car Wash, Bel Air, Patrick Browning.

Participating businesses and supervisors in Oakland are: Li'l Caesar's, Mike Sloan; Team One, Inc., Greg Shockey and John Burns; Get-N-Go, Traci Royce; Green Acres, Dave Taylor; Garrett's Eden, Angela Bosley and Dan Ledden; and Naylor's True Value Hardware, Don Mason.

Maryland's Tomorrow program focuses on giving support and assistance to students who can benefit from extra motivation, and assisting those students in meeting educational and graduation objectives.

FFA/4-H Youth Are Calling All Alumni Showmen

Attention all FFA and 4-H alumni showmen! FFA and 4-H youth are asking all alumni to attend the third annual Alumni Livestock Fitting & Showing Classes to be held Friday, August 15, beginning at 8:00 p.m. at the Garrett County Fair. There will be classes for beef, veal, sheep, dairy and dairy goats.

New this year will be classes for non-alumni parents. Those parents who have always been the helpers can now have their chance to be the showmen.

This is a night of laughs and always a surprise or two. Parents and alumni are urged to find their showmanship clothes and brush up on their "techniques."

Also needed are candidates for "Alumni King or Queen." Names may be submitted to the Extension Office, or to Sharon Rodeheaver, 301-387-6313, or Scott Harvey, 301-334-2239. Entries may be submitted to any of the above. Senior 4-H and FFA members are also needed to volunteer to judge each division.

New Agriculture Policy Intensifies Research Needs

Farmers and ranchers need a strong agricultural research program if they are to compete effectively in the global marketplace, Farm Bureau told a House Agriculture subcommittee last week.

"There are many reasons to be excited about the future of production agriculture," Maryland Farm Bureau President C. William Knill told the panel, which is focusing on reauthorization of the 1996 farm bill's research title. "But we will not realize that bright future . . . if we do not have the benefit of a strong food and agricultural research, education and Extension program."

Knill, who serves on the American Farm Bureau Federation board of directors, said recent changes in agricultural policy--both domestic and global--will increase the need for greater output from the research system.

"It is paramount that all federal research, Extension and education funds be administered in a system that provides greater accountability and is relevant to the problems facing agriculture," he said.

Knill, a Maryland beef producer, noted that the agricultural industry needs to be actively involved throughout the priority setting, budgeting, implementation and review stages of reauthorization. He stressed the need for more producer and industry representation on the National Agricultural Research, Extension, Education and Economics Advisory Board.

Knill suggested that the Fund for Rural America, established in the farm bill, be used for a "limited number of priorities that address complex problems" requiring significant investment, cooperation and collaboration between public, private, government and academic sectors.

Farm Bureau, Knill said, recommends extending the fund's annual authorization from 1999 to 2002 with at least $50 million for rural development and $50 million for research, education and Extension.

For 1998 and 1999, he said, Farm Bureau proposes that the entire $50 million for research, education and Extension be spent on six priority areas: the national food genome project; food safety and quality; maintaining and enhancing the environment; economically significant value-added products; international competitiveness; and precision agriculture.

Rainfall Provides Little Relief To Dry Conditions

Significant amounts of rain fell in most of Maryland last week, but crop conditions remained critical in many parts of the state, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service. For the week ended July 27, corn was 31% very poor, 25% poor, 32% fair, 10% good, and 2% excellent. Field corn remains behind normal silking stage and is well behind the previous and five-year average.

Soybeans were 20% very poor, 26% poor, 28% fair, 24% good, and 2% excellent. Soybean bloom was about on pace with the previous year average. Spider mites were a problem on soybeans in Talbot County. Also, beans had started to set pods. In some areas of Maryland, the drought continued to take a toll on corn and soybeans, while in others rain has benefited crops.

Sorghum was 35% very poor, 6% poor, 14% fair, 37% good, and 8% excellent. Sorghum heading trailed a little behind the previous and five-year average.

THEY MIGHT NOT LOOK LIKE MOTHER HENS, but these young 4-H members recently participated in the annual 4-H and FFA Broiler Show after raising their baby chicks for eight weeks. Once grown, the birds, which had been donated by Southern States Oakland Cooperative, Inc., were dressed and judged on several factors, including feed to meat conversion ratios, weight, and appearance. Participants had to present two dressed bird samples and turn in a record sheet to complete the project. Shown in the first row, left to right, are Michael Wolf, sixth place Junior division; Darren Schrock, second place Junior; George Beckman, second place senior; Esther Schmuck, first place Junior; Shelby Glover, second place Intermediate; and Zachary Rhodes, first place Intermediate. In the second row are Frank Andersen, fourth place Intermediate; Stacey Glover, fifth place Senior; Lindsay Schrock, third place Junior; Hannah Schmuck, fourth place Senior; Mitchell Guard, third place Intermediate; and Daniel Skipper, fifth place Junior. Not pictured are Shane DeWitt, first place Senior; Dawn Lohr, participation Senior; Levi Schmuck, third place Senior; and Daniel Skipper, fifth place Junior. Top awards were taken by Shane DeWitt, for overall top score; Mitchell Guard, whose heavy weight bird weighed in at 6 pounds, 6 ounces; Zachary Rhodes, whose two samples garnered best average weight honors; and George Beckman, who took best bird samples. Connie Hoalcraft served as contest and educational activities judge, and egg grading and candling was demonstrated by Becky Boncella.

University Of Maryland Sponsors Deer Management Conference

Many people enjoy having deer in their community. They are often a pleasant reminder of nature amongst the overwhelming steel and concrete associated with urban living, and they can provide recreational entertainment for hunters. When their numbers increase, however, wild deer can cause significant damage to the ecosystem by consuming vegetation. They also become a danger to people through the spread of disease and automobile accidents. As a result, creating policy that balances the positive and negative aspects of co-existing with deer has become controversial.

The University of Maryland's Center for Agricultural and Natural Resources Policy is hosting a conference on October 27 at the Inn and Conference Center at the University that will address deer management issues and help to resolve policy conflicts. The one-day seminar will bring together what is known about both damage and benefits related to wild deer and assess the consequences of current trends in the deer population as they affect agricultural damage, public health and safety, and the ecosystem.

The conference will evaluate and present the pros and cons of available policy alternatives for county and local government officials facing deer problems in their jurisdictions, Extension and other educators who need up-to-date factual and analytical information on deer management and policy, and members of the general public who are concerned about deer issues.

There will be presentations by experts and analysts from the University of Maryland, the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, and nationally recognized authorities on deer issues from the University of Georgia and Cornell University. Special attention will be paid to survey work being conducted by the Department of Agricultural and Resource Economics at the University of Maryland. There also will be focus on communities like Montgomery County that have implemented deer management policies.

The registration fee is $65 and must be paid by October 10. For more information, those interested in the policy conference or to register, may call Liesl Koch, 301-405-0057, at the Center for Agricultural and Natural Resources Policy.

Fair time is fast approaching and once again club members are asked to volunteer their time and talents. First on the agenda is clean-up day, which is Thursday, August 7. Bring cleaning supplies, such as broom, bucket, rags, etc. We will meet at the Exhibit Barn at 9 a.m. A two-year program planning meeting will follow at 12:30. Come prepared with suggestions for topics of monthly programs.

Starting Tuesday, August 12, at 1:30 p.m. and throughout the remainder of the fair, members are asked to volunteer to man our organization's booth. Also, craft demonstrators are needed. Please contact Irmgard at the Extension office at 301-334-6960 to let her know when you can be available to help. Clubs are asked to bring crafts made throughout the year for display.

"Tuning Out Violence on TV" will be the central theme for our booth. Literature will be available to distribute. We will also attempt to answer the following question: "What did families do as a pastime before TV was invented?" Games, homemade toys, and memories of how our families spent their spare time together will be shared in the hopes that families will start spending more time together making their own memories.

Rebekah Lodges Meet For Annual W.Va. Convention

Members from Rebekah lodges of West Virginia District 12 met for their annual convention recently. The conference was held at Lillian Rebekah Lodge 58 in Elk Garden, W.Va.

The election of officers for the 1997-1998 term was held in the beginning of the meeting. Luverna Cosner was elected vice president, and secretary Beulah Alderton and treasurer Evelyn Hendrickson were re-elected. Adrea Hedrick, district deputy president, was re-elected to that post by acclamation. These officers will attend the district convention in 1998.

Among the issues addressed by Beverly Livingston, West Virginia assembly warden, were the needs of the I00F Home. The seven residents, she said, could use donations of supplies as well as visits and cards. Donations are also being accepted for repairs to the International Order of Odd Fellows/Rebekah float.

Beverly Zimmerman, vice president of the assembly, discussed the HELP project. This is a low interest loan program for Odd Fellow and Rebekah lodges for the purpose of hall repairs. She noted that $3,880 has been disbursed this year in West Virginia for emergency and disaster relief. Contributions to the Arthritis Foundation and participation in the living legacy programs were endorsed.

Lora Thomas, the West Virginia Assembly president, introduced the motto "You Can Make A Difference," and encouraged members to create harmony and help build membership.

Thomas also spoke of the United Nations Pilgrimage Scholarship Fund which will sponsor one student per year. Proceeds from the sale of glass hummingbirds and daisy pins will be deposited to the fund.

Lodge reports were presented in the afternoon, and the award for the best report went to the Liberty 95 Lodge of Parsons. Members of that lodge also performed a memorial service in honor of sisters who have passed away.

Adrea Hedrick was presented with a gift of thanks for her work as district deputy president.

Most recently married were Greg and Heather Knotts with their son, Wesley Knotts, the youngest male present. Karie Winston of Minot, N.D., was the youngest female in attendance and Kevin and Stephanie Winston of Minot traveled the longest way to attend the reunion.

It is planned to hold the reunion again next year on July 25 at the Mt. Grove pavilion.

The descendants of another branch of the Wotring families met on Sunday, July 27, at the Amboy United Methodist Church pavilion for their annual reunion. The afternoon was spent in visiting and games for the children. Family and friends attended from Baltimore, Oakland, Aurora, Terra Alta, and also from North Carolina.

Coldwell Banker Lends Help To Habitat Effort

In keeping with the theme of helping people realize the dream of owning a home of their own, eight Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty sales associates, as well as numerous family members, friends, and customers, recently turned out to volunteer their time, labor, and monetary contributions to Garrett County Habitat for Humanity. They worked together to help two local families become homeowners.

The realty company's sales associates made the decision to commit resources to Habitat for Humanity early in 1997, according to a spokesperson. Esther Friend, Arlene Murray, Gail Reed, and broker Robert Huebner each committed to serve on committees of the local Habitat board of directors. Coldwell Banker Residential Affiliates, Inc., of which Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty is a franchisee, is the only national real estate firm to embrace Habitat for Humanity as its official corporate charity, the spokesperson said.

Habitat for Humanity does not accept government money for construction of the general operation of its projects, but relies instead on volunteer labor, management expertise, and tax deductible donations of land, money, and materials. The spokesperson noted that it is not a "give-away" program, but a joint venture in which the selected families must complete 500 hours of "sweat equity," working not only on the construction of their own home, but also on those of other families.

The realtors, together with Westmar Builders, Deep Creek Property Services, and Ringer Electric, first collected donations among themselves to supply the 42 members of a visiting Habitat work camp group with breakfasts and lunches throughout their week-long stay. Later in that week, they prepared and served an evening dinner and made arrangements for the entire group to attend the United States Army Field Band concert that night. Associates talked with the work campers, mostly teenagers from Delaware, Pennsylvania, and Virginia, as they described the highlights of their week and what they had learned about working together. They also expressed their pleasure and pride in what they accomplished on behalf of the Habitat families, the spokesperson said.

Wanting to be involved in the "hands-on" process, Coldwell Banker volunteers arranged to pitch in for two successive days on the construction site. With hammers in hand, they arrived at the work site on Penn Point Road, ready to build a house (see photo). The spokesperson said that it was more physically challenging than many of these inexperienced builders had expected, and all agreed the days were filled with laughter, thumping fingers, and an abundance of aching muscles, as well as an overwhelming sense of accomplishment.

"We're in the business of helping people fulfill the dream of home ownership every day," said Gail Reed, one of the Coldwell Banker volunteers. "It's very rewarding to be able to give something back to Garrett County -- something that will be standing for many years."

With encouragement from Coldwell Banker, Deep Creek Property Services, Westmar Builders, and Ringer Electric also donated excavation and electrical work, the spokesperson said.

"We're starting to get ready for next year," said Esther Friend, Coldwell Banker's fund-raising chairperson. "Proceeds from our in-house soda sales will go toward purchasing food for another work camp group, and we're working on other plans, too."

For information about assisting with Habitat for Humanity, persons may call 301-334-9431, ext. 113.

LENDING A HAND(S) TO MAKE A DREAM COME TRUE - Sales associates from Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty recently brought their hammers and nails to a Habitat for Humanity building site, where many worked together to help two families realize the dream of homeownership. The local realty company has been contributing funds and assistance to Habitat throughout this year. See story. Standing in the foreground above is job supervisor Dale Harvey. Coldwell Banker volunteers and other helpers are shown as they take a short break from the hard work. Pictured left to right are Dick Lyons, Ruth Seib, Chuck Police, MaryJo Lyons, Robert Huebner, Denise Sanders, Patrick Murray, Ellen Fritz, Nick Rush, Erin Rush, Gail Reed, and Scott Sanders. Not present for the photo were volunteers Gerald McDonald, Esther Friend, Arlene Murray, Mike Hoffeditz, and Tara Talbot.

Energy Assistance Public Hearing Set For Aug. 6

The Department of Human Resources (DHR) announces that the Maryland Energy Assistance Program (MEAP) will hold regional public hearings August 1-8 to present the coming year's plan for MEAP. Citizens of Maryland are invited to review and make comments on this proposed plan. The public hearing for Garrett County and western Maryland will be held on Wednesday, Aug. 6, from 2 to 4 p.m. in the Board of Allegheny County Human Resources Development Commission at 441 N. Centre Street, Cumberland.

All vendors from Garrett County, public officials, and the public are encouraged to attend. For additional information, persons may contact Linda Green, director, Emergency Services Dept. at Garrett County Community Action Center at 301-334-9431. Copies of the proposed plan are available by contacting the Maryland Energy Assistance Program at 410-767-7218.

During 1996-97, the MEAP program received 83,568 applications, and 73,394 families received a benefit to help with their heating costs. The average benefit was $240. This year the proposed federal budget for the Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP) contains $1 billion for home energy assistance. Maryland's share will be $15.6 million.

In addition to sending benefits to suppliers for needy families, MEAP is proposing to continue offering other energy conservation services and referrals. These services include Utility Service Protection, Family Energy Services, Partners in Energy, referrals for weatherization, a limited number of refrigerator and furnace replacements, energy counseling, and energy affordability plans.

Bookout Work To Be Displayed At GCC Gallery

The work of local potter Elee Bookout will be exhibited with the Bausch and Lomb Art Gallery of Garrett Community College during the month of August, according to Ron Skidmore, coordinator of the gallery. A reception for the artist, to which the public is invited, will be held Friday, Aug. 8, from 8 to 10 p.m. Exhibited work will be for sale, but must remain on display until the end of the show.

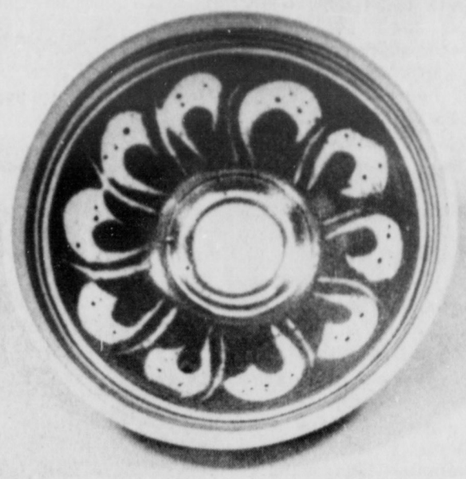
This year Bookout's show is titled "New Directions." Recently she has been exploring new avenues of expression in her work, which shows in the varied decorating techniques she employs, as well as a variety of new forms and glazes. For her, "New Directions" involves exploring new forms, colors, glazes, clay slips, and decorating and construction techniques; or, as she puts it, "breaking away from the old stuff."

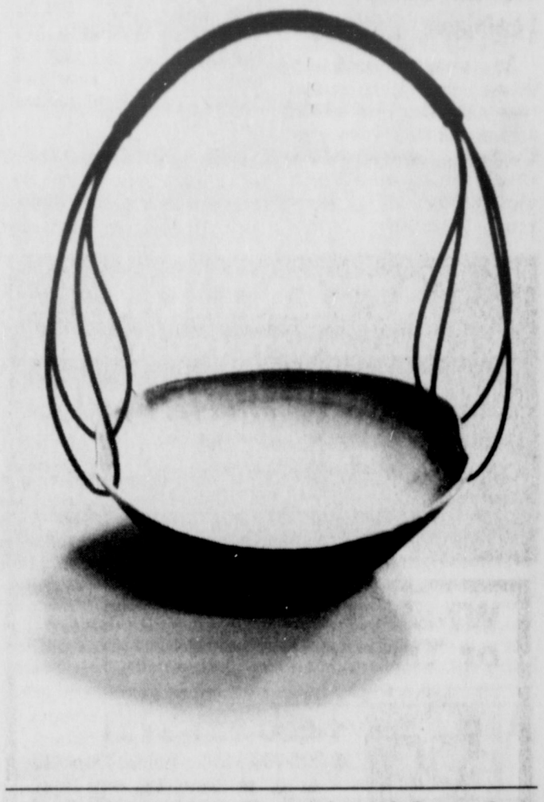
She is especially interested in the glazes developed from the ashes of her own beech and oak trees. Her philosophy of expression is derived from natural forms found in nature in Garrett County. She says she is a "purist at heart" and likes to, as much as possible, acquire her materials from her own surroundings. These include decorating slips formed from local clays and using ashes processed from native hardwoods. Although at times she digresses and produces sculptural items, she said that the underlying theme of her work is functional ware that people enjoy using the their everyday lives.

Bookout has been a potter for 47 years, having started her artistic career in conjunction with teaching ceramics at the University of Maryland, Corcoran Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C., and high school art in Prince George's County. She obtained a bachelor's degree in art education from the University of Maryland and her master's degree in ceramics from Cranbrook Academy of Art in Michigan. For many years she taught privately in her own studio while being involved and exhibiting her work in national and international exhibitions. For 12 years she was associated with the Torpedo Factory in Alexandria, Va., where she sold her pottery and helped to set up and manage a gallery as a member of two professional potters' organizations in the Washington metropolitan area.

At the present time, Bookout enjoys a slower rate of production, which she says provides a greater opportunity to explore new ideas and expand her horizons when working with clay. Her studio is open to the public, where she offers to explain the process of clay and glazes to anyone who is interested in wheel-thrown pottery.

The exhibit at GCC is open to the public during regular college hours and on weekends and evenings during special events. For more information, persons may contact the GCC Art Department at 301-387-3024, or call the artist at 301-746-8896. The exhibit has been made possible in part by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council and Maryland State Arts Council.





POTTERY BY ELEE BOOKOUT will be on display at the Bausch & Lomb Art Gallery of Garrett Community College August 8-29. An opening reception for the exhibit, which is titled "New Directions," will be held on Friday, Aug. 8, from 8 until 10 p.m. at the gallery. The public is invited. See story. The gallery is open from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. on weekdays, as well as during special events in the evenings and over weekends. For more information, persons may call the GCC Art Department at 301-387-3024.

Floodplain Summit Slated For Aug. 20

A Western Maryland Floodplain Summit will take place on Wednesday, Aug. 20, at Allegany College of Maryland, Cumberland. The summit, which is to provide information and education on flooding in Western Maryland and the methods of reducing flood losses, is being sponsored by the Appalachian Regional Commission, the Maryland Greenways Commission, the Maryland Department of the Environment, the Maryland Office of Planning, the National Park Service, the Rotary Club of Cumberland, and the United States Geological Survey.

Significant flood-related economic losses were experienced by Western Maryland communities in 1996, chiefly as a result of a winter storm as well as Hurricane Fran. According to officials, resources of public agencies at the local, state, and federal levels were taxed to the limits of their capabilities in responding to the needs of the flood victims.

In response to the disasters, Governor Parris Glendening appointed a task force made up of numerous individuals, which was to recommend measures that could be taken to reduce

MDDA Meeting In Oakland To Feature Planner

Noted planning specialist Robert J. Gibbs will join participants in the Maryland Downtown Development Association's 1997 Fall Conference, to be held in Oakland Sept. 25-26. Those attending will examine challenges to downtown areas and innovative responses to these issues.

Nationally recognized for his expertise in retail development and new town planning, Gibbs has worked with communities across the United States to solve urban redevelopment problems in cities large and small, a spokesperson for MDDA said.

In an Atlantic Monthly profile he was described as an expert with "a commercial sensibility unlike anything possessed by the urban planner and architects who usually design downtown-renewal efforts."

A speaker at the First Congress of the New Urbanism in 1992, Gibbs has been a pioneer in the movement to revive the community-oriented principles of traditional town planning as an antidote to the sprawl of suburbia, the spokesperson stated.

Gibbs will be an observer and a consultant during the two-day conference and will provide summary comments Friday, Sept. 26.

Conference workshops will explore a variety of topics concerning older commercial areas. There will be information available about Maryland programs, including grants and loans available as a result of 1997's "Smart Growth" legislation; vendors of products and services to enhance revitalization efforts will also be featured.

This year's conference has been planned around a quad-state agenda because of Oakland's proximity to West Virginia, Virginia, and Pennsylvania.

Conference details and registration forms are avail-

HAMMERING A SERVE at her opponent in this past weekend's 76th annual Western Maryland Tennis Championships was former Mtn. Lake Park resident Sarah Tritt, who successfully defended her women's open singles title. Tritt defeated Marina Getz of Cumberland in the championship match, 6-3, 7-5. The 18-year-old daughter of Bill and Patrice Tritt, now residents of New Tripoli, Pa., will be a member of the West Virginia University women's team this fall. The Western Maryland tourney, one of the oldest United States Tennis Association-sanctioned tournaments in the nation, was held last Thursday through Sunday at the Mtn. Lake Park Tennis Club clay courts, with only a brief interruption by rain. Over 100 players from seven states and the District of Columbia participated in the tournament. Complete results of the tournament, with many more photos, can be found on the sports pages in this section. Photo by John McEwen.

Blaze Causes Major Damage To Local Business

A fire believed to have been caused by an electrical problem resulted in an estimated $35,000 damage to an Oakland-area business early last Friday.

Volunteer fire fighters from Oakland, Deer Park, and Terra Alta were summoned to Mountain Top Mowers, located along Old Crellin road just west of Oakland, at 12:26 a.m. and discovered heavy smoke coming from a storage room upon their arrival. The business is owned by Arden Reeves and the building is owned by Vivian Burns.

Fire fighters remained on the scene for two hours. There were no injuries reported.

Reeves stated that he did not have insurance on the contents of the building that were destroyed in the blaze. He emphasized, however, that his business is still open and in full operation.

Also responding to the scene was the county air cascade unit, housed at Deep Creek VFD, and a unit from the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad.

Citizens Concerned About Rt. 219 Proposal Organize Advocacy Group

Who cares about a new freeway for Garrett County? And, precisely, why?

These questions are being raised by a group of county citizens and property owners who have banded together under the name of Conservative Action for a Rural Environment (CARE). They are seeking public feedback on the issue of the proposed international trade corridor freeway, and are also working to affiliate with the W.Va. Sierra Club. CARE says it welcomes bona fide industry into existing grounds already available for them. However, the group opposes any further destruction to prime farm land, which members consider one of the county's most vital assets, or rapidly diminishing natural resources, such as public forests and parks.

David Madland of Tax Payers for Common Sense, based in Washington, D.C., issued the following statement: "Uncertain benefits of the proposed improvements to U.S. Rt. 219 are not worth the high cost to tax payers."

"This (freeway) project is simply too expensive in terms of land and taxes," said CARE member Jaime Alvarez.

Jim Sconyers, chapter chair for the W.Va. Sierra Club, in Terra Alta, said, "We are very concerned about the destruction of farm land and public forest land, both state and national, that would be a result of a new Interstate 219 in both Maryland and West Virginia. We see no evidence of any particular benefit, but many harmful consequenc-

Man Falls, Uses Shotgun To Call For Assistance

Incapacitated by a fall, an Oakland man was able to summon help by shooting his shotgun into the air and alerting his neighbors to his plight.

Frederick Wayne Baker, 44, Spring Glade Road, fell on the steps outside his trailer at approximately 10 a.m. this past Tuesday, injuring his back. When yelling for help proved fruitless due to the distance to his closest neighbor, Baker managed to pull himself just inside the entrance to the trailer and retrieve his shotgun. He then fired off several shots as an S.O.S., signaling that there was an emergency at his trailer.

Baker's neighbor, Hanline Stony, heard the shots and called emergency personnel. Sheriff's deputies and the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad responded, and Baker was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital. He has subsequently been released, and continues to recuperate at his home.

One-Vehicle Accident On I-68 Claims Life Of Baltimore Man

A Baltimore man died as a result of a one-vehicle accident on I-68 on Saturday near Keyser's Ridge.

Daryl W. Douglas, 39, was east-bound at the 12 mile marker when the incident occurred. Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, reported that the vehicle Douglas was driving struck the guardrail, and crossed the median and the westbound lane. It then struck the guardrail of the westbound lane and overturned down an embankment.

Trooper 5, the state police medical helicopter, transported Douglas to Cumberland Memorial Hospital, where he was reported to have expired August 2.

A passenger, Derik G. Douglas, 36, Baltimore, was also taken to Cumberland Memorial by Northern Rescue Squad, according to a report by the Office of Emergency Management. Grantsville VFD also responded to the scene.

No charges were reported by state police.

BETHLEHEM ROAD

State police noted alcohol and excessive speed as factors in a mishap Saturday on Bethlehem Road.

Jesse V. McRobie, 25, Massillon, Ohio, was traveling on Bethlehem Road at 4:30 p.m. at a speed greater than reasonable, police reported. McRobie allegedly traveled to the right, off the roadway, over corrected, and traveled back onto the roadway.

Losing control of his vehicle, the report stated, Mc-

GLAF's Symphony At Deep Creek Returning For Eleventh Season

Garrett Lakes Arts Festival's Symphony at Deep Creek will return to the area again this month, presenting four different concerts of chamber and orchestral music over two weekends. Grammy Award winner Erick Friedman, world renowned violinist and Symphony at Deep Creek musical director, has announced that pianist Dr. Robert Blocker, dean of the Yale Department of Music, will appear as a soloist during the series, which is slated for August 15, 16, 22, and 23 in the Garrett Community College theatre.

Friedman will also perform as soloist, as will violinist and concertmaster Boris Kucharsky and euphonium maestro Dr. Neal Corwell. Additionally featured for the second consecutive year will be Lanfranco Marcelletti Jr., conductor of the Naugatuck Youth Symphony in Waterbury, Conn., as guest conductor. Several "regular" members of the symphony will return as well, performing the music of Mendelssohn, Bizet, Stravinsky, Haydn, Beethoven, and others. A commissioned work by Corwell, titled Black Moon Rising, will be premiered.

"We are very excited about this year's series, and are especially thrilled to welcome Dr. Blocker," said Mountain Lake Park native Kathryn Sincell, executive director of the Symphony at Deep Creek.

The Symphony at Deep Creek concert schedule is as follows, with each show beginning at 8 p.m. in the GCC theatre:

Comm. Glotfelty Returns To Work

After several weeks of hospital and home care in his treatment for leukemia, Commissioner Roger Glotfelty returned to work this week. Maintaining his role as chairman of the board, he conducted the regular Tuesday meeting of the Garrett County Commissioners.

"I'm tired, but very glad to be back," he said.

He is apparently responding to the treatment fairly well. Frequent blood tests will monitor his body's continued response, and as of now, a return to the hospital is not planned.

The commissioner joked about his new "look" -- a loss of hair brought on by the chemotherapy treatment.

"I asked Wayne if I could borrow his comb," he said, smiling. "I ran off without mine this morning."

RIBBON CUT FOR GCMH'S SUBACUTE CARE WING - An open house at Garrett County Memorial Hospital's new Subacute Care wing was attended by numerous individuals Tuesday afternoon. The event began with the official ribbon-cutting ceremony, undertaken by Walter Donalson (left), president of the hospital; and Elizabeth Daniels (with the scissors), RN, MSN, nurse manager of the wing. The new area of the hospital is designed for patients who are too ill to go home or to transfer to a nursing home, but are not sick enough to be admitted as regular patients. Chiefly it will serve patients requiring rehabilitation, as well as those who are "medically complex" (requiring a higher level of care than is available at a nursing home). The 10-bed unit features a comfortable, home-like environment with its own dining area, laundry facility, and activity room. The unit is the result of a collaborative effort between GCMH and the Cuppett Management Corporation, Inc. Shown behind Donalson and Daniels, left to right, are Jim Cuppett (unit administrator), Commissioner Wayne Wilt, Delegate George Edwards, Dennis Pride of G.A. Brown and Son, Inc. (contractor), Commissioner Gary Fratz, and Joyce Bishoff, chairperson of the hospital's board of directors.

AN ISSUE OF NATIONAL PROPORTIONS has come to Garrett County, as members of Local Union #673, employed at Grantsville's Flushing Shirt Manufacturing Company, illustrated during a demonstration they held outside the Grantsville Post Office recently. The local union members, along with members of the Union of Needletrades, Industrial and Textile Employees (UNITE), were protesting a proposal by the U.S. Postmaster General to change the current system of the production and purchasing of postal employee uniforms, in which 140 registered postal manufacturers, including the Flushing Company, make postal uniforms. The Postal Service is considering centralizing postal personnel uniform production and purchasing with a single contractor, who in turn may sub-contract out much of the production work. Union members contend that if accepted, the proposal will hurt the 200 employees of the Flushing company and employees of the other small and medium-sized American-based uniform companies that produce postal uniforms. They also express fears that such a change in procurement of postal uniforms would signal the start of a trend by other government agencies towards centralizing uniform procurement through a single contractor, who, the union members speculate, could then seek cheaper sources of labor with which the Flushing Company and similar-sized uniform companies may not be able to compete. According to the union, these cheaper labor sources could conceivably include sweatshops, prisons, or overseas factories. The protestors pointed out that in no way was their demonstration targeted at the Grantsville Post Office itself, not at any of its employees.

Friendsville Man Is Arrested At Town Celebration

A Friendsville man was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies after allegedly punching a juvenile female at the town's annual Friendsville Days celebration this past Saturday night.

Carl Nathan Friend, 18, faces a charge of second-degree assault after allegedly punching a 13-year-old Katie Cherry, Frostburg, in the stomach at the Friendsville Town Park. No motivation was apparent, according to the police report, although it did state that Friend allegedly had verbally harassed the girl prior to striking her.

Cherry refused medical treatment. Friend was subsequently released on his own recognizance.

SHOPLIFTING ARREST

In other Garrett County Sheriff's Office news recently, a Mtn. Lake Park woman was arrested and charged with shoplifting at Treasure Island this past Saturday afternoon. Allison Eileen Swinson, 18, was stopped outside the store with two dolls and several items of clothing, total value of $50, that she allegedly hadn't paid for. She was subsequently released on her own recognizance.

DISORDERLY CONDUCT

Eric Lee DeWitt, 20, Mtn. Lake Park, was arrested recently and charged with disorderly conduct and disturbing the peace. He had allegedly been cursing and yelling outside of the Pinewoods East Apartments while he was reportedly intoxicated.

THE LUCKY DRIVER SURVIVED this accident that happened Monday morning on I-68. Sandy M. Michaels lost control of her car as it hydroplaned on the wet road. The vehicle over-turned 1 1/2 times before coming to rest. (see story)

WARRANTS SERVED

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office served warrants on the following individuals recently.

Warrants were served on Rodney Wayne Tichinel, 19, currently of North Carolina, for second-degree assault, disorderly conduct, and trespassing; and Terry Lee DeWitt 22, Oakland, for a theft charge.

Bench warrants issued by the courts were served on Jesse Thomas Ringer II, 25, Terra Alta, W.Va., for violation of probation (VOP); Patricia Ann Collins, 25, Oakland, for VOP; Heath Edward Kelbaugh, 23, New Martinsville, W.Va., for VOP and failure to appear for court (FTA); Susan Elizabeth Parker, 45, Oakland, for FTA; and David Alan Everett II, 25, Oakland, for FTA.

"Your donation for their releases will help Hospice expand services and continue to serve the terminally ill patients and their families in Garrett County. Hospice provides health care for terminally ill patients, such as home health care, medications, medical equipment, medical supplies, and hospital and nursing home care. We greatly appreciate your donations of bail money to help provide our services and purchase clinical supplies," stated Brenda Butscher, executive director of Hospice of Garrett County, Inc.

Numbers Point To Dangers Of Drinking, Driving

Of all the fatal car collisions on Garrett County roads between 1990 and 1996, 47% were alcohol related. Nearly half of the people who were killed on local roads during that time period died at the hands of someone, perhaps a loved one, or even themselves, who had been drinking and driving.

On a national level, 25,000 people are killed each year by drunken drivers. That would be the equivalent of the entire population of Garrett County being killed off each and every year.

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office, Oakland Police Department, and Maryland State Police will be aggressively patroling the roadways of Garrett County during the month of August for assorted driving violations, including driving while intoxicated (DWI).

Law enforcement personel will also serving on duty at the upcoming Garrett County Agriculture Fair, checking for underage drinking violations. Police remind the public that it is unlawful for anyone in the state of Maryland under the age of 21 to possess or consume any alcoholic beverage, including beer and wine coolers.

GCSO Reports Several Injuries In Car Accidents

Several subjects were hospitalized after being injured in accidents on Garrett County roadways this past week, according to Garrett County Sheriff's Office reports.

GORMAN ROAD

George Thomas White Jr., 18, Oakland, and Jackie Wilington Paugh, 14, Kitzmiller, were both transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital (GCMH) after a one-vehicle accident on Gorman Road early this past Sunday morning.

White was driving northbound on Gorman Road at approximately 5:30 a.m. when he lost control of his 1988 Suzuki Samari jeep in a turn just south of Doc Tolson Road. The jeep struck a dirt embankment and overturned, striking a telephone pole before coming to rest.

Emergency personnel from the Oakland Fire Department and the Garrett County Sheriff's office responded, along with the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad. White and Paugh were both transported to the emergency room at GCMH, and were subsequently transferred to Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown, W.Va., for further treatment of their injuries.

White, still a patient at Ruby Memorial, had initially been listed in critical condition with serious head injuries. A hospital spokesperson reported that he has recently been upgraded to serious condition. Paugh was treated at Ruby Memorial for several days and then released.

BEN DEWITT ROAD

Another one-vehicle accident resulted in injuries to two subjects, both transported to GCMH after their motorcycle struck a deer on Ben DeWitt Road this past Saturday night.

Howard Joseph Butts, 46, and his passenger, Susan Jane Slaugbaugh, 30, both of Gormania, W.Va., were traveling eastbound on Ben DeWitt Road in the southwestern corner of the county when their Honda Goldwing struck a buck, overturning the motorcycle and spilling the pair onto the pavement. Both received varying degrees of cuts, abrasions, and other injuries.

Emergency personnel from the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad, Oakland Fire Department, and the Garrett County Sheriff's Office responded to the scene, and Butts and Slaubaugh were both transported by the rescue squad to GCMH, were they were treated and released.

ATV ACCIDENTS

Three separate accidents involving four-wheel all-terrain vehicles resulted in injuries to their riders last week.

Kevin Steinhilber, 18, Springfield, Va., suffered head and back injuries when he struck a gate across a private road just off Kempton Road last weekend. Steinhilber told the investigating deputy that he had been riding alone on his Honda 350 four-wheeler when dusty conditions suddenly obscured his vision. When the dust cleared, he saw that it was too late to avoid colliding with the closed gate in his path.

Steinhilber was transported by a private vehicle to the GCMH emergency room, where he was treated and released.

Paul Timothy Long, 19, Mechanicsville, was riding a Honda four-wheeler in a wooded area off Meadow Mountain Road last weekend when he struck a tree. He subsequently sought medical treatment at the GCMH emergency room.

Richard Anthony Parakash, 17, Olney, was riding a four-wheeler on the grounds of the Youghiegheny Mountain Club when he struck a rock and lost control, overturning the vehicle. He sought treatment at the GCMH emergency room, where he was treated and released.

COUNTY NATIVE AWARDED MEDAL -- At a Pentagon ceremony on July 10, Audrey J. Resh was presented the Air Force Medal for Exemplary Civilian Service by Major General Gregory S. Martin, U.S. Air Force director of operational requirements, for outstanding service during the period July 1995 to July 1997. Major General Martin is pictured with Resh as he reads from a plaque also presented in recognition and appreciation of her completion of 35 years of dedicated service as a civilian employee of the United States Air Force. During her years of service, Resh has worked for some of the Air Force's top military leaders. She is a 1962 graduate of Northern High School and is the daughter of Dorothy M. Resh, of the Cove, and the late Robert "Tommie" Resh.

Teenager Is Arrested By NRP For Drugs

A Grantsville teenager was arrested by a Natural Resources Police (NRP) officer Wednesday. James E. Regan, 18, faces charges of possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia, according to a report compiled by Officer Clise of the NRP.

According to the report, Clise stopped at about 10:50 p.m. to investigate a parked vehicle on the shoulder of Devil's Half Acre Road. He apparently detected the odor of burnt marijuana coming from inside the car. Upon inspection, he located a plastic baggy containing suspected marijuana in the pocket of the defendant.

A 16-year-old individual who was accompanying Regan will face a juvenile hearing on the same charges, according to the report.

Board Of Ed. Notes Agenda For Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Garrett County Board of Education will be held Tuesday, Aug. 12, at the board of education office, Oakland. The agenda for the meeting was released this week.

The meeting will open at 3 p.m. and offer a brief public comment period before the start of the executive session. At 5 p.m. the public session is scheduled to resume. Items to be discussed include administrative and instructional concerns as well as personnel matters.

INSTRUCTIONAL

Information will be presented by Maxine Miller on the high school mathematics and science programs.

Recommendations and information about the science program textbook for sixth-eighth grades will be presented by Dr. Brenda McCartney. She will also give information on the mathematics programs for grades K-5 and 6-8.

An award will be presented to Maggie Hockman for her work in the STAR program.

The board will continue the review of the student handbook and take action on a presentation by JoAnn Vent on the materials for the hospitality/tourism program.

ADMINISTRATIVE

Included under this topic are vehicle insurance bids and a vote on a bond resolution.

The regular public comment session will be held at 7 p.m. The public is invited to attend the meeting.

AN INTERIOR VIEW at the Oakland Train Station was given to Senator Paul Sarbanes yesterday as he toured the area in a special visit to the town. He and Mayor Asa McCain are shown inside the historic building, where obvious repairs and restoration work are needed. The panes in this Jefferson style window have been broken over time, and the slate roof must be redone. These are a few of the renovations planned by the town council and other interested individuals, should the purchase of the station be finalized. McCain hopes to have the deal with CSX solidified soon.

GCSO Probing Thefts From Parked Vehicles

A recent string of thefts from vehicles parked at various locations around the county is currently under investigation by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Several vehicles parked at the Broadford Park athletic fields outside of Oakland were burglarized this past Tuesday evening. Wallets were stolen from five unlocked vehicles, each wallet containing cash, credit cards, driver's licenses and other assorted i.d.'s, personal papers, and family photos.

That same night, a wallet and a duffle bag containing clothing items were stolen from a vehicle parked at Uno's Restaurant in Thayerville.

A car parked along Fingerboard Road had a selection of tools stolen from it on this past Monday evening.

On this past Sunday afternoon, while the Friend Family Reunion was underway nearby, a purse was stolen from the unlocked vehicle of a family member attending the reunion. The vehicle was parked on Hoyes Road near Sang Run Road, and the purse contained approximately $300 worth of cash and personal effects, including a check book, as well as a set of prescription glasses valued

Domestic Fights Result In Several Arrests By GCSO

Several family fights ended in arrests this past week, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

This past Monday night, deputies were called to the scene of a domestic altercation at the Tichinel residence in the 5100 block of Kitzmiller road. They found Tim Tichinel, 27, and his wife, Amy Tichinel, 21, both reportedly intoxicated.

The pair reportedly told told the deputies that they had been involved in a physical altercation with each other stemming from an argument over use of the television set. The fight, which had ended by the time deputies arrived, resulted in Tim Tichinel suffering a broken nose. He was subsequently treated at Garrett County Memorial Hospital's emergency room before deputies transported him to the Garrett County Jail. Amy Tichinel displayed a black eye and other assorted bruises and abrasions. She did not require a visit to the hospital for her injuries.

Both subjects were arrested and charged with second-degree assault, and each was subsequently released on their own recognizance.

Another domestic altercation also resulted in the arrest of a married couple this past week.

Darren Nazelrod, 31, and Karen Nazelrod, 34, of the 500 block of Foster Road, allegedly fought over her use of the phone. Both were reportedly drinking at the time, and the argument ended in a physical altercation between the two. Each subject sustained bruises and cuts, but no medical treatment was requested. Sheriff's deputies arrested the pair, charging each with second-degree assault, and they were subsequently released on their own recognizance.

The 200 block of Old Crellin Road was the scene of a fight between a mother and her adult daughter that ended with the daughter's arrest. According to the

GLAF To Host Young Musicians' Piano Recital

A piano recital designed to spotlight the talent of several local young people will be hosted by the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) on Sunday, Aug. 17, at 3 p.m. in the Garrett Community College auditorium. Admission to the event is free. Approximately 11 piano students of several local teachers will perform in the recital. Also playing will be New York City's Nancy McDill, a featured pianist of the Symphony at Deep Creek.

A screening recital was held this past Sunday, with the students performing at the home studio of Nancy and Fred Learey. They were observed by adjudicator Eric Kitchen, an accomplished pianist of the Cumberland area. Kitchen holds a degree in piano performance from Frostburg State University and in music composition from West Virginia University. He is an arranger for Mountain Stage Public Radio and of the public television score of Forks of the Cheat. He recently launched his own music publishing company titled Euphonion.

The young performers invited to participate in the recital are students of various teachers in the county, including Ellinor Benedict, Marianne Flinn, Rita Hart, Neil Krebs, Lela Paugh, and Susan Peterson. The students are at varying levels of mastery, having studied from as little as one year to as long as nine, according to a spokesperson.

Students slated to perform are as follows: Cambria Baylor, Gina Powell, Nikolas James, Nathan Rawe, Crystal Yoder, Miriam Sincell, Erin Neil, Angie Sincell, Jennifer Sanders, Kara Rush, and Andrew Murray.

Ms. McDill will perform at the conclusion of the recital and will also talk with the students about her experiences as a professional pianist.

Jump In, Mr. President...

With the United Parcel Service now in its fourth day of a nationwide strike, we certainly hope that President Clinton soon takes some kind of action to resolve the matter between UPS and the Teamsters Union. The effects of the strike were felt immediately in every corner of the country - urban and rural - as the delivery of over 80% of the nation's packages came to such an abrupt halt. An extended strike will be devastating to thousands of businesses and thus to perhaps millions of our citizens.

The following numbers help reveal the extent of the impact of this strike. The daily payroll of UPS is $41 million. Each and every day, UPS spends approximately $2.7 million on fuel for its delivery trucks and airplanes, plus an additional $2.4 million to move containers by rail and an estimated $200,000 in aircraft handling and landing fees.

While the reasons for the strike are said to be the inability for UPS and the Teamsters to come to an agreement on salaries and conflict over part-time vs. full-time employees, as with practically every crisis, there is a major political element involved that has little or nothing to do with salary differences. Ron Carey, current president of the Teamsters, is sitting in a precarious spot, as he narrowly defeated James P. Hoffa (son of Jimmy) in the race for the president's post last fall, the union finances are weak, and he is being investigated for alleged fund-raising abuses in his re-election campaign. In fact, some claim that Carey orchestrated the UPS strike to try to look like a strong leader and to draw media attention away from his problems.

Making the crisis even more a mess is the allegation that there may be an illegal financial link between the Teamsters and the Democratic National Committee. Federal prosecutors are involved and subpoenas have been issued by the New York grand jury for documents from both the DNC and the Teamsters. One document that surfaced recently suggests that the DNC and the Carey campaign had set up an improper mutual-assistance pact involving possible misuses of funds from the Teamsters' political action committee.

We certainly hope that President Clinton's reluctance to get involved in this strike has nothing to do with these allegations. When the American Airlines pilots were about to strike, Clinton jumped right in and a strike was averted. When the air traffic controllers went on strike, President Reagan simply fired them. The UPS strike will have a far more negative impact on the country, and on far more people, than either of the aforementioned crises.

So, President Clinton, we ask you to start twisting some arms and get this thing resolved as quickly as possible. Anything less will only reinforce the idea that there has been some shady dealing going on between this union and your national committee.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

We would like to thank Nancy Pagenhardt for all her efforts in planning and running the Major League Soccer Camp held last week. Our kids had a great time, learning new drills, improving their skills, and making new friends.

Very few people realize all the hard work that goes behind organizing this week-long event - registration and class assignment, providing balls and shirts, having drinks available every day, coordinating coach accommodations in local homes and providing dinners each night, assembling goodie bags, etc.

Thanks, Nancy, for all your coordinating efforts and for making it such a great week for the kids.

To the Editor:

As former employees of First Federal Savings bank of Western MD, we would like to thank all our customers for helping us to make it through a very difficult time.

On July 11, 1997, we officially closed our doors. due to the merger with American Trust bank. Prior to and during that day, many of you, though upset by the circumstances, let us know how much you appreciated our services. We would like to take this opportunity to thank you for all your smiles, words, and gifts of kindness. It made a tough day a little easier.

Unfortunately, we will not be continuing our employment with American Trust, since our job positions were eliminated. We've chosen to take the opportunity to enjoy being with our families. We will miss working at First Federal and with those customers who were also friends.

Sincerely,
Denise Skeweris

To the Editor:

In response to David Moe's editorial on the proposed four-lane highway through Garrett County, I, for one, would prefer the "many, many opportunities" for public input to occur before, rather than after, the final die is cast on this project. The time for a public forum is now, not later, when all I can do is pray that it's not in my back yard.

I noticed a front page story on the formal hearing of a National Adventuresports Center in Garrett County. Now that the public has had its concerns satisfactorily addressed, a feasibility study is to be undertaken. In other words, a third party will determine if this is a valid project for the county. While I applaud the thoroughness of due process in this case, I cannot help but wonder why the proposed highway is not given the same scrutiny. Surely a four-lane highway will impact our county more than an Adventuresports Center. Have any studies been made of the effects of such a highway? Do we know the kind of jobs the highway will bring?

At the risk of sounding like a broken record, I must ask, why has there been no public forum to ascertain whether or not the majority of residents want this highway?

A public meeting is the least that could be offered for our sacrifice; and the highway would surely involve great sacrifice for many of our residents.

Sincerely,
Eileen Schlosnagle

To the Editor:

Call me a backward Luddite. Maybe I'm guilty of crying "NIMBY" (Not in my back yard). After reading Mr. Moe's guest editorial, I think maybe I'm wrong and they are right. Maybe we must sacrifice farms and forests for fuel stops and fast food. After all, farms only provide the food on our tables, and forests the oxygen we breath. We will surely be better off with fewer farms and forests, and more consumer-based commerce and pollution.

Mr. Moe states that Allegany County had an unemployment rate more than double the state average in April, and is losing population. Was I-68 sold as the panacea for these problems back then? Are we to believe that what one four-lane did not fix, two will?

I believe country living is better than urban living. This kind of progress they are trying to sell us is a sham, and a shame. If you agree, make the effort to tell Senator Paul S. Sarbanes, Senator Barbara A. Mikulski, and Representative Roscoe Bartlett at 202-224-3121. Call your state legislators, too. Call everybody. Tell them this highway will cost too much money, too much land, and cause too much pollution.

Sincerely,
Jaime Alvarez

Editors Note: The writer of the following letter, Friendsville Mayor Spencer Schlosnagle, to Barry Frazee, president of the Friendsville Lions Club, requested that it be published in this column.

Dear Barry:

On behalf of the residents of Friendsville, the surrounding community, the members of town council, and myself, I would like to express sincere gratitude and appreciation to the Friendsville Lions Club for maintaining and operating the Friendsville Community Park for the last several years.

The development and construction at the community park, which has been spearheaded by the Friendsville Lions Club through the donation of thousands of volunteer hours by your members, has resulted in the realization of a beautiful park with many amenities.

The cooperative efforts of the Maryland Program Open Space agency, the Friendsville Lions Club, and Friendsville's elected officials in the development of the Friendsville Community Park are an example of what can be accomplished when civic-minded people work together for a common goal.

Again, I commend the Friendsville Lions Club for your efforts to improve our community park for the good of all.

Sincerely,
Spencer R. Schlosnagle
Mayor

To the Editor:

As AmeriCorps Members in Western Maryland, we would like to thank the following groups and individuals who contributed to the success of our recent flood clean-up project in Shallmar. Without all of their efforts, the project could not have come to life as an illustration of the teamwork and community-building that we can achieve in Western Maryland.

In particular, the project would not have been possible without the partnership of the Maryland Conservation Corps. Their expertise was invaluable, and we are grateful for their continued support from the development of the project through the final stages.

We would like to take this opportunity to thank the businesses and organizations that donated their services to the project: Army National Guard, Deer Park Spring Water, Food Lion, Fox's Pizza Den, Garrett County Roads Department, McDonald's, Perry's Solid Waste Disposal, Pizza Hut, Sloan's Portable Toilets, Southern Rescue Squad, and Tomanetti's Pizza.

We would also like to thank all of the dedicated volunteers who gave generously of their time hauling debris, picking up trash, and providing food: the residents of Shallmar and Kitzmiller, community and student volunteers from Garrett, Allegany, and Grant counties; Backbone Mountain Youth Center; the Governor's Commission on Service; the Kitzmiller Lioness Club; and Meadow Mountain Youth Center.

Sincerely,
AmeriCorps members

To the Editor:

Paul Harvey just addressed the horrors of placing miles of concrete down (for roads) all over the country, where once our beautiful land was. He mentions it takes away the country's natural beauty, forever, it rapes our once natural land and there is no turning back. Ponder for a minute that for our presently existing U.S. dual highways we do not have the money to maintain and renew bridges. A large insurance company just published an article on the cost of trying to maintain our existing interstates. Additional taxes must be raised from you, the taxpayer.

Those in favor of the interstate are asking for Garrett Countians to give up 35 miles of the county for this dual lane highway - to gain more people, and more importantly, for more money, so we can pay for the land to build the roads, so we can have a higher tax rate, and we can continue to chase our tails for the dollar.

Has anyone mentioned that we will have to give up approximately 2,000+ acres for this, plus acres for interchanges and access roads? While many may state it is only state land, we are looking at our land, whether it is state land or not. Possibly 15% is now state land.

The population has increased by 50% since I began coming here over 35 years ago. I came for the reasons Paul Harvey mentions. I came for the reasons 9,000 others came. Do we want to keep people out? No, but with the existing roads it is likely that the next 9,000 people will find their way here, without an additional interstate to eat up over 2,000 acres!

Let's get all of the information before we rush into spending, or causing to spend, $20,000,000+ just for the land. Then we will add several hundred million ($200,000,000) for actual construction! I would ask that if you do not care about the beauty of our county, then ponder the simple mathematics and look at the cost to each of our individual taxpayers here in the county (every person - not just the head of a household). Approximately $7,000 per person! We need to reconsider!! We respect the fact that this is not how the money will come - ie., from each Garrett County taxpayer - but only one oblivious to reality will think that Mickey Mouse is going to pay for it.)

We have needed and waited for a bypass for Oakland for 30 years, and still don't have it. Let's wait at least 30 years before we consider raping 2,000 acres of our beautiful county lands.

To the Editor:

It is really exciting to see that Garrett County is embracing the business development potential of Adventuresports with such enthusiasm and hype. I have made my living and been professionally involved in the adventuresports industry for 23 years, and Garrett County has it all: world class whitewater kayaking and rafting, big game hunting, superb trout and lake fishing, incredible mountain biking, skiing, watersports of all types, and most importantly, a natural environment that offers opportunities for solitude and a chance to escape from it all. The forests, mountains, and scenic approaches to Garrett County are what made this area what it is today.

If adventuresports promotion is to be taken seriously, we need to understand how I-219 enhances the outdoor experience adventure seekers are looking for. Are we protecting the environment that gives the "International Adventure Center" a realistic chance? The Chamber of Commerce and Economic Development Corporation double-speak in the paper of "abundant natural resources - particularly well suited to adventuresports" and at the same time promoting International Trade Corridors of Industrial Traffic and Development?

The Adventure experience will be a farce if it is accompanied by cancer-causing diesel fumes and the distant rumble of trucks and cars highballing on by. Can our streams, rivers, wildlife, and culture handle the impacts from massive freeway construction? Are we really that far from I-68, that we need to save visitors or ourselves 10 minutes' driving? Do truckers on an "International Trade Corridor" stop their 18-wheelers to go skiing or perhaps relax by a stream?

If I-219 is the direction some groups want us to head, it's laughable to give them our money for ad-

FAIR SEASON

Rituals lend order to the events of life which, all too often, seem random and helter-skelter. For anyone who farms or gardens, even the rhythms of nature often take on this helter-skelter quality. All that ought to be predictable feels like it is tending toward chaos.

My friends who make their living from the earth are especially discouraged this summer. The going had been rough even before our drought. A ritual may not improve their bank accounts, but it can apply balm to their spirits. The ritual I have in mind is the county fair.

From the end of July through mid-autumn it is fair season, when those who still cultivate the culture of the earth and hearth gather in competition as fierce as it is friendly. My home county just held its fair, and I feel renewed.

Almost every rural or semi-rural county has lots more "new" people than old-timers. That is especially true in my home county. One of the things that encouraged me at this year's fair was how many of the new folks had joined with the old in entering their work in the fair.

This was not just in the trendier departments, like herbs and wood-working, but in the basic livestock entries of the 4-H youngsters. I was delighted to see some well-made up suburban-type moms down in the hog pens with their more plainly adorned country counterparts.

That made me know it is possible to win converts by being evangelical about rural culture. It is an endeavor that has been hardly tried, and yet is successful well beyond the energy of the effort. What might be accomplished if we put our hearts into it?

Our own family had 21 entries in the fair, though none of them was livestock. This has been a big gardening year for me. Even with drought conditions, I had nine vegetable and two honey entries. My wife and I both had some canned and baked goods, and our daughters entered artwork and flowers.

Once our entries were at the fair, we were finished our work. When the livestock entries arrive at the fair the work has only just begun. There is the constant cleaning and grooming on top of the usual feeding and watering. Somebody from each family has to camp out at the fair as well, in order to give their animals 24-hour attention. All that entails a well developed supply line for humans and animals alike.

We had our own moments of triumph as well. One fairly predictable element of the fair is that blue ribbons and last place come equally as surprises.

My wife's zucchini pickles took first place, and her zucchini bread took third place, both happy outcomes. The actual zucchini did not do so well. On the other hand, I took blue ribbons for both my slicing and my pickling cucumbers. That was a delight after my morning's discouraged fussing in the cucumber patch.

Our big excitement came from our second daughter's ornamental sunflower, which not only won first in its class and grand champion in its division, but "Best of Show" for all the open-class flowers. There is such an increase of joy when one such victory in life comes to a young person.

As I said, all this adds little to any one farmer's bank account. What it does accomplish is to support the widespread culture which supports farming and which is essential as background if farming is to have a chance of flourishing in the foreground.

Having such a cultural background guarantees success for no one. Not having it guarantees the eventual failure of all. As more and more people move into the countryside, it is vitally important to turn their hearts to farming however they may make their living.

The Reunion
by Mary Sincell McEwen

Rituals in our lives provide us with structure. They give shape to that which is otherwise scattered and unimportant, and mark occasions that are significant in our existences here on earth. The rituals that are recurring ones give us a sense of reliance and endurance -- we find comfort in going "full circle." For many of us, a yearly ritual is the family reunion. To some, this is a drudgery. To me, it is a joy.

Our reunion, which is the reuniting of my mother's family (Wagoner-Hughes), is held every year on the first weekend in August. We meet on the grounds owned originally by one of my ancestors, John Michael Wagoner, who came from Germany supposedly to fight with the British, but, after arriving and discovering the reasoning behind the war, apparently decided to help the colonists. For his efforts, a large tract of land, located close to Fort Ashby, W.Va., was given to him. Our family has gathered yearly on that sight since about 1922. My cousin, also named John Wagoner, still lives and farms there.

There are many facets to this pilgrimage -- several "mini-rituals" -- such as my immediate family's Friday night (reunion eve) gathering at my aunt's house in Paw Paw, W.Va., where my siblings et al. converge for an evening of customary razzing. My husband John and I work on our traditional fruit-ball salad and my brother Don and his wife Suzie work on their broccoli-cauliflower thing. The kids run around like insane asylum escapees, causing my aunt to develop indigestion. In the midst of their ribbing, my brothers take their annual trek to the local convenience store for hand-dipped ice cream. This apparently helps to stretch their stomachs for the weekend of food.

The drive to the reunion grounds from nearly any direction ends up on a dirt road through forest and farm land -- that tract given to my ancestor. We curve around the dusty pathways, often seeing deer, turkeys, turtles, or other wildlife for the boys to shout about, if they're not terribly car sick. Finally we turn in to the gate of the grounds and I get a wave of that "coming full circle" sensation. Every year of my life I have made this trek. My mother has made this trek, my grandmother made this trek. I feel securely grounded in my positions as a daughter, sister, aunt, niece, cousin, and mother in this family.

We greet one another, unload, and sign the book. We've kept an attendance book since the beginning -- 203 names is the record. This year we had 174. We come from all states and all walks of life -- farmers, doctors, dancers, actors, singers, accountants, truck drivers, writers, teachers, etc. Regulars can track back over the years in the record books and see their handwriting get younger and younger. One of the books has a scrawling mark covering about two pages -- apparently I had been moved to express myself as early as age 2. It's fun to see where future husbands and wives first signed in. Two of my brothers' spouses came to the event in their teen years, as is evidenced by the date as well as by their girlish handwriting.

The kids dive into the traditional events -- hiking, quartz-hunting, water-battling. They get dirtier than ever before and love every second of it. After a few pathetic attempts to keep their babies wiped off, moms generally just shrug and give up. There is always dust and heat. The smell of mint pervades the grounds, where it grows rampant. Locusts whir and the occasional bawl of a cow echoes. The tables nearly sag under the weight of all that food. My mother's eight siblings are a familiar and comforting sight. Although time is passing, their voices are the same. I like to listen to them, all around me. They do like to talk.

Our gathering lasts two days, with a smaller number coming back on Sunday to eat corn that tastes better than any in the world and to have the annual hymn sing. I can remember being very small, sitting on my mom's lap with my head resting against her chest. Her voice, as she sang, was in my ear. Now I sing, holding my baby when he'll let me. I wonder if he'll remember.

I notice the absence of Mom's oldest sister, Reba, who died in 1994. An inevitable change, I suppose. I miss several people. My cousin Mary Largent, for whom I was named. My grandfather. My Aunt Ann. My cousin Sid. And this year, my cousin Courtland, who died at 31 last September. I talked with his mom and sister about his dying, which came after a long illness. They are strong people, along with his father and brother. Still sad, but happy to talk of him and pleased to show albums of pictures and of cards written by the scores of people who loved him.

We have a business meeting every year, and this time the president choked up a little as he pointed out a small tree that had been planted in memory of his parents. It suddenly dawned on me that although I feel grieved at the loss of Courtland today, my older relatives have experienced grief long before. They have lost their parents and aunts and uncles -- no longer do they hear them talk around them at the reunion. They remember them each year with as much love as I feel toward my elders now. They have had years of sadness but have pushed on, finding new joy in the people still here and finding ways to honor those who have gone on.

Life is a short cycle, really. We have no idea how long we will be here. Courtland's arc in this circle has already been completed, even though he was nearly two years my junior. He had his time, with which he did amazing and wonderful things -- explaining them would warrant a separate column. He was part of us and we loved him simply for that. As I followed my baby around the grounds, listening to people laugh at his antics and watching them fawn over him, I thought that Courtland's mom must have done the same thing. How recently it must seem to her that she chased after her child, wiping his dirty face and willingly accepting grimy hugs. And now her time with him is through, at least on earth. How short our time is, and how precious.

The arcs of our lives overlap one another's and we ride the tide of life, at times together and at times apart. The only lasting thing is faith, I think, and that alone keeps us afloat. Faith, joined by laughter and the sweetness of a baby's face. Blessed be the ties that bind.

McClive's Food For Thought

by Chef Francesco G. Pisano

Americans eat about 24 quarts of ice cream per year. The most popular flavors: vanilla, candy mix-ins (Heath bars, etc.) and chocolate.

When you crush fresh strawberries or peaches for shortcake or jam, use a pastry cutter. Its sharp edges work better than the flat bottom of a potato masher, and lots faster than a fork.

Polenta can stand in for biscuits or rice under a saute of chicken and vegetables. Flavor the polenta with chicken broth and herbs; let cool and cut into triangles. Sizzle chicken strips with onion, summer squash and bell pepper and spoon over.

Give mashed potatoes a Mediterranean flavor with some chopped black olives, a sprinkling of parsley and drizzle of olive oil.

SOS Music Fest Slated To Raise Funds For Station

The SOS Music Fest '97, a live concert featuring the talents of five local rock bands, will be held this Friday, August 8, from 7 to 11 p.m. at the Mt. Fresh Pavilion. The funds generated from the show will go to the Save Oakland Station organization, a local group of concerned citizens working to garner the Oakland train station and renovate it to become a centerpiece of Oakland's historical district.

The lineup for the evening's show, hosted by WKHJ disc jockey J.J. Devine, includes the bands Purge, Cordial, Feedback, Cucumber Force, and Klove.

Admission for the evening is $3 per person, with no charge for children under 10. Refreshments will be available. Precise Image Photography by Shari Harris will also be available during the evening to take photos of revelers.

People of all ages and their families are welcome to attend and enjoy the musical talents of local youth, and help raise funds to save Oakland Station.

Fire Damages Local Business And Apartment

A two-story combination boat repair and apartment building located along Pysell Crosscut Road near Deer Park was damaged by an accidental fire Sunday evening. The 6:30 p.m. blaze was discovered by the owner and occupant of the structure, Alden Perando, who operated Alden's Boat Repair on the ground floor below the apartment.

According to Steve Wendling, deputy fire marshal for the Office of the State Fire Marshal, the fire originated on the second floor of the 40-by-80' wood frame and block building in a storage room off the apartment. Perando told Wendling that he smelled smoke and, upon investigation, discovered the fire in the storage area. A friend called 911 while Perando used a portable fire extinguisher to control the fire until the arrival of responding fire fighters.

Responding to the scene were units and about 50 fire fighters from the Deer Park, Oakland, Deep Creek, and Kitzmiller VFDs, and the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad. There were no injuries reported.

Wendling determined that the fire was started by a lamp that was located too close to combustible material in the storage area. He estimated the damage to the structure and contents to be $4,000. The fire was extinguished in about 20 minutes, although units remained on the scene for over an hour.

Below, Civic Club Vice President Ann Rebele presents Sheila Hetrick, president of the Mountain Laurel Garden Club, with a check for $125. The Garden Club plans to use the funds to purchase annuals for the planting beds at the Ruth Enlow Library. The Civic Club uses the profits from its Autumn Glory antique show to make contributions to many organizations that serve the local community. Membership in the Civic Club is open to anyone who wishes to better the community through volunteer work, and interested persons may either attend the regular Civic Club luncheon meeting held on the last Tuesday of each month at Will O'The Wisp, or call 301-334-2180 for information.

Laura Mae Flanigan Celebrates 103rd Birthday In Deer Park

By Peggy Santamaria

It was 103 years ago on July 19, that Laura Mae Flanigan was born to Joseph and Elizabeth (Lewis) Friend in Deer Park.

It seems that the community must provide Mrs. Flanigan with health of body and of spirit, because she has chosen to live her long, active life right there in Deer Park. And her farm in that community has also nurtured her five children, seven grandchildren, and nine great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Flanigan worked her land for many years, bringing forth vegetables and berries from the soil. These she would transport them by horse and buggy to the Deer Park Hotel and sell them to the summer visitors staying there.

She made hay, raised crops, and took care of the farm and the family. Her skill at the home arts earned her the prize at the Garrett County Fair for churning butter. That was around 1926.

Her interests and activities took her beyond the farm. Her love for children coupled with her energy for life led her to a 50-year career as a Sunday school teacher at the Deer Park United Methodist Church.

This year for a quiet birthday celebration, family members took Mrs. Flanigan to the Deer Park Inn for dinner. "We didn't have a big party this year," her daughter, Betty Beckman, explained. "The family just came over for cake," she added.

Speaking on her mother's behalf Mrs. Beckman explained that much of her mother's vitality and longevity seem to result from the active and spiritual aspects of her life. "She has always lived a simple farm life," she said, "and she just loves children."

Does Mrs. Beckman handle the intruding questions of strangers for her mother because Mrs. Flanigan is frail and unable to get around? "Oh, no. She is still active. But she is hard to talk to because she won't wear her hearing aid," Mrs. Beckman explained.

After listening to people talk for 103 years, perhaps Laura Mae Flanigan has more than earned the right to tune them out when she so chooses.

Local Highways Scene Of Drug Arrests By GCSO

Several subjects were arrested recently by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office on charges of possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS).

On the night of August 1, deputies riding routine patrol on southbound Garrett Highway just north of Deep Creek Lake observed a black GMC van veering off onto the shoulder and back onto the highway several times.

When the deputies stopped the van at the tourist information booth, they noticed that the driver, Christopher Jesse Cadorette, 24, Lutherville, appeared to have glassy and bloodshot eyes. During the course of conversation with the Cadorette and his passenger, Rhonda Jean Emge, 24, also of Lutherville, deputies learned that there was marijuana in the vehicle. At the mention of a possible vehicle search, Cadorette produced a toiletry bag from the vehicle and opened a bottle of antiperspirant that contained seven marijuana cigarettes reportedly contained inside the empty bottle.

Both Cadorette and Emge were then placed under arrest and charged with possession of marijuana. The pair was subsequently released on their own recognizance.

A second incident on a Garrett County road led to another CDS on the following Sunday night.

Deputies patrolling eastbound Maryland Highway observed a bicycle without lights or proper reflectors cross the road immediately in front of them at Boiling Springs Road. The report states that the vehicle was almost struck by a second car traveling westbound on Maryland Highway.

After stopping the bicyclist, Brian Matthew Parker, 19, Oakland, at Sand Flat Road, deputies observed that his eyes appeared glassy and bloodshot, and that he had a bulge in his pants pocket, which Parker told them was a pocket knife.

During a subsequent patdown as part of a standard weapons search, the deputies discovered a pipe displaying the residue and odor of recently burnt marijuana, along with the pocket knife, which appeared to have been used to clean the pipe's screen.

Parker was then arrested and charged with possession of marijuana and possession of CDS paraphernalia. He was subsequently released on his own recognizance.

Open House, Coffee Hour Slated At GCC

An open house/coffee hour for any persons who would like to know more about Garrett Community College's programs and services has been scheduled for Thursday, Aug. 21, from 5 to 7 p.m. in the Continuing Education Building. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Planned by the college's admissions staff, this event will give those who attend an opportunity to meet with program directors and other faculty members who can answer questions about specific academic programs. There will also be an opportunity to get information about financial aid, career exploration, job placement, and other student services.

In addition to college personnel, members of the GCC Golden Achievers Club for nontraditional students will help to host the coffee hour. According to Joan Crawford, director of enrollment development, these adults will share their experiences as college students and encourage others to consider enrolling. "Many of our adult students are former Bausch and Lomb employees," Crawford said. "They have taken advantage of the funding opportunities for education available through the Western Maryland Consortium and are now enrolled in certificate and degree programs. We want to encourage others to do the same."

Anyone desiring further information about the open house/coffee hour may call Crawford at 301-387-3046.

KITZMILLER LIBRARY ADDING HOURS - When school opens this fall, the Kitzmiller branch of the Ruth Enlow Library will be adding two additional hours to its schedule. On Monday and Wednesday, the branch will open at 3 p.m. and remain open until 7 p.m. Pictured above "with more time on her hands," is Diane Kisner, branch manager at the library in Kitzmiller.

Outdoors enthusiasts don't seek freeways, they despise them. Certainly they will easily find the adventure experience they are looking for farther south in West Virginia. A north-south interstate will make it easy for them to escape the concrete, trucks, convenience stores, and burger joints of the "new" Garrett County. WE will have to pay to dispose of their trash, build new sewage plants, deal with chemical truck spills, and support the expense of their passing. What a deal; what a future.

Garrett County is a collectors' item of agricultural heritage, scenic beauty, and a way of life that visitors cry out for, and dream about when they get back home. Can we rise above the unnecessary lust for more, more, more, and protect what brought many of our families here in the first place?

We should protect the family farms, fields, wildlife, and forests, and forcefully make Trade Corridor supporters take their freeway fantasy elsewhere! We like it here, just the way it is. Can we trust the Planning Department to protect our future? They can't even address planning issues, initiate sensible county-wide zoning, or follow the Comprehensive Development Plan they helped to create. It will be a free-for-all of unplanned development that we will be unable to stop.

Route 220 would be a great alternative to 219. Allegany County needs help, and much industry already exists on that corridor to justify the need for a freeway. Seldom is the first solution or idea the best.

Time is running out. Thousands of citizen signatures and numerous letters can stop this absurd direction before we forever alter the scenic beauty that brought most of us here. If folks really want freeways and strip malls, perhaps they should move to the city.

Sincerely,
Crede Calhoun

Sisler's Blanks Western Garrett To Win Second Hot Stove Title

It was an all-Garrett County finish in the 1997 season of the Hot Stove Baseball League, as the league's only two teams from the Mountaintop battled it out in the finals to determine the league champion. The team sponsored by Sisler Lumber Company, which was the defending champion, maintained its grip on the title by blanking Western Garrett in two straight games of a best-of-three series, 5-0 and 9-0.

Sisler's earned a spot in the finals by winning a best-of-three series over Barton Mining, while Western Garrett ousted Frostburg First United in the other semi-final. Sisler's defeated Barton Mining in the third game of that series on Friday, 6-1, in Accident and Western Garrett edged First United, 8-6, the same day in Frostburg in the deciding game of that playoff.

In the win over Barton Mining, B.A. Sisler led Sisler Lumber's offense, as he drove in a pair of runs with two doubles and also teamed with Jeff Carr on the mound to pitch a four-hitter.

The game was scoreless until the third inning when Sisler's recorded three runs. Carr pitched the first four innings, allowed two hits, and struck out four. Sisler tossed the final three innings and also gave up two hits and fanned four.

Sisler's finished with 11 hits, with Levi Schmuck recording two singles and an RBI, Carr, Adam Brenneman, and Josh Hook each providing a pair of singles, and Paul Beitzel contributing a double.

Sean Mowbray rapped a double for Barton Mining, which finished the season with a 15-7 mark.

Western Garrett put five runs on the board in the top of the first inning against top-seeded First United and then kept the home team from ever gaining the lead, even though the Garrett County team was edged in hitting by an 8-7 margin.

Mark Wolf led Western's offense with a triple and two singles, while Tim Umbel hit a pair of singles and had an RBI.

The five runs in the first inning were recorded via run-producing singles by Ryan Savage and Brant Green, two walks, and an error on a bases-loaded squeeze bunt by Jeremy Frazee, which allowed three runs.

Getting credit for the win on the mound was Keith Artice, who relieved Green in the fourth inning.

Garrett Yates, who took the loss on the mound, led his team's hitting, as he smacked two doubles and a single for two RBI. Johnny Koppel added two singles and Jimmy Johnson hit an RBI single.

First United completed its season with a 15-4 record, while Western Garrett advanced to the finals with a 16½-4½ mark.

It was the outstanding pitching of Jeff Carr that led Sisler Lumber to its 5-0 win over Western Garrett in the first game of the final series Monday evening at Northern High School. Carr went the distance, allowed just two hits, struck out four, and walked only two. He did not allow a single Western Garrett batter to reach second base, and he received flawless play from his eight fellow players on defense.

The pitching effort on the part of Western Garrett starter Brant Green and relievers Keith Artice and Ryan Savage was almost as impressive, as the three allowed only three singles. But a walk, a single, and a couple of errors in the bottom of the first inning allowed Sisler's to put four of its five runs on the board.

Paul Beitzel drew a walk to lead off that frame for Sisler's and then moved to third on a throwing error of Carr's bunt. Adam Brenneman then singled to plate Beitzel and Carr. Levi Schmuck was then awarded first base when he was struck by a pitch, Brenneman scored on an error of a fly ball hit by Josh Hook, and Taylor Glotfelty followed with a ground out which scored Schmuck.

The only other run of the game was recorded in the fourth inning when Beitzel scored after getting a single.

Brenneman finished with two singles and two RBI for Sisler's, while Western Garrett's two hits were singles by Tim Umbel and Ryan Savage.

Last night's deciding game, played at Friendsville, remained scoreless until the top of the third, when Sisler's put five runs on the board. The winners finished with a total of a dozen hits, while Josh Hook had an impressive night on the mound for Sisler's, as he yielded just three hits, struck out three, walked five, and allowed only one runner to reach third base.

Sisler's five-run third started when Paul Beitzel reached on an infield error and Carr and Andy Brenneman each drew walks to load the bases. Schmuck then rapped a two-run double and, following a walk to Hook, Sisler hit a two-run single. The fifth run was scored later in the inning by Trey Brenneman, who had singled.

RBI singles by Hook and Sisler in the fifth inning made it 7-0, and a two-run single by Glotfelty in the seventh concluded the scoring.

Sisler finished with three singles, Schmuck hit a double and a single for two RBI, Carr added two singles, and Hook and Glotfelty each hit run-producing singles.

Western Garrett's three hits off Hook included two singles by Mark Wolf and one by P.J. Workman.

The victory gave Sisler's an overall record of 20-3 and avenged a regular-season loss to Western Garrett, which finished at 16½-6½. Along with two straight league titles, Sisler's has amassed a two-season record of 39-8.

"This team works very hard and really plays like a team," stated Coach Ed Carr of Sisler Lumber. "The players all help and support each other, which is what teamwork is all about."

Oaks Defeat Stangel's To Claim '97 Pen-Mar Title

After dropping a 5-4 decision to Stangel's in the first game of a semi-final, best-of-three series in the Pen-Mar Baseball League playoffs in Cumberland on Saturday, the Oakland Oaks came roaring back Sunday afternoon to embarrass the Cumberland team in game two, 23-5, and then hang on for a 5-4, extra-innings victory in the third and deciding game. The results propel the Oaks into the league best-of-three finals against Fairmont this weekend.

Oakland entered the playoffs as the top-ranked team in the league with a 17-5 record, but Stangel's also had a successful regular season with a 15-9 mark. After taking a 1-0 lead in the first inning, Oakland fell behind 3-1 when Stangel's recorded three runs in the bottom of the third. The Oaks came back to knot the score at 3-3 with two runs in the sixth, as Aaron Taylor and Bill Phillips each singled, Taylor then came home on a sacrifice fly by J.D. Hawkins, and Phillips scored on an error.

Myrle Grose hit a triple in the bottom of the seventh for Stangel's and then scored on a balk to make it 4-3. Oakland's Jason Sweitzer answered with a solo homer in the eighth to tie the score again, but Stangel's won the game with a run in the bottom of the eighth when Chad Roy doubled and Brian Snurr knocked him home with another double.

Gross led Stangel's 14-hit effort with a triple, a double, and single, Roy finished with a double and two singles, and Bobby Uhl added a double and a single.

Ryan Folk and Aaron Taylor each hit two singles for Oakland.

Going the distance and recording the win on the mound was Ryan Sawyers, who gave up seven hits, walked four, and fanned eight.

The 23-5 rout by Oakland in the first game on Sunday featured a nine-run third inning, a seven-run fourth, and a four-run sixth, plus a total of 14 hits. Jeremy Fitzwater hit a grand slam, while Ernie Galusky finished with three singles, two RBI, and scored three times. Taylor hit a bases-loaded triple and a single for four RBI.

Earning the win on the mound was Kent Taylor, who went the distance, allowed seven hits, struck out seven, and walked two.

Dave Deter had two singles and an RBI for Stangel's, while Grose provided a run-producing single.

The Oaks were out-hit in the third game by a 14-5 margin, but made the best of their situation while Stangel left too many runners stranded. Stangel's was just three outs away from winning the series after scoring two runs in the top of the ninth and taking a 4-2 lead, but the Oaks answered with two runs and sent the game into extra innings.

Oakland won the contest in the bottom of the 11th, after Josh Woods led off with a walk. He went to

Oakland Team Wins Tri-Towns 9-10 Tourney

Yet another baseball honor was captured by yet another team of all-stars representing the Oakland Little League, as a team of local 9- and 10-year-olds traveled to Westernport recently and won the annual Tri-Towns World Series Tournament. The 11-12 championship was also garnered by an Oakland team, as reported in last week's issue of The Republican.

Eight teams were competing in the 9-10 division, and Oakland opened its trek to the title by defeating Frostburg, 7-4, with Scott Wildesen earning the win on the mound.

Oakland dropped into the losers' bracket in game two, as the local players let a 4-0 lead slip away and eventually lost in eight innings, 7-4.

Oakland then breezed to a 13-3 victory over PVAAY, with Corey Bosley the winning pitcher.

A re-match with Frostburg was the next outing, and Oakland earned a hard-fought win by scoring four runs in the top of the sixth inning. Wildesen was again the winning pitcher.

The Oaklanders then faced the Keyser all-stars and found themselves in a pitchers' dual, but Oakland again came from behind by scoring three runs in the sixth inning and recording a 6-4 win, which sent them into the championship round with PVAAX of Cresaptown.

Because the Cresaptown players were undefeated to that point in the tournament, Oakland had to defeat them twice. They won the first game, 6-1, as Corey Tressler fired a one-hitter and struck out 12 batters.

Oakland carried the momentum into the second game with PVAAX and immediately took control by scoring seven runs in the first inning. Wildesen allowed only two Cresaptown hits and he struck out a tournament-record 15 batters.

Wildesen received the Best Pitcher, Most Tournament Strike-Outs, and MVP awards, while Aaron Louden received the Golden Glove Infielder award and Corey Tressler received a trophy for hitting the most doubles. Wildesen, Louden, Tressler, Bosley, and Brad Reese were all named to the All-Tournament team.

Coaches for the Oakland team were Ed Wildesen and Jim Bosley, who are head coaches of the programs at Garrett Community College and Southern High School, respectively. Steve Reese was the team manager.

LEAGUE CHAMPS, RUNNERS-UP - Pictured above are the members of the Knights of Pythias team who recently captured the Oakland Little League championship (junior division) with a dramatic, come-from-behind, extra-inning 10-9 victory over the team sponsored by State Farm Insurance, pictured below. K of P trailed through much of the game, but rallied to tie the score in the sixth and force an extra inning. Toby Stoner and Brandon Louden led K of P's offensive effort, while Matt Skidmore recorded the game-winning hit. Dan Vagnetti paced State Farm's hitting performance. Pictured in the front row above, from left: Shane Latta, Travis Sanders, Aaron Louden, Chris Hayhurst, Julia Bosley, Matt Skidmore, and Andrew Van Bogelan. Oaks To Play In Semi-Pro State Tourney

The Oakland Oaks, who will play this weekend for the championship of the Pen-Mar Baseball League, will also be in action next Wednesday evening by hosting Boonesboro in an opening round game of the Maryland State Semi-Professional League playoffs. The Oaks earned a spot in the state event by finishing first in the regular season of the Pen-Mar League.

Oakland will host Boonsboro, winner of the Blue Ridge Baseball League, under the lights at Garrett Community College in next Wednesday's game, which is slated to get underway at 8 p.m. The winner of the contest will be the Western Maryland Regional champion and advance to Harford Community College on Saturday, Aug. 16, as a state semi-finalist. The semi-final game will begin at 3 p.m. that day and the championship match-up will be that evening at 7 p.m.

Garrett County players on the Oakland team who are also currently playing in collegiate programs are: Jason Sweitzer, Swanton, Davis & Elkins College; Bob Fritz and Ryan Folk, both of Grantsville and both at Frostburg State University; Jeremy Fitzwater and Joey DiSimone, both of Oakland, J.D. Hawkins, Wheeling, W.Va., and Jason Lantz, Buckhannon, W.Va., all at Garrett Community College; and Josh Woods, Mtn. Lake Park, at West Virginia Wesleyan College.

The public is invited to attend next Wednesday's game at GCC.

Soccer Referee Class, Re-Cert Set Aug. 16-17

There will be a soccer referee clinic for the training of new referees, as well as the re-certification of current referees, held the weekend of August 16-17, according to Ned Holloway, a spokesman for the referees of the Mountaintop Soccer Association. The Saturday, Aug. 16, session, which will run from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., will be held in Room 306 of the Continuing Education building at Garrett Community College, McHenry, while Sunday's session will be held in the Sitzmark Room at Will O'the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake.

According to certified instructors Wayne Wray and Bruce Steele, current referees need only attend the morning hours of the Saturday session. A complete review, including 1997 law changes, will be followed by the recertification test.

Those seeking certification as referees for the first time should plan to attend both days.

Holloway stated that the MSA is in need of additional referees, and added that this would also be an opportunity for parents/students from the American Youth Soccer Organization's league in the Grantsville area to receive FIFA referee training.

"The MSA really needs some new referees," Holloway said. "It's only a two-day course to get certified, it's a great way to learn more about the game, and it's a fun way to earn some extra money."

The MSA pays all of its referees for league games, which will get underway later this month.

New referee candidates planning to attend the Aug. 16-17 clinic are asked to telephone Holloway at 301-334-3724 (W) or 301-387-9411 (H), or Don Sincell at 301-334-3963 (W) or 301-334-3650 (H).

SOFTBALL CHAMPS - The Oakland New Car Dealers girls' softball team was the top group in the Oakland Junior Girls' Softball League's regular season. The girls earned an impressive record of 11 wins and only two defeats. Kneeling left to right are Sara Cavalier, Samantha Cavalier, Melissa Durst, Brittney Craver, Corey Lewis, and Becky Shipe. Standing in the same order are Chelsea Remley, Coach Frank Lewis, Amanda King, Jennifer Filsinger, Holly Harris, Coach Rodney Durst, Brandi Craver, Jessica Fitzwater, Coach Josh Durst, and Megan Bernard.

second base when the next batter was hit by a pitch, moved to third on a double steal, and scored the winning run on a wild pitch.

Sweitzer recorded three of Oakland's five hits - a double and two singles - while Woods contributed the other two, a double and a single.

Dave Deter hit three doubles and two singles for three RBI to pace Stangel's offense. Jeff Barclay and Uhl each finished with two singles.

Barclay, who worked the first eight innings, allowed only four hits. Justin Foutz, who took the mound in the ninth for the Oaks, retired the side in the ninth, got three up and three down in the 10th, and retired the first two batters in the 11th. He allowed a walk before getting the final out.

Fairmont earned a spot in the finals by topping Romney in the other semi-final match-up, which also took three games to decide. The Oaks will play the first game of the final series at 3 p.m. this Saturday at Fairmont. The second game will get underway Sunday at 1 p.m. at Garrett Community College. If necessary, a third game will immediately follow. The public is invited.

Southern Ram Physicals Set For Wednesday

Southern High School athletes who plan to participate in football, soccer, cross country, golf, girls' volleyball, and cheerleading this fall should report to the school gymnasium next Wednesday, Aug. 13, to receive physicals, according to Steve Cosner, athletic director.

Physicals for football players will be given on the following schedule: seniors at 5:30 p.m., juniors at 6 p.m, sophomores at 6:30 p.m., and freshmen at 7 p.m. All other male athletes will receive their physicals from 7 to 8 p.m. and all female athletes will receive theirs from 8 to 9 p.m. The free physicals will be provided by Dr. Dan Miller and his staff.

Prospects must bring with them a physical form that has the parental side completed. The forms are available from all coaches and in the school office during morning hours.

Cosner said that athletes who miss this opportunity to receive a physical must obtain their own prior to being allowed to begin practice for the 1997 season.

Area Speedway Review

Exciting was the only way to describe the racing action last Friday evening at Interstate 79 Speedway. The West Virginia oval saw side-by-side racing in all divisions. In the late model division Frank Wilson Sr. jumped to the early lead but was challenged lap-after-lap by Denny Chamberlain, Gary Dalton and Chuck Harper. The four-car battle became a five-car battle as Butch McGill joined in on lap 2. Wilson relinquished the lead to McGill on lap 8. McGill and Dalton then battled until lap 24 when they came on a slow car. Dalton decided to go high in turns three and four and used the cushion of the track to pass McGill at the flag. Dalton picked up the checkered flag by barely a bumper with McGill having to settle for second. Chamberlain was third followed by Danny Hamrick (in one of his best runs this year), and by Nolan Dalton, Wilson, Mike Hawkins, Mark Myers, Tim Harsh and Kevin Jones, who rounded out the top 10. Heats were won by Wilson, Chamberlain and Dalton.

In the semi-lates, Dave Groves was filling in for an ailing Jerry Haseleu and he picked up the feature win in the #5. Doug Horton was right on Groves bumper for all 20 laps of the feature. Horton held on for second and Scott Miles was third. Kevin Wolfe, Birch Hare Jr., Rod Rovello, Chris Smith, Jon Li Messenger, Shaun Poling and L.C. Powers rounded out the top 10. Heats were won by Rovello and Groves.

Steve Cook led wire to wire in the McDonald's McModifieds. Shawn Davis was second, with Ron Parrish third, Roy Gibson fourth and Charles Cochran fifth. Rounding out the top 10 were Jason Ammons, Gary Cooper, Delmas Whiteman, David Gump, and Joe Clutter. Davis, Cook and Parrish were the heat winners.

The early lead in the pure stocks was held by Pat Frazier; however, on lap 3 veteran driver Jim Byers passed by and went on to cross the finish line first. Mike Lewis, of Oakland, came from his eighth starting spot to pick up second and Gary Tonkery came from twelfth to finish third. Rounding out the top 10 were Ivan Wamsley, James Bendishaw, Paul Watson, Gary Yost, Jay Martin, Mark Bell, and Jeff Kesling. Heat winners were Pat Frazier, Troy Frazier, and Bendishaw.

Steve Mason started on the pole of the dwarf car feature and led the first 5 laps. Terry Hall managed to get by on lap 6 and went on to pick up another checkered flag. Mason held on for second, with Greg Shingleton, Bob Bolin and Gary Sisson rounding out the top five. The heat was won by Mason.

This week, racing will be sponsored by Park Tours and they will be giving away an all expense paid trip to the NASCAR race at Bristol this month, along with several other prizes. It will also be bike races for the kids (helmets required), and some special kid will leave with a new bicycle.

Garrett County Outdoors

By Robert Yonke

Folks in the know are taking some nice size trout from Deep Creek Lake with meal worms and night crawler combinations. As is typical for trout in lake situations, these trout are continuously on the move. At this time of year, most success will come in waters of about 22 feet in the colder (read deeper) sections. A technique relayed by Ray Wharton (and, he attributes it to Bill Teter) to drop a night crawler below a slip bobber. The crawler is simply hooked once through and then a meal worm is placed on the exposed tip of the hook. If you can find the right spot, hang on.

HOPPERS ARE HOPPING

Most trout stream fishermen abandon their sport in July and August, but that doesn't have to be if the right techniques are applied at the right time. In fact, Garrett County's three tailwater fisheries produce reasonably good fishing year-round. Fly fishermen can expect some success on the North Branch, Yough, and Savage rivers using terrestrials such as hoppers, ants, and beetles in the morning and evening and midges toward mid-day.

Allen Noland of Spring Creek Outfitters related recent success with small brookies on Lost Land Run. He was using a #16 elk hair caddis and getting a lot of action. He recommends the section of the stream above Cascade Falls to the confluence of the North Prong and South Prong branches. He added that he is looking forward to the fall for a rebirth of good fishing with the flying ant hatches on the Yough and fall caddis and blue wing olives coming in mid-September.

INDOOR SHOOTING MATCHES

Garrett County shooting enthusiasts will be glad to hear of regularly scheduled shooting matches being held every Saturday evening at a recently constructed indoor shooting facility on Shady Dell Road near Gortner.

Ray Wharton of R & S Enterprises alerted us to a converted livestock facility where the .22 rimfire and shotgun matches are taking place. The range is 91 feet and match shooting is done off sandbags at regulation targets. The organizers of the matches are looking for more shooters interested in both telescopic sight and open sight events. Matches begin at 6 p.m. and usually last until about 10 p.m. So far, competition has been limited to rimfire rifles and shotguns; but, handgun competition will be added if there is enough interest.

Also, a youth league is planned for Sundays with instruction offered as well as competition. Again, interested parties are invited to come out and shoot or just watch. To get to the range, take 219 South to Gortner, turn left (east) across from Shorty's Bar, and go to Mason School Road. Turn right here and continue on to Shady Dell Road, turn left, and proceed for about 1.5 miles. Watch for signs. Ray will be happy to provide more information. You can call him at 301-334-4220.

NEW RIFLE RANGE OPEN

Larger caliber riflemen who haven't visited the new state-constructed range along New Germany Road in the Savage Forest should. This is a first class, 100-yard installation with 12 shooting positions under roof. The range is under supervision of the DNR and day passes cost $3. An annual permit is $20. Both are available from the park office on New Germany Road. Calibers up to .50 are permitted and the target distances are adjustable. Anyone planning to use this range to sight-in their deer rifles would best do it early, as I expect it will get quite busy as hunting season approaches. Hours are from 8:30 a.m. to dusk and anyone under 18 must be accompanied by an adult. Range rules are posted and will be enforced by park rangers. This shooting range has been partially developed through funds from the collection of hunting license fees. State and local governments, private businesses, and citizens have contributed the remainder.

SHARPEN YOUR EYE FOR FALL ARCHERY

It isn't too early for bow hunters to start honing their skills for the coming bow season. The best archers never really put their bows away; rather, they are flinging arrows all year. But even these folk start to concentrate a little more now. Dan Milavec tells that his outdoor 3-D range is getting a regular workout and sales of targets are picking up. Speaking of targets, I really like the soft bag targets for practicing. The arrows are easily removed and the targets are virtually impervious to weather.

STAY AWAY FROM THIS PLANT

Perhaps the best known of plants with the ability to attack humans is poison ivy. Poison ivy, common to Garrett County, can cause an itching, spreading rash on contact. Even burning poison ivy isn't the answer, as contact with the smoke is enough to cause a reaction in some people. The best defense is to avoid its cluster of three glossy leaves. Poison ivy can be found along the ground or climbing large trees.

Sailboat Racing

On Deep Creek Lake

RAINSTORM ON SUNDAY MAKES FOR EXCITING SAILBOAT RACE

By Dan Muss

The weather on Saturday did not look promising. It was cloudy with rain imminent and the forecast called for a 30% chance of thunderstorms for both Saturday and Sunday. But we put on our wetgear and put out from the sailboat anchorage to get to the starting line. In retrospect the boat did not feel right, but everything looked ok.

We got off to a great start in the first race, but in a few minutes the entire Flying Scot A Fleet passed us going twice as fast, and soon half of the B Fleet did the same. We were just not moving! We finally rounded the windward mark onto a reach and, as I pulled up the centerboard to half position, the boat gave a lurch forward. Then the penny dropped. We've been having lots of lake grass accumulating near shore this year and we must have picked up a clump of it on our centerboard as we sailed out of the moorings.

Later, during lunch, I heard from two other skippers who had similar experiences, except I think they discovered their problem sooner than I did. I'm not sure why we have this problem this year, but I'll bet it's interfering to some extent with motorboat propellers, too.

Leaving the anchorage for the second race, I had my crew pull up the centerboard all the way into its trunk as soon as we got out into deep water to clear the board. I also luffed up and went out onto the aft deck to make sure the rudder was clear. I advise all boaters to be alert for this problem.

For the second race on Saturday the sun came out and the wind came up. It was very gusty and very shifty. We got a poor start, but the boat was moving well and we stayed up with the fleet and enjoyed the sailing.

On Sunday the weather again looked threatening, but there was a good breeze from the northwest. We fouled a boat at the start and had to do penalty turns. But with the good breeze, we weren't too far back.

As we sailed up the lake toward the Glendale bridge, a great black cloud appeared in the northwest. I thought that this may be the end of this race, but there were no flashes of lightening and no rumbles of thunder, so we kept going. We rounded this windward mark and set our spinnaker with some trepidation. The storm hit with heavy rain and winds about 20 knots, but still no lightening, so on we went.

Then a problem arose. We were headed south on a port tack, but we had to round Thousand Acres Point and sail east through the slot between Thousand Acres and Turkey Neck. At this point we were alongside Al and Marlene Riebel, who had not set a spinnaker, but were using their pole to "wing" their jib. We could not make it around the point coming up without the danger of an accidental jibe. In wind like we had at that moment, an accidental jibe could demast us. So I yelled as loud as I could to Riebel that I was jibing to starboard and put the hem over; I was gratified to see Riebel do the same.

I did what is called an "S" jibe. That is where you "sail by the lee," let the wind catch the sail on the other side, and swing the boom over. But you keep heading up on the new tack so the wind then catches the sail on the new "other side" to prevent it from hitting the stays. Then you can bear off on the new downwind tack. Looking from above, the boat will have traced an "S" shaped path during this maneuver.

We continued our wild ride to the leeward mark, took the spinnaker down without incident, rounded the mark, and started to beat up to the finish line. But the storm passed over and the wind died. With the lake still churned up from the storm, we bobbed about and lost helmway. Then a breeze came back up and we inched our way to the line and finished fourth.

DNR Announces '97 Season For Canada Geese

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary John R. Griffin has announced that the department has forwarded its selected hunting season dates and bag limits for resident Canada geese (early season only) and webless migratory game birds to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (USFWS). These proposals were presented to the public for comment in March and have been approved by the Wildlife Advisory Commission.

The season dates and bag limits were selected by DNR's Wildlife and Heritage Division within frameworks established by the USFWS. The federal frameworks include the maximum allowable season length, bag limits, and earliest opening and latest closing dates. In an effort to inform Maryland hunters of seasons and bag limits in a timely fashion, DNR is announcing the proposals made to the USFWS. Should there be any changes in the final version, DNR will notify the public via news media.

"Maryland's population of resident or locally produced Canada geese continues to grow and now totals 50,000 to 60,000 birds," Secretary Griffin said. "The early September season provides recreational opportunity, helps slow the growth of the population, and assists landowners in resolving some nuisance problems.

"Along with other states in the [Atlantic] flyway," the secretary added, "we are seeking ways to harvest resident Canada geese without affecting the migrant Canada goose population."

As the resident Canada goose population has grown, problems associated with the birds have grown as well. In some areas, flocks of resident geese have become a nuisance to landowners and have caused damage to agricultural crops. A winter season for resident Canada geese in the western part of the state is also being considered.

The 1997 resident Canada goose early season features a later ending date in the western part of the state. "The season dates are set to avoid migrant Canada geese which start to arrive on Maryland's Eastern Shore from their Quebec breeding grounds in late September," said Joshua Sandt, director of DNR's Wildlife and Heritage Division. "Very few migrant Canada geese visit the western part of the state, so extending the closing date in this area will not affect the migrant population."

The 1997 resident Canada goose season will be held September 2-15 in Anne Arundel, Calvert, Caroline, Cecil, Charles, Dorchester, Harford, Kent, Queen Anne's, St. Mary's, Somerset, Talbot, Wicomico, Worcester, and portions of Prince George's, Howard, and Baltimore counties west of Interstate 95. The season will run September 2-25 in Allegany, Carroll, Frederick, Garrett, Montgomery, Washington, and portions of Baltimore, Howard, and Prince George's counties west of Interstate 95.

Hunting resident Canada geese in early September requires different tactics from traditional fall and winter hunting. Hunters need to scout areas to determine feeding and flight patterns and obtain permission where needed. September is a popular time for other water-related recreation and hunters are reminded to use good judgment to avoid areas where conflicts may occur.

In addition to a valid Maryland hunting license, every hunter must have in their possession a Migratory Bird Harvest Information Program (HIP) Permit, federal duck stamp, and state waterfowl stamp. Possession of a HIP permit is required of all hunters that pursue migratory birds, including those who are exempt from possessing an annual hunting license (i.e., landowners and lifetime hunting licensees). No special permits are required to hunt in the September Canada goose season.

The free HIP permit and state waterfowl stamp are available at Maryland sport license agents and DNR Regional Service Centers. Hunters may obtain federal duck stamps at U.S. Post Offices and National Wildlife Refuges or order them by calling 1-800-STAMP-24, a toll-free, 24-hour ordering system that accepts Visa and Mastercard.

Hunters are encouraged to assist DNR waterfowl managers in the evaluation of the early Canada goose season by reporting federal bird bands from banded geese that they bag. Hunters can report federal bird bands by calling toll-free 1-800-327-BAND (2263). The toll-free number is operational 24 hours a day. Reporting banded birds enables waterfowl managers to monitor the size of the harvest and other population parameters critical to sound waterfowl management, according to Griffin.

The 1997-98 proposed seasons and bag limits for mourning dove, rails, and snipe are essentially the same as in 1996-97, with only minor changes to maximize hunting opportunities within available frameworks.

Traditionally, the state's dove season has been conducted under a split format and that will continue this year. The first portion of the season will start Monday, September 1, and con-

Tritt And Stambaugh Repeat As Champions In Western Maryland

"WE ARE THE CHAMPIONS (AGAIN!)" - The top singles winners in the 76th annual Western Maryland Tennis Championships, played this past week in Mtn. Lake Park, were defending champions Sarah Tritt and Chris Stambaugh, who won the women's and men's open titles for the second straight year. Tritt, now a resident of New Tripoli, Pa., is a former resident of Mtn. Lake Park, while Stambaugh hails from Martinsburg, W.Va.

It isn't often that weather conditions remain excellent throughout the four-day Western Maryland Tennis Tournament, but with the exception of a brief rain shower on Saturday, such was the case for the 76th playing of the now legendary tourney at the Mtn. Lake Park Tennis Club courts and the Ferguson private courts.

Over 100 players from Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, Ohio, Pennsylvania, North Carolina, Hawaii, and Washington, D.C., participated in the event, which is the oldest clay court tournament in the Mid-Atlantic Section and one of the oldest continuous United States Tennis Association sanctioned tournaments in the nation.

Results of the tournament, as reported by tourney referee Dave DeGrafft, showed that both the men's and women's open champions from last year successfully defended their titles. Chris Stambaugh, Martinsburg, W.Va., defeated Harris Rosenblatt of Kensington in the men's final, 6-2, 7-6(5), while Sarah Tritt, New Tripoli, Pa., and a former resident of Mtn. Lake Park, defended her women's singles title by stopping Marina Getz of Cumberland, 6-3, 7-5.

Ken Barnas, LaPlata, defeated Marvin Rauchbach, Chapel Hill, N.C., in the finals of the men's 35 championship, 7-6(3), 6-3.

Winning the men's 45 singles title was Bill Moldoch, Annapolis, who defeated Cal Simmons, Alexandria, Va., in a tough finals match, 7-5, 1-6, 6-3.

Arlie Eddins, Honolulu, Hawaii, who would have received the longest distance award for the tourney if there were one, won the men's 55 singles championship by sweeping Jack Fraser of Clarksburg in the finals, 6-1, 6-1.

Capturing the men's 65 singles trophy was Charles Atherton, Chevy Chase, who defeated K. Arichandran, Bethesda, in the final match, 6-3, 6-4.

A new senior men's division, for players ages 75 and over, was added to the tourney this year, and the first title was won by Dick Blakinger, Lancaster, Pa., who topped long-time Western Maryland entrant and former champion Doyle Royal, Bethesda, in a long three-set match, 4-6, 6-0, 6-1.

The men's open doubles title was earned by the team of Harris Rosenblatt, runner-up in the men's open singles, and Ned Scherer, McLean, Va., who stopped the team of David Eisenstein, Cincinnati, and Rick Satterlee, Timonium, in the final match, 6-2, 6-2.

Defending champions Dot Hill, Chambersburg, Pa., and Virginia Stayman, Hagerstown, retained their women's open doubles title by rolling over the team of Karen Creek, Williamsport, and Alva Harsh, Hagerstown, in the championship match, 6-1, 6-0.

Taking the men's 35 doubles event was the team of Ken Barnes and Bill Moldoch, who topped the brother duo of Chuck Barnes, Dunkirk, and Bob Barnes, Silver Spring, 6-4, 6-3.

The men's 45 doubles championship was won by the team of Ned Scherer and Cal Simmons, who edged the team of Arlie Eddins and Jay Franklin, McLean, Va., in the finals, 6-4, 7-6(4).

Winning the men's 60 doubles division were Jack Fraser and Kent Parker, Fairmont, W.Va., who defeated the team of Ademar Byl, Reston, Va., and Dave DeGrafft, Mtn. Lake Park, 6-3, 6-1.

A new doubles division was the men's 70, which was captured by the team of Raffael Bisconti, Bethesda, and Russell Fink, Annapolis, who were awarded the title when the team of Elton Suter, Baltimore, and Kile Williams, Cockeysville, had to default because of an injury sustained by Suter.

The mixed doubles champions were a husband and wife from Hagerstown, Abe and Virginia Stayman, who recorded a 7-5, 6-3 win over Tony Lindsey and Julie Nielsen of Chapel Hill, N.C., in the finals.

Tournament officials, including Ned Holloway, tourney director; Kathie Smith, tournament secretary; and Nan Gangler and Kathy Johnson, assistant tournament secretaries, noted their appreciation to Grand Central Station, Oakland, for its donation of prizes; Stewart Funeral Home for providing tents; Tips Up Tennis Shop for the donation of tennis balls; Darryl Gregory and Melvin Rexrode for preparation and maintenance of the courts before and during the tournament; and the numerous volunteers who assisted with preparations and hosted the various social events connected with the tournament.

DOUBLES WINNERS In the 76th annual Western Maryland Tennis Championships are pictured here, as doubles competition included men's and women's open divisions, mixed doubles, and several other men's divisions, based upon age of the participants. Pictured above left with Mtn. Lake Park Tennis Club presenters Ted Gibbs, left, and Ned Holloway, right, are the men's open doubles winners, Harris Rosenblatt of Kensington, second from left, and Ned Scherer, McLean, Va. Above center are the mixed doubles winners Bob and Virginia Stayman, Hagerstown, with presenters Elizabeth Gibbs, far left, and Kathie Smith, second from right. Above right are women's doubles winners Dot Hill, Chambersburg, Pa., and Virginia Stayman with presenter Patrice Tritt, left. Below left are presenters Marlene and Ted Gibbs with men's 45 doubles winners Ned Scherer, McLean, Va., and Cal Simmons, Alexandria, Va. Below center, Ned Holloway, center, presents a cup to Ken Barnas, LaPlata, and Bill Moldoch, Annapolis, winners of the men's 35 doubles title. Below right, Jay Clark presents awards to Jack Fraser, Clarksburg, W.Va., and Kent Parker, Fairmont, W.Va., winners of the men's 60 doubles championship.

Grant Approved For Second Year Of Export Prog.

The Appalachian Region Commission (ARC) has approved a $176,476 grant to the Tri-County Council to finance the second year of a program designed to expand exports by Western Maryland businesses, according to press releases issued this week from Congressman Roscoe Bartlett and Senators Paul Sarbanes and Barbara Mikulski. The money will fund the continuation of the International Trade Assistance Center.

According to the elected officials' releases, the ARC funds will be matched by a $44,800 grant from the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development for a total of $176,476.

The International Trade Assistance Center was developed as a cooperative venture between the Maryland Office of International Trade and the Tri-County Council of Western Maryland. The main objective of the center is to assist area businesses in international marketing, market research, and export financing.

"Western Maryland's commercial sector has tremendous export potential," Sarbanes said. "The center and our comprehensive trade strategy for the region is beginning to harness this potential -- which translates directly into jobs."

The funds are to be used to bolster the international framework established in the first year for businesses throughout Garrett, Allegany, and Washington counties, and to help the program become self-sufficient. Second year initiatives are to include market awareness, technical assistance for existing exporters, new technology demonstrations, product promotion, export financing, and the establishment of an international business network.

"This is another example of how the ARC works as a partner with local communities to maximize economic development opportunities," Bartlett said.

"This represents great progress for the Western Maryland trade initiative," Mikulski stated. "It means jobs now and jobs for the future."

es. Extracting from our experience with Corridor H (a similar, but east-west, proposal in W.Va.), we find over and over that the huge majority of people are opposed to this kind of project. On a personal level, I believe that we will see the death of many small towns in both states."

CARE reports that it is currently interviewing many individuals. "Delegate Edwards has been helpful. He agreed that the overall concept of a new freeway is complex, and should be examined closely by the public," said Craig Speicher, also a member.

Speicher graphically depicted "environmental devastation in the name of progress" in a short story, "Gone With The Wind," published in The Republican (July 24). He said that, although the story was presented as fiction, it was based upon his real-life experiences involving the construction of Interstate 48 (now I-68) through Grantsville.

"Environmental rape," said Speicher, "is easily rationalized by the illusion of big bucks; in this case, federal highway pork. Just look at what happened in Allegany County. Their government trashed and cashed in their environment for a garbage pit. Whatever money they gained from that deal will probably disappear within one or two decades. But the poison will be there forever. Pity the children downstream, and thank the good Lord for the continental divide (protecting Garrett County waters). CARE is not interested in, nor invested in, forcing farmers out of business or selling out our environment, in a gamble to establish bigger, better, faster business."

CARE stresses that Garrett County has had a freeway for over 20 years now. The county purchased land years ago for an industrial park right beside I-68 in Grantsville, but it has attracted only several small businesses. Vacant ground is still being farmed--for hay.

Speicher asks, "If freeways attract business, then 'Where's the beef' from I-68? They are claiming we don't have a good economy here, essentially because we don't have enough freeways. If you look at a map of Washington, D.C., it looks like freeway paradise. Why is D.C. bankrupt?"

One Grantsville resident who is not a member of CARE, Jack Caruthers, was asked what he thought of another freeway. He replied, "The same as Will Rogers: The only problem with progress is, there's too much of it."

Rogers is also credited for, "Buy land. They aren't making any more of it."

While conceding there are those, mostly in the business community, who want another freeway, CARE claims that many people are strongly opposed, but afraid to speak out. "America was built largely upon freedom of speech," Speicher said. "But when people ignore their freedoms, they are surrendering their children's future to the powers that be."

Member Larry Hensley added, "Once the devil (I-219) is out of the bag, our rural aesthetics and way of life will be gone forever. There will be no going back."

CARE invites all public feedback, regardless of perspective. Mail should be addressed to CARE, P.O. Box 780, Grantsville, MD 21536. All responses are kept confidential. Inquiries should include a stamped self-addressed envelope if a reply is requested.

All events are handicapped-accessible (persons should call for special needs). Guests are urged to purchase their tickets in advance as organizers expect full capacity audiences.

Further coverage of guest musicians will appear in next week's issue of The Republican.

DNR Announces

tinue through October 21. Legal shooting hours will be noon to sunset. The second split will open November 17 and continue until November 22. The third split will open December 22 and continue until January 3. Shooting hours during the second and third splits will be from a half-hour before sunrise until sunset. To enhance dove shooting opportunities, some public dove fields have restricted hours and days. The daily limit of doves is 12, with no more than 24 in possession after opening day.

In response to declining woodcock population numbers, the USFWS has reduced the allowable woodcock season frameworks. Woodcock season frameworks for the 1997-98 season were reduced from 45 days to 30 days, a major change. Timberdoodle populations have been declining for several years because of loss and degradation of habitat and below average recruitment. Restrictions to harvest are warranted at this time to bring hunting regulations in line with these long-term population declines. This change highlights the need for management action directed at improving the status of woodcock populations in the Atlantic flyway.

Maryland's woodcock season has traditionally been conducted under a split format and that will continue this year. The first portion of the season will start on Saturday, October 25, and continue through November 14. The second half of the season will be from January 2 until January 10. The daily bag limit for woodcock is three birds, with no more than six in possession after opening day.

Maryland's selected dates for king, clapper, sora, and Virginia rails is September 1 to November 8. Selected dates for snipe are September 17 to November 28 and December 15 to January 17. Shooting hours for woodcock, rails, and snipe are from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset.

Man Jailed For One Month After MDOP Conviction

A Mtn. Lake Park man will spend 30 days in jail after being convicted of malicious destruction of property in last week's Garrett County District Court proceedings.

Scott Allen Hebb, 19, was handed a 60-day sentence, 30 days of which were suspended. Hebb had been arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies in April at the residence of Gloria Sharps, when he had reportedly come to the door in a very intoxicated condition. Sharps was away at the time, and Hebb allegedly entered the apartment without the permission of the babysitter, who was looking after Sharps' and Hebb's child.

Court records stated that while Hebb was in the apartment, he grew angry after stumbling and broke a baby's electronic swing in an alleged fit of temper, then went into the bedroom and passed out on the bed. When Sharps returned home shortly afterwards, she called the sheriff's office, and deputies reportedly found Hebb still asleep on the bed.

Additional charges of fourth-degree burglary and disorderly conduct against Hebb were not prosecuted by the state's attorneys office.

In other recent district court news, an Accident man was sentenced for violating an ex parte order requiring him to stay away from another individual.

Jeffrey Marc Priapi, 24, was handed a 30-day sentence, half of which was suspended, after being arrested by sheriff's deputies in June at the home of Tonya Hook, where Priapi was found arguing with her over his name still appearing on the lease. Priapi faced additional charges of two counts of second-degree assault, which were not prosecuted.

John Austin Hubbard, 30, Thomas, W.Va., was convicted of DWI and fined $155, given a 30-day suspended sentence, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 30 hours of community service.

A charge of second-degree assault against William Thomas Sachs, 37, Deer Park, was placed onto the stet docket. The charge stemmed from his December 1996 arrest by sheriff's deputies after allegedly striking his 17-year-old son. An additional charge of child abuse was not prosecuted.

A sentence revision was granted to Johnny Jason Thomas, 36, Loch Lynn. He had been sentenced to 30 days in jail as a result of his mid-July conviction for being intoxicated and endangering the safety of a subject at the Loch Lynn residence they shared. Thomas' sentence was revised to reflect the time he had already served, and he was released from jail.

Not guilty verdicts were passed in the hearings of both William Reed Wilt, 34, and Roger J. Tilgner, 41, both of Grantsville. Each man faced a charge of second-degree assault upon the other, stemming from a physical altercation between the two in June.

Frank Russell Smith, 42, Oakland, was found not guilty of one count of second-degree assault and one count of obstructing and hindering a police officer attempting to carry out his lawful duties. This past June, Smith had allegedly physically interfered with deputies as they arrested another subject in connection with a fight at his residence.

Tommy Hinebaugh, 36, Friendsville, was found not guilty of a charge of second-degree assault, stemming from his June arrest by sheriff's deputies after an altercation at Ken's Tavern in Friendsville.

SALES OF ALCOHOL TO MINORS

Several people came before the district court recently on charges of selling beer to a person under the legal drinking age of 21, resulting from a May sting by the Maryland State Police.

Each defendant pleaded guilty, and each was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ) by the judge, and placed on one day of unsupervised probation.

The defendants were: Sharon Louise Wilson, 29, Oakland, employed at the Mtn. Lake Park IGA store; John Wayne Rank, 21, Mtn. Lake Park, employed at the BFS Food Store in Mtn. Lake Park; James Edward Spiker, 42, Grantsville, employed at the Slopeside Market, McHenry; Shelly Lee Cannon, 23, Oakland, employed at the Oakland Country Club; Sherry Renee Hetz, 25, Grantsville, employed at Chestnut Ridge Liquors, Grantsville; Colleen Angella Bruner, 60, Grantsville, employed at Bruner's Service Center, south of Grantsville; Susan Anne Brenneman, 57, Accident, employed at Brenneman's Store, south of Bittinger; and Rebecca Anne Paugh, 31, Friendsville, employed at Ken's Tavern, Friendsville.

DAVA MEMBERS PRESENT PATRIOTIC PROGRAM - Members of the Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary (DAVA) Mt. Top Unit #29 recently present patriotic programs for the clients at several senior care facilities in the county. The program included poems and other readings as well as music. This photo was taken at the Mountain Glade Adult Medical Day Care Center in Oakland. In the front are Janet Friend, commander, and Jack Rolf, client. Standing left to right are Vida McCrobie, Wilda Sanders (Americanism chairperson), Clara Gauer, Stacy Friend with Todd, Sharon Everett (adjutant) with Tiffany, and Lawrence Hanlin, client. at $150.

A vehicle parked along Sang Run Road while its owner was attending a class reunion at the Sang Run Pavilion was broken into on Saturday, July 26. Stolen was a Vivitar 35-millimeter camera, worth $150.

The Uno's parking lot was the scene of another theft from a car this past Wednesday night, Aug. 5. A wallet and a duffle bag containing clothing was taken from an employee's vehicle in a crime similar to the one there the night before.

Detective Clark Warnick of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office encouraged the public to take the proper precautions when leaving a vehicle unoccupied. "Always lock the doors whenever parking a vehicle," he advised, "and try to park in an area that's in the open in public view, not in some secluded spot where thieves may feel more secure in attempting to carry out a theft from the vehicle."

Continuing, Warnick warned that "citizens should never leave wallets, purses, and other valuables in their cars. If it's absolutely necessary to do so, make sure valuables are locked in the trunk or somewhere else secure and out of plain sight," he said.

deputy's report, Devon Diana Mayne, 18, her husband, John Mayne, and their young son reside at the residence with her mother, Eva Sweitzer.

The incident was reportedly touched off when the young boy allegedly poked his father on the arm, and John Mayne reportedly responded by kicking the boy in the chest. Devon Mayne, the boy's mother, then allegedly slapped the boy for bothering his father. At that point, the report states, Eva Sweitzer, who had witnessed the entire affair as it unfolded, slapped Devon Mayne, her daughter, for hitting the boy. A physical altercation between the mother and daughter ensued, and Devon Mayne allegedly hit her mother several times with a closed fist and scratched her.

Sheriff's deputies arrested Devon Mayne, charging her with second-degree assault. She was subsequently released on her own recognizance. No charges were filed against her mother or her husband.

An argument between two men at a residence in the 1200 block of Walnut Bottom Road ended in the arrest of Ronald Wayne Warnick, 26, Swanton, on a charge of failing to obey a lawful order from a deputy. He had allegedly been arguing with his sister's boyfriend, and persisted in the deputy's presence even though warned not to. Warnick was subsequently released on his own recognizance.

Miss Gaskins Becomes Bride Of Mr. Bell During June Ceremony

Marla Lynn Gaskins and William Scott Bell were united in marriage June 28, 1997. The double-ring ceremony was performed at the Blue Marlin Room by the Rev. Harry Weir.

The bride is the daughter of Oris and Mary Gaskins, Waldorf. Mr. Bell is the son of Carolyn M. Bell, Deep Creek Lake, and the late Howard Scott Bell.

Given in marriage by her family and escorted by her father, the bride wore a designer gown by Oleg Cassini of satin and embroidered lace accented with tiny hand-beaded pearls. She wore a matching headpiece borrowed from Wendy Anvari, a close friend and bridesmaid. The bride also wore pearl earrings and necklace, a gift from the groom's mother, which were given to her by the late Howard Bell.

Serving as maid of honor was Shelly Gaskins, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Wendy Anvari, Hughsville, and Tracy Jones of Mechanicsville. Flower girl was Lora Davis, Greensburg, Pa., cousin of the bride. Ring bearer was Allen Patrick Payne, Snow Hill. Serving as best man was Samuel C. Bell, brother of the groom, Indian Head. Groomsmen were Pete Ross, Bowie, and Mike Hall, Colonial Beach, Va.

The reception was also held at the Blue Marlin Room, which was decorated in white and navy blue by the bride. Table centerpieces were also designed by the bride. Bouquets for the bride and wedding party were designed by Vogel's Florist and consisted of yellow roses and carnations. A dozen yellow roses arranged in a crystal vase was placed at the head table in memory of the groom's father. Photography was done by Wes Boyd, former student of the bride.

Following a honeymoon trip to Hawaii, the couple established residence in their new home in Mechanicsville.

The bride is a graduate of Thomas Stone High School, Waldorf, and Frostburg State University, with a B.S. degree in art education. She teaches art at St. Mary's Ryken High School in Leonardtown.

Mr. Bell is a 1988 graduate of Southern Garrett High School. He is employed as an assistant manager for Mr. Tire Auto Service Center in Clinton.

Miss Fisher Marries Mr. Segar In Outdoor Morning Ceremony

Rebecca Sue Fisher and Thomas Christopher Segar were united in marriage on the morning of May 31. The double-ring ceremony was held at the Turning Point Inn of Frederick (Md.), with Reverend Jan Bye officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Donna Sue Fisher, Friendsville, and is a graduating senior at the University of Maryland at College Park, where she is earning a bachelor's degree in secondary science education.

The groom is the son of Wyetter and Daniel Segar, Hanover, and is currently employed as a residence director at Shippensburg University of Pennsylvania, where he is completing his master's degree in student affairs. He is a 1996 graduate of the University of Maryland at College Park, where he earned a bachelor of science degree in psychology and a certificate in Afro-American studies.

Blessed in marriage by her mother, the bride wore a dress designed by Alfred Angelo, which featured a square neckline and a full back with three large rosettes along the waist line. The taffeta bodice was fitted with a full skirt and a short train. A matching short-sleeved, tatted jacket worn over the dress was enhanced with roses and hand-sewn pearls, and buttoned up the back. She wore a matching head piece, featuring pearls, and an attached waist-length veil. The bride carried a bouquet of white roses, carnations, ivy, and baby's breath.

Serving as maid of honor was Stephanie Laura Fisher, sister of the bride. The flower girl was Ashley Kay Clemens, goddaughter of the groom.

Serving as the best man was Randall Deon Evans, friend of the groom. Ring bearer was Joseph Randal Heath Jr., cousin of the bride.

The wedding was held in the rose garden at 10:30 in the morning, immediately followed by the reception, which was held on the veranda of the inn. Floral arrangements were crafted by Christa Sandelier, Shippensburg, Pa. A three-tiered, heart shaped marble cake, iced with white rosettes, was baked by Tiers of Joy, Rockville. Disc jockey services were provided by Doug Stiefel of Sounds Unlimited and photography services were provided by William and Beverly McNulty from Hershey, Pa. The wedding was coordinated by Irvin McQueen of the Turning Point Inn.

FRIENDSVILLE DAYS began Saturday's festivities on a gray and wet note. But spirits were not dampened as faithful friends and family members gathered for the parade. Above, left, Brian, Corey, and Andy Sebold kept dry enough while waiting for the start of the parade. As the music sounded, and the procession began, the rain dwindled to sprinkles. Grand Marshal for the event, the current Miss Maryland, Jamie Lynn Fox, looked happy in the photo above center for the change in weather as she greeted those along the route. Smiling because prayers had been answered, Spencer Schlosnagle mayor of Friendsville, right top, waved to everyone along the route. A covered wagon sponsored by S&S Market, right center, was one of the many floats in the parade. The children pictured bottom right were enjoying the festivities in the town park. Here they are seen waiting for their turns to bounce and jump in the tent. There were games and food and music. The Northern High School Band, pictured below, added a bright note to the gray parade day. The day ended with the sound and lights of fireworks. Photos by Peggy Santamaria

Imagine, if you will, Mother and Father and an assortment of siblings piling into this shiny new motorcar on a Sunday afternoon. Picnic hamper and Grandpa and Grandma in tow, they hungrily headed for a grassy slope or the velvet moss of a riverbank. The day was set aside for togetherness.

Today, cars are smaller and more numerous. There is one for Mother, one for Father, and if the children are old enough to drive there may be more...each heading in different directions. Togetherness is less frequent in the family of today. Is there a time when the family can head in the same direction?

Yes, each week we can set aside time to attend our chosen house of worship as a family. This relatively short time can carry us through a week of daily separations to unite the family through the love of God. Life is not a ride in the country for the family of today. At least let God pave the way.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

A MUTUAL-STIRRING SOCIETY

August 10, 1997

Background Scripture:
Hebrews 10:19-39
Devotional Reading:
1 Corinthians 1:1-10

Is your church a mutual-stirring society?

Since retiring from the staff of the First United Methodist Church in Dallas, TX where I served the last 13 years of my ministry, I have taken the opportunity to attend a variety of churches and denominations. All too often, my wife and I did not find very stirring experiences. Some of these services seem to be planned so that no one runs the risk of being stirred to do anything—including coming back the following Sunday.

Among the 20 definitions of the word stir in my dictionary I found: "to rouse from inactivity, quiet contentment, indifference, etc.;" "to incite, instigate or prompt;" "to affect strongly; excite;" "to be emotionally moved or strongly affected;" and even "a jog, poke or thrust."

I know that sometimes being stirred—or not—is in the eye of the beholder and being stirred is not all there is to a service of worship. Still, it seems to me that a worship service that does not stir us in some way is not likely to motivate us to live as followers of Jesus Christ.

LOVE AND GOOD WORKS

The writer of Hebrews thinks so: "let us consider how to stir up one another to love and good works..." (10:24). As followers of Jesus we have a responsibility, not only to live fruitful, loving lives, but also to motivate others to do the same.

There have been many times when I have walked into a beautiful cathedral and been inspired by what I found there. But that is a very limited experience and spiritually not all that the Church is meant to be. Our experience of God, whether in a cathedral, shrine, outdoor setting or the privacy of our own room, is meant to be helpful to others as well as ourselves. We are intended by God to be a fellowship in which we inspire each other to live more faithfully as disciples of Christ. In other words: a mutual-stirring society.

Research indicates that, on the average, women are better able to survive the loss of a mate than men. The reason? Women tend to have more supportive relationships than men. Twenty years ago when we did our research for a book on breast cancer (You CAN Save Your Breast:, Valere & Larry Althouse, W.W. Norton), we found that studies indicated that breast cancer victims who joined support groups recuperated faster from surgery and radiation and with fewer and less severe complications. Alcoholics Anonymous has demonstrated admirable success as a healing support group for alcoholics. As one who has conducted grief support groups, I have observed very often that the bereaved are often helped most by those who have experienced grief themselves. In life, all of us are wounded healers.

SPIRITUAL SUPPORT GROUP

The church is called to be a vital support group for all of us who are committed to living as disciples of Jesus. So, it is to be measured not solely by what we can get out of it, but also by what we can put into it. We need to find support there to help us in our daily living and we need to give support to our fellow disciples. The writer of Hebrews warns against "neglecting to meet together, as is the habit of some, but encouraging one another" (10:25). Neglecting to meet together as a church deprives us and others of support that is so vital to our lives. Often the greatest gift we can offer someone else is encouragement.

G. Ernest Thomas tells of a preacher in a village in Scotland who went to the home of one of his members. This member had recently declared to his friends that he did not have to go to church on the Sabbath because he could find God just as well in his garden or in the fields. The minister and parishioner sat in silence before a fireplace. After a while, the preacher arose and, taking the tongs from the firepiace, lifted a single coal from the embers and placed it alone on the hearth. Soon the coal burned into a black ash while the fire continued to burn brightly. Then he went quietly back to his chair. In time the parishioner said, "I know what you mean. I cannot live alone. Next Sunday I'll be at my place in the church."

COVER STORY

Walters brings fresh perspective to The View

By Teresa Ortega

Barbara Walters

Barbara Walters, whose groundbreaking career in television began years ago on NBC's Today, returns to daytime TV this week with the new, hour-long, female-oriented The View. Airing weekdays on ABC, the entertainment, talk and informational program is hosted by Walters and four other women.

The View combines celebrity interviews, reports from experts and lively discussions of personal issues, news and events of the day. "I want this to be informative, but I want it to be fun," says Walters, who also serves as co-executive producer of the show.

The broadcast attempts to capture the intimate manner in which women relate to each other and addresses, in Walters' own words, "the kind of things that women would talk about" if they gathered in their own homes for a lunch-time chat. The mood is expected to range from light to serious, with topics covering the worlds of fashion, health, entertainment, family and "all the different things that are happening that affect people," Walters says.

To bring an atmosphere of ease and spontaneity to The View, Walters has assembled a multigenerational group of professionally accomplished women, all previously known to TV audiences. Besides being knowledgeable and amusing conversationalists, they also have compelling personal lives. The panelists are Meredith Vieira, chief correspondent of Turning Point, who serves as an informal moderator; legal analyst Star Jones; Debbie Matenopoulos, guest host of MTV's The Week in Rock; and comic Joy Behar, who is taking turns with Walters as the fourth panelist.

Walters believes the varied life experiences of the show's panelists – such as Matenopoulos' struggle to pay off a $46,000 student loan, and Vieira's attempt to balance a career and motherhood – will connect with viewers. "I think the audience will begin to feel that they know these four women," Walters says. "Most viewers don't know very much about my personal life; they'll know a little bit more when they see this program."

Because Walters wanted the show to be "as representative of our audience as we could," she chose a panel ranging in age from 22-year-old Matenopoulos to herself. "There are things that Debbie feels being 22 years old that are very different from the way I feel," Walters says. "It's a totally different experience. She uses expressions, for example, that I'm unfamiliar with – and I know I've said sometimes, 'We need subtitles!' "

Because of her previous commitment to ABC's 20/20, Walters will initially appear on the show three days a week, later cutting back to two – and because her schedule is so hectic, nobody knows exactly which three days she is expected to participate. In addition to the four panelists, each show features a celebrity guest who joins the panel for what Walters calls "regular conversation." Monday's scheduled guest is Tom Selleck.

"This is a program we hope will inform and hope will entertain," Walters says. Certainly with Walters at the helm, The View promises to be a stimulating midday alternative and a program well worth checking out.

Days of Our Lives needs to pick up the pace

Tricia Cast

Dear Candace: I've been a faithful Days of Our Lives fan for more years than I can remember, but lately I have become disgusted with the show. The story lines have slowed to a crawl.

I believe new writers would breathe new life into the stories and hold our interest better.

I have other friends who were faithful Days watchers, but they have given up on the show.

Maybe if enough people stop watching, the producers will do something about it. –J.E., New Bern, N.C.

Dear Reader: Your wish has come true: Days has new writers.

Many of the current story lines are in the process of being tied up with neat little bows.

Dear Candace: Will Ryan and Nina (Scott Reeves, Tricia Cast) ever get back together on The Young and the Restless? Ryan is throwing away his marriage so he can chase after Tricia (Sabryn Genet).

As for Hope (Signy Coleman), send her back to the farm; she's too smug where Kurt (Leigh J. McCloskey) is concerned. –M. Brown, Roswell, N.M.

Dear Reader: Ryan is half-heartedly trying to work things out.

The good news is Nina and Ryan's marriage will generate a very moving story line in which Nina hopefully will find the inner strength and security she always has needed.

Fans' feelings about pairing Hope with Kurt are mixed. Some fans think it is a great idea; others think he belongs with Ashley (Shari Shattuck).

Dear Candace: I would like to know what happened to John Beradino, who played Dr. Steve Hardy on General Hospital.

I used to correspond with him, and he even sent me pictures of his family.

Also, I haven't seen Jessie Brewer (Emily McLaughlin) in a long time.

Could you please tell me what happened to these wonderful actors? –M. Messelling, Hamilton, Ohio.

Dear Reader: Sadly, both actors, who were original cast members, are dead.

Beradino died last year; McLaughlin passed away several years ago.

Malik Yoba

Q: What are they going to do with New York Undercover? Two of the main characters were killed in the season finale. Will the show be canceled, or is it returning with different characters? –Christine P. in St. Petersburg, Fla.

A: The show will return on Fox next year as a midseason replacement. Actor Malik Yoba, who saw co-star Michael DeLorenzo written out in last season's finale, is so upset about the changes to come that, at this writing, he was trying to end or alter his contract.
